Well, John D. Won.
Now, Therefore, I.
Alone at Last.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., wins his fight in the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and Col. Stewart is defeated.

There have been few more bitter fights in the history of high finance.

ON TUESDAY, John H. Perry, learned editor of Reading, Pa., Jacksonville, Fla., and other places, predicting the Indiana result, said:

"It is hard to fight dollars. In fact, you can't do it."

He added as an afterthought:

"It is absolutely impossible to fight dollars when they happen to be right."

Col. Coblentz, of San Francisco and New York, remarked:

"To the victor belong the oils."

COL. STEWART, bidding farewell to Standard Oil of Indiana, and probably preparing to run some other big oil company, had the satisfaction of reporting financial success for 1928.

In the last year Standard Oil of Indiana has earned more than $83,000,000 profit, or 16.76 per cent on its capital. Earnings of the company increased more than $50,000,000, as compared with 1927.

PRESIDENT HOOVER, who summons the extra session of Congress to meet on April 15, is not an emotional man. But he must have been moved on writing the words, "Now, therefore, I, Herbert Hoover, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim and declare," etc.

After you have done farm chores as a small boy there must be considerable satisfaction in writing, "Now, therefore, I, President."

ON APRIL 15 farmers will have their day and Congress will tell them, if it can, how to put a disorganized industry on a substantial, paying basis.

NO MANUFACTURER could make his plant pay, if he had to close down all winter. The farmer must do that, and it is part of the problem.

Henry Ford's plan to expedite farming operations with more farm machinery and build factories in which the farmer can work in winter time might help.

LEAVING his house yesterday morning for his old law office, where he worked for several hours, Mr. Coolidge may have said, like the bride and groom, "Alone at last."

At his front door there was not a photographer in sight, not a reporter to ask how he had slept, how he planned to earn a living. That has not happened in a long time.

MR. COOLIDGE will be pleased to hear of the intense public interest in his magazine writings. His first installment for the April Cosmopolitan Magazine has gone on sale, and Ray Long, editor of Cosmopolitan, sends word that sales and public interest are extraordinary.

CANADIAN Indians returning from the headwaters of the Attawapiska River in Northern Ontario, left behind the frozen body of a white man, "standing bolt upright on snowshoes."

His body will be brought in next spring.

THAT a man should be frozen stiff in his tracks is startling. But such "extreme cold" is comparatively not cold at all.

If sudden calamity swept our protecting atmosphere from the earth's surface, bringing the earth in contact with outer space at absolute zero, oceans, lakes and rivers would be frozen solid, and all the 1,600,000,000 human beings on earth would instantly become so many frozen statues.

WE SHOULD be grateful for the air, protecting us from outer cold, from meteors, and grateful for all the other marvelous arrangements for our comfort that we owe to a kind providence, especially for our marvelous vasomotor, heat regulating system.

THE French government will not permit Trotzky to enter France. But Trotzky should not complain. "Turn about is fair play."

When he was in command of the Russian army, Trotzky kept the French, British and others from entering Russia.

Perhaps he wonders now why he took the trouble to do it.

STREET car unions in New York know that it is impossible to make a strike successful with the subways operating. Interference underground is difficult, and escape from the subway, after interference, is actually impossible.

REVOLUTIONISTS in Mexico discover, that to make a revolution successful against flying machines is difficult. To strike your deadly blow and retire to the mountains is not convenient, when flying machines overtake you on the way, or get there ahead and wait for you with bombs, machine gunfire and poison gas.

POLICE CHIEF BOMBED AT BEAVER FALLS

BLUE LAW DELAYS FOUGHT

HARRISBURG, March 8.—An effort to force the House Committee on Law and Order to organize for the session and act on bills in its possession is being planned by legislators supporting bills for Sunday amusements it was learned today.

The committee has reserved 24 bills bearing on Sunday "Blue Laws," liquor, horse racing and theaters. Thus far the committee has not met this session, and without a meeting to consider the bills, none can reach the floor of the House for a vote.

MAY MEET NEXT WEEK

The committee is headed by Mrs. Ella C. Adams, of Uniontown, only woman committee chairman of the House. In response to inquiries from members of the House, this week, she said a meeting of her committee may be called for next week.

If the meeting is not held during the coming week, the members backing bills for a more lenient Sunday plan to present a resolution in the House demanding the committee meet and consider the bills.

COMMITTEE RURAL

The committee has 40 members, with a majority from rural districts. Because of this, it is regarded as unlikely that the bills of a wet nature or "dangerous to public morals," can receive a favorable report from the committee.

Several of the bills before the committee propose amendment of the Sunday "blue laws" of 1794 or provide for district referendum on allowing sports and amusements at certain hours on Sunday. Another bill would permit Sunday fishing.

Several bills affecting liquor law, including a repealer of all state prohibition acts, are in the committee files. Two make it illegal to make, have or drink cider, and permit justices of the peace to have final jurisdiction in liquor cases in which the defendant was caught with one quart or less of the prohibited beverage.

Warmer Weather On Way Here; Rivers Fall

The unseasonable March frigidity will give way to warmer weather with snow or rain, predicted for tomorrow, according to Forecaster W. S. Brotzman.

The stage of the rivers at the Point was 20 feet at 1 p. m. today and falling slowly.

A low temperature of 17 was recorded at the weather bureau this morning, five degrees above the record minimum for this date. In the suburbs the mercury ranged from 12 to 16.

HUGE STEWART, SINCLAIR OIL POOL LIKELY

NEW YORK, March 8.—(INS.)—Formation of a gigantic oil concern by a combination of the Sinclair and Stewart interests rivaling the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, from which the fighting colonel was ousted yesterday by forces of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was seen in Wall Street todays as the result of the turn of events in the affairs of the Rockefeller-controlled Indiana company.

Through joint operation of the Sinclair Pipe Line Company and the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company, Harry F. Sinclair and Robert W. Stewart have been closely associated in the petroleum industry in recent years. Pooling their interests and the probable inclusion of two or three more large independent oil concerns in a new $750,000,000 combination may be the next important move in the oil world, according to well-informed financial circles.

Standard of Indiana Stock Loses Ground

NEW YORK, March 8.—(INS.)—In the wake of the famous "proxy" fight, stock of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana opened in a quiet market today at $86¼ a share, down a quarter of a point from the previous close. More than a month and a half ago the stock recorded a record high price of $103¼ a share on reports that Rockefeller and Stewart factions were battling for control of the stock in the open market.

DRY RAIDS THOUGHT CAUSE

BEAVER FALLS, March 8.—Windows in four houses were shattered early today when a dynamite bomb, placed under the front porch of the home of Police Chief William Davidson, long active in liquor raids, exploded.

None of the home's occupants was injured.

The porch of the house at 3011 College avenue was demolished. An 18-foot retaining wall saved Chief Davidson, his wife, Margaret, and six other persons from injury.

NEARBY WINDOWS BROKEN

Every window in the home of Frank Parthington at 3013 College avenue was shattered.

On the other side, only two windows in the residence of Miss Minnie Long, were left intact.

Windows in the home of William George, across the street, were shattered also.

ACTIVE IN DRY RAIDS

Chief Davidson has been active against bootleggers and numerous resorts in Beaver Falls. He ascribed the outrage to enemies made in raids conducted or ordered by him.

The terrific jar awoke students in Geneva College dormitories across the way.

Besides Chief and Mrs. Davidson, the home, at the time of the explosion was occupied by his two sons, William Jr., and Harry; his daughter-in-law, Mrs. William Davidson, Jr., his grandchild, Margaret, 4, his daughter, Mrs. Charles Coast, and Mr. Coast.

Harris, Oscar Wilde's Friend, Near Death

NICE, France, March 8.—(AP.)—Frank Harris, Irish - American author and biographer and friend of Oscar Wilde, is reported to be critically ill with influenza.

Imitating his friend, Bernard Shaw, Harris at first refused medical attention. Doctors who now have been called in, imply that they may have been called too late.

Harris is 77 years old.

RUTH TIMMONS

CHARLESTON IN SCHOOL O. K.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., March 8.—The Charleston is not so bad, the White Oak School District Board has decided, and Miss Ruth Timmons, 18, will keep her job as teacher there.

If the three R's had been all that Miss Timmons, Muskingum graduate, taught, affairs in this most rural of rural districts would have been peaceful enough. But Miss Timmons couldn't keep her feet still—and, as she told the board, "the children just picked it up." So the parents had her suspended for teaching her pupils to Charleston.

After three hours' trial at the school, with even grandparents in attendance, the board decided that the Charleston was, after all, something of a folk dance and certainly a form of physical education.

So today Ruth is back at her desk with her 18 scholars.

Justice Holmes, 88, Gets Felicitations

WASHINGTON, March 8.—(AP.)—Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes received the congratulations of his associates of the Supreme Court and other friends today on his eighty-eighth birthday.

BULLETS RAIN ON AMERICAN SIDE; U. S. GUNS GUARD TEXAN BORDER

Cabinet Meets With Hoover and Gets Reports on Situation in Mexico.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—(INS.)—President Hoover met with the cabinet today for the first time to find his administration already confronted with several new problems of a most important and pressing nature.

The new departmental chiefs were most chary about discussing their meeting as they left the White House, but with revolution raging in Mexico and American forces mobilized along the border, it was assumed the session took on larger proportions than is usually the case at the outset of an administration.

Secretary of War Good carried reports on the mobilization of troops, planes, artillery and armored cars along the border, ready to invade Mexico should the lives of American nationals become endangered.

Frank B. Kellogg, the veteran secretary of state, who is holding over until Henry L. Stimson arrives from the Philippines, went to the meeting with last minute reports on the situation in Juarez, where fighting has started, with some of the bullets finding their way across the Rio Grande into El Paso, Tex.

He also had with him the request of Mexican Ambassador Tellez for a permit to ship arms and munitions into Mexico for use of the federal forces.

Dead and Wounded Pile Up in Streets as Federals Defend Border City.

EL PASO, Tex., March 8.—(AP.)—Streets of Juarez were reddened with blood today as Mexican rebel forces entered that border town and fiercely attacked and defeated the defending federal troops.

A stray shot from Juarez wounded an American boy in El Paso. His name is Louis Chaves, 6. Several American automobiles were struck by bullets from the Mexican side. In one El Paso home a bullet crashed through a window. No one was reported hurt besides the boy.

TRUCE SEEN SURRENDER

A truce was called today when the commanders of the revolutionary and Federal armies conferred on the international bridge with Brig. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley of the American Army. This was believed equivalent to a surrender by the Mexican government forces.

Ramos previously had refused permission to Gen. Moseley to enter Juarez and confer with the rebel forces to whom Moseley wished to issue a warning against firing into the United States. It is believed Ramos feared Moseley might be struck by a stray bullet.

PROTECT AMERICANS

The only action taken by American soldiers in regard to fighting in Juarez will be "precautionary measures to protect Americans on this side of the Rio Grande in case their lives are endangered by flying bullets," Brig. Gen. Moseley said in a statement today.

"The troops we have on the border are only the members of the provost guard and four armored motor cars," his statement continued. "We have not taken any action, nor do we expect to unless Americans are endangered."

Mayor R. E. Thomason, of El Paso, heartily indorsed the action of Gen. Moseley.

The losses of the rebels, whose combined forces at the outset numbered some 2,000 men, were believed to have been heavy.

As the attackers mopped up the town, only two federal snipers with machine guns were known to be left.

One was stationed atop the old battle-scarred Mission Church. A rapid criss-cross fire from the belfry held up the rebel cavalry advance temporarily.

SEWICKLEYITE FLEES MEXICO

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, March 8.—The exodus of Americans from Mexico yesterday included Mrs. Nelvia E. Ritchie, of Sewickley, Pa., one of a party of four who flew from Mexico City to this town because of the emergency caused by the Mexican revolution.

Mrs. Ritchie, wife of A. B. Ritchie, passenger agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad in Pittsburgh, had been giving Christian Science lectures in Mexico. She planned to reach her home Tuesday.

The air service was inaugurated two days ahead of schedule.

Muscle Shoals Veto Up to Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, March 8.—(AP.)—Attorney General Mitchell will appear in the Supreme Court Monday to argue the government's side of the pocket veto upon the outcome of which will determine whether the pocket veto of the Muscle Shoals bill by President Coolidge was legal.

The case to be argued concerns the pocket veto of an Indian bill, but the decision on the case will affect 120 similar vetoes which have been given bills between sessions of Congress.

Philadelphia Girl Pay Clerk Held Up

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—(AP.)—While one man waited at the steering wheel of an automobile, two others leaped from the car and snatched a satchel containing a payroll of $400 from Gladys G. Jones, 20, a bookkeeper for a branch of the H. B. Smith Company, manufacturers of plumbing fixtures. She was carrying the payroll from a trust company.

FIVE OVERCOME BY GAS FUMES

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., March 8.—Five persons, including a physician, were overcome by carbon monoxide fumes from a defective furnace early today in the home of J. Guy Griffith, of Mt. Vernon, Parnassus.

Dr. R. A. Wolff, of New Kensington, called at 2 a. m. to treat Mr. and Mrs. Griffith, who were overcome, also swooned from the fumes. The other victims were Mrs. L. M. Shaffer and William H. Cooper, neighbors of the Griffiths.

Mrs. Shaffer's husband alone escaped the fumes and when Dr. Wolff was overcome he called outside aid.

Westmoreland Wires Blown Down by Gale

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 8.—For the second time within two days, telephone and electric power company crews have been called out to combat another serious snowstorm which assumed gale proportions in the outlying districts of Westmoreland county. Lines and poles are down in the Greensburg, New Alexandria, Derry and Blairsville districts, and it is expected that several days will be required to repair damage.

Plane Afire in Air, Three Die in Crash

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 8.—(AP.)—Jesse Windham, chief pilot at the local airport, and two other aviators, were burned to death at Oakland, Miss., today, when their plane caught fire in the air and crashed.

Reports received here listed the other victims as Bill Daniel and Morgan Ferrell. Daniels and Ferrell were both pilots. Windham and Daniel lived in Memphis and Ferrell at Greenwood, Miss.

Schooner Wrecked, 5 in Crew Rescued

POLICEMEN'S TRANSFUSION OFFER FAILS TO SAVE BABY

Tommy Flaherty, 2, is dead.

Over the police station tickers the word went out today to 1,000 policemen watching the progress in the illness of the baby of a brother officer, John Flaherty, of North Side Station, who lives at 413 McKee place, Oakland.

A score of policemen had volunteered to give their blood for transfusion when physicians told the father last week that it might save his life.

Patrolman John Greeney, who works out of Squirrel Hill Station, was among the first to answer the plea for blood after relatives were told theirs would not suit. He took the test at the Children's Hospital and was ordered to "stand by."

But he was never needed.

Tommy died suddenly. He awoke at 7 o'clock and asked for a "dink of water." The nurse went out to get it. When she came back to the small bed, Tommy was dead.

NOTED LAWYERS PRAISE DRIVE TO CUT TAX ON EARNINGS

B. & O. GETS B. R. & P. IN TRADE

NEW YORK, March 8.—(AP.)—Two important moves designed to speed up and facilitate the grouping of eastern railroads into the "four party plan" were effected yesterday.

Control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad was acquired from the New York Central and Baltimore and Ohio Railroads by the Allegheny Corporation, an investment trust controlled by the Van Sweringen interests, which, in turn, sold its controlling interest in the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway to the Baltimore and Ohio.

Both transactions were made on the basis of cost plus carrying charges, and subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

FOLLOWS REVISED PLANS

This new grouping follows the lines of the revised consolidation plans recently submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Baltimore and Ohio and Van Sweringen systems. The New York Central has not yet filed its plan, but the fact that it consented to the sale of its Wheeling stock indicated that the road approved these new groupings. It is understood that arrangements will be worked out whereby the New York Central will obtain from the Baltimore and Ohio a small part of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh lines which it desires to complete its system in Northern New York. Officials of the Pennsylvania have not yet indicated when their consolidation plan would be filed.

the largest in the so-called independent oil field, with assets of close to $400,000,000. The Phillips Petroleum Company, mentioned in the merger rumors, has $150,000,000 assets, and the Skelly Oil Company close to $100,000,000. The Amalgamated Company will be rounded out with two or three strategically located producing, pipe line, refining and retail distributing companies.

At the office of the Sinclair Company, comment was refused on the subject, but in other quarters it was said that important announcements dealing with the new line-up of the oil leaders might be made within a week or two.

NEW DIRECTORS NAMED

Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, and Dr William M. Burton former president of the Indiana Corporation, were elected to the board of directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana yesterday when forces of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., by a 2 to 1 victory, ousted Col. Stewart from the board chairmanship at the annual election held at Whiting, Ind.

Two other new directors, promoted from the ranks of the company, were elected. They are Thomas S. Cook, of the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Company, and Dr Gentry Cash, manager of the Whiting Refinery.

Although Col. Stewart is said to have been granted a pension of $75,000 a year, the office of Edward Seubert, president and directing head of the company stated it was not known whether or not Stewart would receive this reported pension.

Seubert's secretary said it was not known at this time whether or not Col. Stewart would receive the reported pension in the event he accepted a position with another corporation.

Three Men Fined, As "Auto Sheiks"

"'Auto sheiks' and 'curbstone lizards' will find no sympathy here," declared Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court today as he tagged $10 fines on three young men accused of annoying women pedestrians on the North Side last night.

The defendants were listed as Carl Schindel, 25, of 2101 Frederick street; Irwin Hubbard, 20, of Kirkbride street, and Ray Brown, 24, of 828 Grant avenue.

Cleans Up Laundries, Gets 3 Years in Prison

When he pleaded guilty to robbing 11 Chinese laundries and two stores during a period of four months last year, James Dixon, alias Will Leonard, 48, Negro, of Fullerton street, was sentenced to from three to six years in the penitentiary today by Judge James B. Drew.

A special train carrying five cars containing exhibits from the state of Wisconsin and 150 men and women interested in the promotion of Wisconsin farm and dairy products stopped over in Pittsburgh yesterday on the return trip of a tour through the south. Exhibited in the forest conservation car, these deer in the death lock were found thus in the Wisconsin woods and mounted.

MEXICAN REVOLT GRAVE, SAYS BEALS, VISITOR HERE

The revolution in Mexico is a formidable one and has brought that nation face to face with a grave crisis. That is the opinion of Carleton Beals, American authority on Mexico, who is now visiting Pittsburgh.

"The revolt is the most serious since the Carranza uprising of 1914, resulting in the overthrow of the Huerta regime," Beals declared. He added:

"Unless it is speedily put down, it may embrace additional areas and disaffected elements and bring about a long period of rebellion and disorder, lasting, perhaps, for years."

MILITARY CAUSES

The underlying cause of the rebellion, according to Beals, is resentment of military chieftains in various states, particularly in the northern state of Sonora, over the manner in which ex-President P. Elias Calles has wielded the powers of government at the expense of the military leaders' prestige.

"The controversy between the state and the Catholic church," Beals said "will play a minor part in the revolt."

U. S. STAND "DANGEROUS"

Asked about the part taken by the United States in permitting shipment of arms to the constitutional government, Beals said:

"The United States set a dangerous precedent when it first permitted the shipment of arms to Obregon, although that was the best practical thing to do at the time."

Beals spoke yesterday at a luncheon of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom at the Congress of Women's Clubs, with George Seibel, dramatic and literary editor of the Sun-Telegraph, presiding. Beals was the guest during his visit of Mrs. Joseph Schutzman, 5507 Wilkins avenue.

MEXICAN WAR MODERN

EL PASO, Tex., March 8.—(AP.)—Whether the present revolution in Mexico is climaxed with success, a new era of rebel conduct of war has been ushered into the tumultuous nation below the Rio Grande.

Under competent military leaders the present revolution to all appearances in the north sector at least, is moving with military precision, with synchronization of effort and with fighting on a modern scale.

Machine guns operated by experienced gunners are being employed; rebel troops have abandoned the old mass attack and now wage war by infiltration. Tactical maneuvering is employed to gain strategic points and the rebel troops are, in general, better equipped than ever before in the history of revolutionary Mexico.

JUAREZ SHOTS HIT U. S. SIDE

soldiers lay sprawled on the streets. There were many wounded.

The attacking forces captured the Hotel Rio Bravo, which, as the headquarters of Gen. Ramos had been transformed into a fortress last night with machine guns mounted on the roof. It was there that the wounded federal soldiers were being cared for by Blue Cross nurses.

On the second attack, rebel cavalry charged down the principal streets, the targets of federal machine gun snipers.

The rebels were almost in complete control. They captured the customs house and issued a proclamation declaring there would be no looting and no impositions placed upon citizens.

U. S. TROOPS READY

Rebel forces occupied every strategic position and began a flanking movement against the last stronghold of the federals, a building isolated about 200 yards south of the Rio Grande.

The desperate fighting was in plain view of United States troops stationed across the Rio Grande in the southern part of El Paso, Tex., ready to protect American lives and property with machine guns and field artillery trained on the Mexican side.

CASUALTIES HEAVY

Eight rebels were killed in the assault on the Hotel Rio Bravo. Several also were wounded.

Andres Varges and Salvador Portugal, civilian soldiers, were critically injured at the Stanton street bridge head.

After 48 hours of incarceration in the city jail, Mayor Augustin Gallo, of Juarez—an accused rebel—was released at 7:30 a. m. and took his place in the firing line of the federal forces. His release was ordered at the height of the battle.

ROTHSTEIN AIDE DIES AT SEA, MAY BE SLAIN

NEW YORK, March 8.—(INS.)—The grim hand of death had stretched out again today to claim another member of the gang of Broadway racketeers, headed by Arnold Rothstein and Tom Walsh, who was murdered in Florida early yesterday.

When the Clyde liner Shawnee docked here shortly before noon today it was revealed that Jack Waller, once high in the directorate of the Rothstein gang, had either leaped overboard or had been pushed from the deck of the vessel on Tuesday night, less than 12 hours before Walsh met his death. The ship was just off the coast of Florida at the time.

CHICAGOIAN SOUGHT

New York detectives assigned to probe the murder of "Fatty" Walsh in Miami today were tracking down evidence which they expected will incontrovertibly link the Florida killing with the slaying of Rothstein and Frankie Yale here and the recent "Chicago massacer."

Ed Wilson, big-time gambler of New York and Chicago, is being sought as the slayer of Walsh.

GANG SPLITTING

"We've detectives in Miami and we know there are at least 90 racketeers, most of them former associates of Rothstein's, there now," Police Commissioner Whalen said. "The gang is beginning to tear itself apart. They're fighting among themselves and somebody is going to talk."

Irene Walsh, one of the four pretty unmarried sisters of "Fatty," denied today her brother was formerly Rothstein's bodyguard. She said he had served the gambler as an expert on financial matters.

"Tom had plenty of money," Miss Walsh said. "He was worth hundreds of thousands, and was interested in real estate in Miami."

5 DIE, 30 HURT IN BLAST

SCRIBNER, Neb., March 8.—(AP.)—Five men were killed and 30 persons were injured in an explosion of dynamite late last night during a barn fire at the home of Carl Hollander, county supervisor, at the Scribner Hospital.

The dynamite had been stored in the barn for blasting of ice-choked streams.

The dead are:

Gus Pittack, Fred Feltner, Guy Clark and two mechanics, strangers in Scribner.

FOUR MAY DIE

Four of the injured may die, doctors said.

All the injured are being cared for at the Scribner Hospital.

The explosion was felt at West Point, 15 miles north, hurled some of the victims 150 feet.

The fire started from an undetermined cause in the barn where County Supervisor Hollander had stored the dynamite which was to be used in blasting ice on the Elkhorn River.

Those most seriously injured are: William Strube, broken leg, body mangled; Art Schoeneck, injuries undetermined, unconscious; Fred Pscherer, fire chief, arm broken, possible skull fracture; Elmer Spell, crushed chest, arm broken, in two places.

AID FROM OMAHA

OMAHA, Neb., March 8.—(AP.)—A unit of six nurses from the Omaha Red Cross Nursing Service has been ordered to Scribner, Neb.

Dr. A. C. Stokes, chairman of the Omaha Chapter of the American Red Cross, has offered Scribner authorities whatever aid may be needed.

Goelet Daughter, Son Get Bulk of Fortune

NEW YORK, March 8.—(AP.)—Mrs. Ogden Goelet, of Newport, R. I., and New York, who died February 22, left all but $9,000 of her estate, estimated to be worth several million dollars, to her son and daughter, Mary, Duchess of Roxburgne, of Kelso, Scotland, and Robert Goelet, of Chester, N. Y., and to her son's four children. Her will will be filed for probte today.

Of the $9,000 in outside bequests $5,000 goes to Elizabeth T. Cooke, of 154 College street, Macon, Ga., and $2,000 each to two servants.

GLENFIELD'S FIRE APPARATUS

JAMES N. MUSE COUNCILMAN HENRY FUELLER

If they had wheels and a motor for this apparatus, Glenfield Volunteer firemen would have a fire truck. But because they haven't, fists flew at the last borough council meeting. Muse says he was hit on the nose and Councilman C. H. Schofield, Jr., who posted $300 bond, is to have a hearing tonight on assault and battery charges. Fueller is a witness.

GLENFIELD ROW IN 2ND ROUND

Glenfield's councilmanic brawl, aired before Justice of the Peace Margaret M. Morgan, of Sewickley, when Councilman C. H. Schofield, Jr., was held on an assault and battery charge, will re-echo tonight in the office of Justice of the Peace Arthur Davis, of Emsworth, before whom Schofield has taken his counter charge against James N. Muse, volunteer fireman.

Meanwhile, the borough's fire truck, which wheezed its last several months ago and was hauled ignominiously to the junk yard, rests peacefully and utterly oblivious to the ruction it has caused among the borough fathers. The chemical tanks, empty and rusting away, are in Muse's garage waiting for wheels and a new motor. In case of a fire the borough's volunteers could do nothing but stand by or scatter out on a bucket hunting expedition.

ARGUE OVER TRUCK

It was a discussion of the use or misuse of the 17-year-old truck that brought the flurry of fisticuffs at Monday's councilmanic meeting.

Schofield's ability as a mechanic was criticised.

He replied heatedly that what was wrong was Muse's driving.

A cry "Liar!" went up.

Fists swung and Motorcycle Patrolman S. C. Graham intervened.

GO TO LAW

He dragged the participants apart only to have them go out and sign articles for separate jousts in the offices of justices of the peace.

Muse won the first round in "Squire" Morgan's office.

Round two gets under way at the sound of the bell tonight in Squire" Davis' office.

Round three?

Well, there's another meeting of Council next Monday.

CALIFORNIA SENATE ASKS EARNED INCOME TAX CUT

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 8.—(INS.)—By unanimous vote yesterday the Senate Committee on Federal Relations went on record for a reduction of the federal income tax by 50 per cent on earned incomes.

The committee, without dissent, approved Senator Charles W. Lyon's resolution to memorialize the President, Secretary of the Treasury, and Congress thus to cut the tax on such incomes below the tax rate on unearned incomes.

The resolution was sent to the Senate with a recommendation that it be passed by that body.

Senator Lyon made a powerful argument for the resolution.

"The highly skilled worker, the doctor, the dentist, the writer, the lawyer, the professions generally, are suffering under this tax," declared Senator Lyon to the committee.

Petition Blank to Help Cut Taxes on Earned Incomes Is on Page 10.

COUNCIL SCANS AIRPORT PLAN

Six members of City Council met with the County Commissioners today and were informed by county engineers of the progress being made in the City-County Airport, Lebanon Church road. The councilmen told the the commissioners that they would have their share of the cost ready whenever notified.

The county has set aside $1,500,000 and the city is to provide an additional $500,000. The commissioners have authorized the sale of $1,000,000 bonds to provide funds for airport work and the city will do the same when notified the county needs the funds.

President of Council James F. Malone said that to give the city and county the best possible airport, the city would vote funds in addition to the amount already allocated if such were needed.

STORM-TOSSED LINER SAFE

CHERBOURG, France, March 8.—(AP.)—The American liner Leviathan arrived here 12 hours late yesterday after being buffeted by what Capt. Cunningham called one of the worst storms of his experience.

Last Saturday night a huge wave struck the liner and passengers dancing in the ballroom were knocked down. Four were slightly injured. A cut in one woman's head required three stitches to close.

The same wave stove in three port-holes with resulting damage to staterooms, and swept away a lifeboat.

The liner had heavy weather throughout its crossing.

Child Hit by Auto At Football Game Awarded $1,000

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 8.—Because an auto ran wild and struck her as she was watching a football game at Hyde Park near Jeannette last autumn, Katherine Ebbert, 12, has been awarded a verdict for $574 damages in civil court here. Her parents, Fred F. Ebbert and Katherine Ebbert were allowed $426 additional for medical expenses and hospital bills.

LIQUOR ON HAVANA LINER SEIZED; PASSENGERS FINED

NEW YORK, March 8.—(AP.)—An extraordinary force of 123 customs men searched 400 passengers of the liner Shawnee, arriving today from Havana via Miami, seized large quantities of liquor and imposed fines aggregating $800.

A fine of $5 for every large bottle found was imposed and $3 for each small one. In addition 200 bottles were found in cabins, but on which no fines were levied as it was considered useless to try to find claimants.

The passengers were greatly surprised as they began to disembark. Ordinarily they would have been permitted to walk ashore with their baggage without a search as their bags had been inspected by the customs at Miami.

Customs officials calculated that every third passenger had a supply of liquor and there were as many women as men among the offenders.

Some of the passengers, noticing the customs men, returned hurriedly to their cabins, unloaded their liquor, and spread the word to fellow passengers who also left bottles behind them.

ALIEN RUM RACKETEERS FEAR DEPORTATION THREAT

Foreigners in the rum racket in Pittsburgh are seeking new means of making a living, it was learned today.

They're afraid, it seems—afraid of that clause in the new Jones bill that provides for deportation to the old country of any aliens convicted of violating the prohibition law.

Many aliens whose bank accounts had been swelled by sale of moonshine have quit the racket since Congress established the stiffer penalties, those acquainted with the operations of bootleggers say.

These new penalties haven't pleased the natives, either, and they also are generally reported as being anxious to sell out.

Five years in a penitentiary and a $10,000 fine, the new maximum penalty, doesn't appear attractive.

Assistant United States Attorney Ralph H. Smith, prosecutor of rum rings, anticipated today that the Jones bill would considerably thin the ranks of alien bootleggers.

The new Jones bill, which provides stiffer penalties for violation of the prohibition law, drew its first attention in Federal Court here today when Judge F. P. Schoonmaker postponed sentencing Frank Simatro, of McKees Rocks, who pleaded guilty to selling whisky, until the court decides whether Simatro can [illegible] under the new bill.

LEVY UNJUST, SAY SEIFERT AND HUMES

Voicing the sentiment of one of the prominent law firms in Pittsburgh, W. A. Seifert, of Smith, Shaw, McClay & Seifert, yesterday wrote William Randolph Hearst and the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph praising the movement for the reduction of taxes on earned incomes.

Mr. Seifert in his letter declares that the "large difference between the tax on earned income and the tax on income from invested capital is so flagrant as to show the lack of uniformity in our present income tax system."

Major Humes

At the same time Major E. Lowry Humes, former United States attorney for this Federal district, congratulated the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph on its stand to reduce taxes on the burdened professional man and other wage earners. He said:

HUMES INDORSES DRIVE

"The big capitalist and the corporation are privileged to charge off great sums for depreciation, but the lawyer who is losing his vigor, the doctor, whose eyesight is failing; the singer whose voice is cracked, and the manual worker who is losing his strength, have no recourse to enter a claim for human depreciation which has vastly more effect in reducing their earnings than the wearing out of machinery in a corporation's factory has in endangering its profits.

"T. E. Powers' cartoon, published in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Thursday, sets forth the arguments better than words. A print of that cartoon ought to be sent to every member of the American Congress."

A committee of the Allegheny Bar Association, working in accordance with a resolution adopted at the last monthly meeting, is preparing a report on the downward revision of taxes on earned incomes.

The Pittsburgh Business and Professional Women's Club last night at a meeting in the Fort Pitt Hotel reaffirmed the organization's stand for a more equitable tax levied on earned incomes and on single persons.

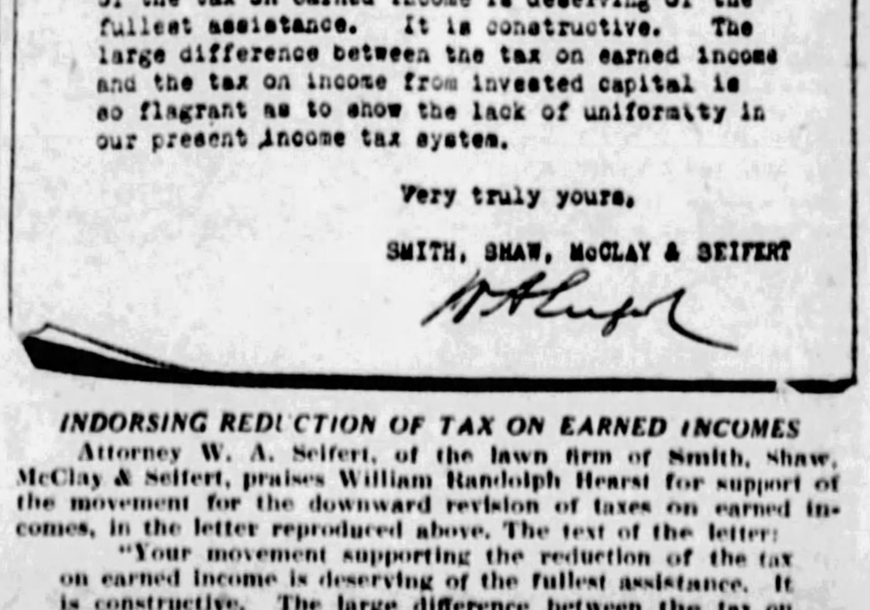
MANY SIGN PETITIONS

A great number of petitions from the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph were received from readers yesterday and today. These petitions have been filed and at the proper time will be presented to Congress.

A few petitions were signed by only one or two names. So popular is the cause that persons are urged to get as many signers as possible on the same petition. In some cases the workers succeeded in getting a sufficient number of signers to fill half a dozen petitions clipped from the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The petitions are carefully scrutinized and analyzed as to occupations and the addresses of the signers to get the trend of the movement in the several districts of the city and the surrounding counties. The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxes on Earned Incomes is the people's organization and is especially for those who have no professional body or trade group to speak for them. It is borne in mind that the aggregate weight of individual opinion expressed in this manner has, after all, the greatest influence on Congress.

INDORSES TAX CUT



Smith, Shaw & McClay
Union Trust Building
Pittsburgh, Pa.
March 6, 1929

HONORABLE WM. RANDOLPH HEARST,
The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph,
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Dear Sir:

Your movement supporting the reduction of the tax on earned income is deserving of the fullest assistance. It is constructive. The large difference between the tax on earned income and the tax on income from invested capital is so flagrant as to show the lack of uniformity in our present income tax system.

Very truly yours,

SMITH, SHAW, McCLAY & SEIFERT

INDORSING REDUCTION OF TAX ON EARNED INCOMES

Attorney W. A. Seifert, of the lawn firm of Smith, Shaw, McClay & Seifert, praises William Randolph Hearst for support of the movement for the downward revision of taxes on earned incomes, in the letter reproduced above. The text of the letter:

"Your movement supporting the reduction of the tax on earned income is deserving of the fullest assistance. It is constructive. The large difference between the tax on earned income and the tax on income from invested capital is so flagrant as to show the lack of uniformity in our present income tax system."

Watch tomorrows' Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for more information of interest to savings bank depositors.

LITTLE MISS ANNA PALJUG, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Paljug, of 2841 Penn avenue, has received early in life a lesson in the importance of thrift. Because she has a bank book—No. B-5,007 in the Franklin Savings and Trust Company—Anna has received from the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph a present of $10 that would not otherwise have gone to her. Hers was one of the numerous bank books to whose credit deposits have been made in the campaign to promote thrift.

ANNA PALJUG.

Setting an example which all parents would do well to follow, Anna's father opened a savings account for her when she was a tiny baby. Deposits made from time to time, plus compound interest, have swelled the account. At the rate at which it is growing Anna will have a snug sum coming to her when she grows up. There may be enough, or more than enough, to pay her expenses through college, to give her a musical education, train her for a profession, or give her other advantages. Perhaps she will let the money remain in the bank and thus gain the comforting assurance that whenever an emergency arises calling for cash she will be prepared to meet it.

MRS. FRANCES DEASY.

Another $10 thrift gift has gone from the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to Mrs. Frances Deasy, of 730 Florence avenue, Avalon, holder of bank book No. 43,690 of the Diamond National Bank. Mrs. Deasy is a bookkeeper. Her husband died some years ago.

"Thrift grips you when you get started saving," Mrs. Deasy said. "It isn't hard at all. And it's wonderful to know that you have something put away when trouble comes. I don't know what I would have done when my husband died but for my savings. I think everyone should save. There isn't much to life if you spend all you make and make no provision for old age."

A $10 thrift deposit has also been made by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to the credit of William H. Geary, Jr., of 1070 Washington road, Mount Lebanon, holder of bank book No. 4,026 of the Duquesne National Bank.

TESTS SHOW BRUNETTE GETS BIGGEST KISS THRILL

NEW YORK, March 8.—(INS.)—By 14 heartbeats, pretty Elsie Lauretson, of Delmar, Ia., today wore the crown of premier "thrill kisser" and thereby added glory to the race of brunettes.

It was one of those scientific experiments, the purpose being to determine if blonde or brunette girls are more emotionally susceptible to kisses.

For the cause of bigger and better kisses, four chorus girls submitted themselves as scientific subjects.

There were two blondes and two brunettes.

None had ever been married. None had been kissed before (in the past 24 hours).

FIVE WILLING MARTYRS

Five stalwart lads got in line. They rubbed their hands together as they awaited the word.

A soda clerk, a civil engineer, a salesman, a construction foreman and a dancing instructor—these were to contribute their kisses for the cause of science.

The newly-developed, hypersensitive, multiple-electric stethoscope amplified by a loud speaker, was adjusted by Dr. A. J. Eaves, of the research department of the instrument's manufacturers.

LOUD SPEAKER GROANS

The gong rang. The boys and girls clinched. The detector was held over the little heart of each girl on kiss. Everything was being broadcast. Groans were coming from the loud speaker. These were the heart beats "talking" out loud.

"Ten seconds are up—letta go," shouted the timekeeper.

"That was swell," said one of the subjects nonchalantly.

"—The detector held directly against the patient's flesh converts body sound vibrations into electrical vibrations," continued Dr. Eaves. "The heart beats a double stroke, the second stroke sounding as an echo."

ELSIE WRECKS SPEAKER

The loud speaker was now making a noise like a bucking broncho on a tin roof. Elsie, the pretty brunette, was kissing again. The blondes gave her a muddy look.

Score cards below list the increase in the heart beats per minute, in each of five tests:

Elsie Lauretson, bru...12-10-15-15-14
Pat Hunter, blonde....11-11-12-10-13
Peggy Dolan, blonde...11-10- 9- 9- 9
Betty Van Allen, bru. 5- 8- 6- 5- 7

PASTOR SILENT ON OUSTER

The personnel of the "Church Welfare Committee" of the Bellevue Presbyterian Church, which anonymously is protesting the reported ousting of the Rev. Dr. Isaac Boyce, aged associate pastor of the church, was the subject of general discussion in Bellevue today.

Dr. Boyce, if he knows his champions, declines to discuss the matter and members of the official church boards said little that would clear up the manner in which Dr. Boyce's services were dispensed with.

The board of trustees of the church will meet tonight for a discussion of the issue, which became public property yesterday when a letter signed "The Church Welfare Committee" was received by members of the congregation. J. M. Simeral, president of the board, said that after the meeting a full statement probably would be issued.

Meanwhile other officers of the church would not even admit that Dr. Boyce had lost his position, although the new tentative yearly budget makes no provision for his salary and his friends insist he was dismissed.

Drinking, Petting Rumors at School To Be Probed

RACINE, Wis., March 8. —(AP.)—Rumors of widespread drinking and petting at junior high school parties were recognized by the Racine Board of Education today when a sweeping investigation was ordered.

It is charged the youngsters have been bringing liquor to school parties.

CHILDS BITTER OVER OUSTING

NEW YORK, March 8.—(AP.)—The name "Childs" on a country-wide chain of restaurants was little more than a trademark today. William Childs, its founder, and his family were out of control of the company.

William Childs went down fighting, but was stopped at every turn by his opponents, who voted proxies representing 60 per cent of the company's 411,000 shares of stock.

From the platform where he presided over the annual stockholders' meeting yesterday as chairman of the board of directors, Childs at last conceded victory to the faction headed by William A. Barber, former attorney general of South Carolina, and in a voice choken with emotion announced he was through.

"This company," he said, "is the child of my efforts. When you take this child away, I am through. Defile it, if you will, but I shall never come back. I wonder what will happen to this thing that Wall Street wants. I want nothing to do with the sort of board that will come out of a deal like this. I am surprised we are turned down, but might makes right and nothing is so strong as money."

The Childs' faction withheld its proxies from filing, which brought charges from the floor that it was seeking to prevent a legal quorum and adjourn the meeting.

Then after conceding the Barber faction's majority, Childs sought to arrange a compromise through the appointment of a neutral board. This was defeated, when Joseph F. Cotton, of the Barber group, voted the 60 per cent of stock against it.

Pickpockets Busy In Spite of Oil 'Moral Issue'

WHITING, Ind., March 8.—(AP.)—The "moral issue" involved in the annual stockholders' meeting of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, here yesterday, held no terrors for the pickpockets.

Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago banker, who was elected to the new board of directors, was one of three men who reported that "light-fingered" gentry relieved them of their wallets as they mingled with the mixed crowd of shareholders.

Traylor declined to state how much he had lost. Arthur S. Ayres, wealthy Newcastle, Ind., man, reported pickpockets took $200 from him, and Roscoe Crary, wool broker, who lives in Chicago, reported his purse and $25 were taken.

2 MORE HELD IN LIQUOR RING

Two more alleged members of a liquor ring operating in Southwestern Pennsylvania and Northern West Virginia were in custody of the federal authorities today.

Frank Mavereta, of Mathers, and Mike Medeved, alias "Blackie," of Crucible, Greene County, were turned over to the U. S. marshal today on charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act. They were arrested yesterday by prohibition agents.

Arrest of Mavereta and Medeved brings the total of defendants apprehended to four. Sixteen are alleged to be involved, including Albert H. Scales, suspended prohibition agent. Sheriff Arnos McClellan, of Greene County, gave himself up yesterday at the marshal's office and was released under $2,000 bond. Edward Graves, of Axleton, a fourth defendant, was arrested several weeks ago.

TREASURY HEAD SMOOTHS OUT DIFFICULTIES

WASHINGTON, March 8. —(INS.)—Andrew W. Mellon, who celebrates his seventy-fourth birthday this month, plans to remain in the cabinet until he completes his program of Treasury reform, which he began eight years ago.

Mellon hopes to see another substantial reduction in income taxes before he quits the Treasury.

The Secretary anticipates the introduction of a tax revision measure at the December Congress, although he does not yet have sufficient data at hand to determine whether a reduction in rates will be possible.

MAY BREAK RECORD

How long Mellon remains in the cabinet depends upon future developments. Mellon himself does not know. We may even beat the 11-year record held by another Pennsylvanian, Albert Gallatin, Secretary in the Jefferson and Madison cabinets.

MAJOR PROBLEMS SOLVED

Mellon faces a far different situation at the opening of the Hoover administration than in March, 1921, when he took office. At that time business was in depression, unemployment general, the country was in debt over $26,000,000,000—$12,000,000,000 in war debts were unfunded and maximum tax rates were taking over 50 per cent of large incomes.

Today each of those problems virtually is solved, leaving Mellon in a position to perfect his machine in the more detailed features of administration.

FASHION SHOW HELD AT PITT

How to choose costumes not only for style but also for personality was explained at a fashion show held at the University of Pittsburgh by students in Miss Grace Ely's class in the art of merchandising. The purpose of the show was to teach girls to enter department store educational bureaus and to instruct sales people how to assist customers in selecting the right clothes.

Jane Richards showed the class the striking effects of a costume of black lace over flesh crepe de chine and Hazel Karnahan the charm of a gold beige combination. Irene Ogle demonstrated the beauty of sun tan beige lace over chiffon, and Edwina Hogadone the attractiveness of Chartreuse chiffon with a hand blocked pattern of contrasting color covering a portion of the dress.

DRY RAID MADE ON N. S. HOTEL

Troubles mounted for the Stag Hotel, at 310 Federal street, North Side, today. Following a raid by North Side police, prohibition agents reported visiting the place, seizing whisky and arresting three men.

One of them, Joseph Koromas, admitted in Morals Court today that he, not Peter Nordas, was the proprietor, and was fined $50 on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. Nordas was arrested in the place Wednesday night along with Mrs. Louise Schneider, of 2430 Elsie street, and a man who said he was Harry Blick, but whom Mrs. Schneider declared to be her attorney, Harry Glick. Glick failed to appear for a hearing and forfeited $50. Mrs. Schneider was fined $25.

The three arrested in the federal raid are George Ezonomys, Oscar Molitor and Christ Alexopocia.

EX-MAYOR HYLAN OF NEW YORK URGES TEMPERANCE

DEPLORES 'DRY' DILEMMA, ENTERS HEARST CONTEST

John F. Hylan, lawyer, predecessor of James J. Walker as mayor of New York, and a candidate for the mayoralty in the next municipal campaign, not only has entered a plan in the Hearst $25,000 Temperance Prize Contest, which he believes may prove a successful temperance substitute for prohibition, but has expressed his outspoken views for publication.

Questioned by the New York American on his beliefs concerning the status of prohibition, he said:

"Prohibition as it exists in America today is one of the most unfortunate examples of the backwash of war. The Eighteenth Amendment was forced upon the American people while more than 2,500,000 of the country's young men were in a foreign land. When the amendment was voted upon in the several states millions of people thought that it was merely a war measure and believed it would come to an end when the war ended.

John F. Hylan

"Thus it was a true product of hysteria. It was accepted by the American people in a state of nervous tension and anxiety for the fate of their country in the war. The national emergency left little time for calm and philosophic meditation as to the status of their country after the war was won. The dominant idea then was 'win the war,' and Americans accepted prohibition as they were willing to accept other conditions which they believed might speed the country's victory.

"We legislated in haste, and we have had 10 years to repent in leisure. Prohibition has not only failed to make us a non-drinking nation, but it has given us a crime problem such as we never before had to face. The time has come for good Americans to think their way out of their dilemma.

"There are two ways of amending the Constitution. The Eighteenth Amendment was put through the short way—the easy way. It was initiated by a two-thirds vote in Congress and then ratified by the Legislatures of two-thirds of the states of the union.

"The other way of amending the Constitution was that recommended by Abraham Lincoln in his first inaugural address. Lincoln's way was the democratic way—the way nearest to the people themselves. It provided for the calling of a constitutional convention for the sole purpose of voting on the amendment desired. The delegates from each state to this convention were to be elected directly by the people and the vote of three-fourths of the states would be required to enact the amendment.

"No comment need be made on the difference between Lincoln's program and the one by which the prohibition amendment was forced upon us while our young men were overseas fighting for what they believed was freedom. They could be trusted to fight for their country, it appears, but not to vote on a measure involving its welfare.

"These are the things Americans should be thinking about now and I am glad to see Mr. Hearst inaugurating, in his temperance prize contest, a thought-provoker that is reaching into American homes from coast-to-coast. It is high time Americans were giving phohibition a thorough appraisal and deciding what should be done about it."

JANE ANN LORY

LOST BABY MAY REUNITE PAIR

Mrs. Nell Lory, of 1217 Sheffield street, believes she could abide domestic unhappiness as the price of having her 3-year-old daughter, Jane Ann Lory, with her.

Lory is the scion of a wealthy family engaged in the lumber business in Charleston. When Mrs. Lory left him she came to Pittsburgh and obtained a job as a department store clerk. She thought she was through with marriage.

But now, she said, if she could have Jane Ann back, she'd be willing to take the husband, too.

RADIO WAVE ALLOTMENT TO PAPERS IS PROTESTED

WASHINGTON, March 8.—More than 125 newspapers, all of them members of the Associated Press, yesterday filed protests with the Federal Radio Commission against the division among newspapers by the so-called American Publishers' Committee of 40 short-wave frequencies.

The protests were directed at the committee's failure to grant the Associated Press any of the 40 frequencies, which were allotted to the American press by the commission.

They supplemented the protest previously filed by John Francis Neylan, of San Francisco, chief counsel for the Hearst corporations.

At a hearing yesterday Neylan objected to the committee's plan in behalf of the protesting Associated Press members as well as the Hearst news services and 29 Hearst metropolitan papers.

If the grant of frequencies were confined to the three great spot news-gathering organizations, he said, every paper in the United States, present and future, would have the advantage of radio facilities for its news report.

Milton Garges, for the Associated Press, asked a grant of frequencies to that organization. Louis M. Loeb, for the New York Times, defended the committee's plan of allocation. The hearing will be continued today.

7 Rules for $25,000 Temperance Contest

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and Federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practical temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

MRS. WILLEBRANDT LAYS DOPE EVIL TO POLITICIANS

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Corrupt machine politicians of the bigger American cities were blamed yesterday by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, as being largely responsible for the widespread dope evil in the United States.

She exhorted the American people to rise in protest and drive from office those politicians who control city governments through graft and corruption.

"A corrupt city government breeds the gangsters who peddle narcotics," she declared. "The peddler pays protection money to the crooked political machine and is allowed to ply unmolested his piratical traffic.

"Stronger Federal and state laws against narcotics no doubt are needed, but a first step should be to restore the control of municipal governments to the people.

"The narcotic menace is not serious in the rural and small urban sections. The traffic is concentrated in the larger cities, which too often are dominated by crooked political machines."

One of the most serious problems facing the Department of Justice, she said, was to prevent the smuggling of drugs into Federal prisons. Devious and ingenious are the ways of the smugglers. They have been discovered secreting drugs in glass eyes, in slits of post cards, in food and even in clothing saturated with drugs.

The department is exercising strictest control, but, nevertheless, dope slips by the guards.

Ousted Civil War Vets See Prized Relics Sold

READING, Pa., March 8.—(AP.)—McLean Post, Grand Army of the Republic, yesterday dipped its colors in salute, but not surrender, to the enemy—time.

A handful of the post's 1,413 men in blue, who followed Grant and Sherman in '63, were forced to vacate their headquarters, where they have met for half a century or more, because it is to be torn down to make way for a new building.

There were tears in the eyes of some of them when an auctioneer offered for sale the large American flag which for 40 years had been draped over the caskets of more than 500 comrades. It was sold for 25 cents. A steel engraved picture of Andersonville prison, where hundreds of men died could not even get one bid.

Weather Conditions.

The high that covered the Plains states yesterday morning, and that caused the change to colder weather over the eastern half of the country is now centered over the upper Ohio Valley states, and covers most of the country east of the Mississippi. It is attended by clear skies, generally, and moderately cold weather.

Another high appears over the Northwest this morning, centered over Southern Saskatchewan. While it is cold over that section, the temperatures are not as low as they have been during the past few days. The lowest temperature in the states is six degrees at Williston, N. D.

The two highs are separated by a low pressure area, which extends from a center over Minnesota southwestward to another center over Colorado. While it is causing little precipitation, there is considerable cloudiness in the central valleys and rising temperature.

Brown Offers More New Trial Reasons

Guy W. Brown, former state senator, convicted in Federal Court of misapplication of funds of the Fayette City National Bank, of which he was vice president, has filed additional reasons for a new trial. He claims the court erred in admission of certain testimony and records as evidence. When the original petition citing alleged errors by the court and other reasons was filed February 20, Brown was granted permission by Judge R. M. Gibson to file additional reasons within 15 days.

BANDITS ROB MAN NEAR EAST END POLICE STATION

At Luna and Ashley streets, almost within the shadow of the Frankstown Avenue Police Station, two Negroes last night held up W. P. Nooman, of 700 Collins avenue, and robbed him of $40. They escaped in an automobile.

The wind of yesterday shattered a window in the store of H. Daniels, 5835 Forward avenue, and thieves seized the opportunity to take four suits, two pairs of trousers and several dresses on display there.

Tobacco vaalued at $200 was stolen from his store, at 124 Erin street, Ben Markowitz reported to police.

While Bruno Scanga, of 3452 Penn avenue, slept, thieves stole $65 from his trousers, which were hanging in his room, he reported to police.

Burglars who broke a window valued at $150 in the store of H. M. Friedman, 1291 Fifth avenue, stole $21 from the cash register.

As a result of his eight weeks' illness his weight is less than 100 pounds.

Sign This Petition and Help to Cut Taxes

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

To the Congress of the United States:

We, the undersigned, respectfully urge that the Congress of the United States give immediate consideration to the proposition that there be a downward revision of all income taxes on all earned incomes, such as salaries or fees, or commissions for personal services. We urge this because of the many instances where wage or fee or commission earners sometimes have just a few years of good incomes and prior to and after that period have substantially less incomes. Their period of better earnings which might give the average wage earner a chance to accumulate some capital is heavily taxed and they seldom have a new opportunity for the accumulation of savings which might tend to make more useful citizens of them.

Labor in general, lawyers, doctors, architects, clerical workers, salesmen, dentists, engineers, journalists, accountants, actors, motion picture actors, singers, musicians, and all the other professional people are in the same plight in the matter of earned income, as distinguished from earnings on capital, and, since they represent a great percentage of the citizenry of the country, we beg the gravest consideration of this proposition. Each signer below hereby enrolls as a member of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxes on earned incomes and will work with that newspaper toward the end stated.

Permission is hereby granted the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to list the signer in the proper Labor, Clerical or Professional Division of the said League for presentation of our signatures to the United States Congress for the stated purpose.

The signer is not obliged to make any kind of contribution or to do anything except to give his moral support to this movement.

BRIBE EPIDEMIC LAID TO P. R. T.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—(AP.)—Bribery and corruption of public officials by the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company was charged on the floor of City Council yesterday by Councilmen William W. Roper and Harry J. Trainer.

Trainer declared that the company was "criminally reckless in throwing away money to buy friends," and that so many officials were on the P. R. T. payroll that it had become an "epidemic."

"If the company had clean hands," he added, "it would not have to go through the state buying friends in the highest places of political influence."

Roper, head coach of the Princeton football team, said it was "high time to give pitiless publicity to the fact that this great corporation—the P. R. T.—is attempting to bribe and corrupt every place it can."

$39,000,000 Astor Estate Suit Fails

NEW YORK, March 8.—(AP.)—Federal Judge Thacher yesterday dismissed the amended complaint in the suit for approximately $39,000,000 against the estate of the first John Jacob Astor. The action, brought by the heirs and next of kin of Nicholas Emerick, sought to show that Emerick made Astor a one-third partner in his business in 1787 and that no accounting ever was made to Emerick's descendants.

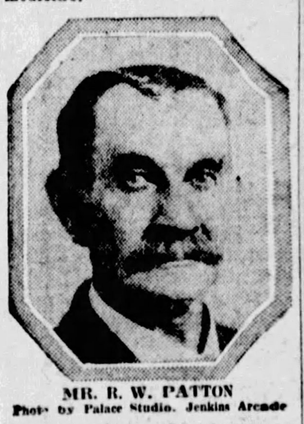
NEURITIS PAINS QUICKLY ROUTED BY NEW KONJOLA

Former Sufferer Describes How Famous Medicine Went to Source of Diseases After Three Years of Misery.

"In Konjola I found the first and only relief from my suffering." How often this glad statement is made to the Konjola Man who is at the Dow Drug Company, formerly McCulloch's, Penn Ave. and Sixth St., this city, by grateful men and women made well through the use of this advanced medicine.



MR. R. W. PATTON

There is no secret, no mystery about the amazing success of Konjola. It is a medicine containing 32 ingredients, 22 of them the medicinal juices of roots and herbs. Konjola works with the sufferer's own food, restoring a more normal, healthy action to the important functionary organs of the body, such as the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Konjola is a medicine of accomplishments, not promises; a medicine of results, not claims. From the Konjola Man you will hear of case after case wherein this master compound proved the first and only remedy that brought relief. He has been sent to this city, not to sell Konjola, primarily, but to help all seekers after health, to advise them about their health problems. Many of his callers are telling how they were already benefited through the use of Konjola. Take, for instance, the statement of Mr. R. W. Patton, Gibsonia, Pa., a short distance from Pittsburgh, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"Since taking Konjola I have but one regret and that is that I didn't know of it a great deal sooner. What days of suffering it would have saved me. Three years ago I was afflicted with rheumatism and neuritis. I tried many medicines, in fact, everything that was recommended, but I might as well have taken water. I lived a life of constant torment; of agonizing pains. Nights were just so many hours of distress; sleep was out of the question. Every morning I dragged myself off to work, which was nothing more than torture. My legs were stiff and sore and made it almost impossible to walk. What did the future hold for me? I could see nothing but a life of suffering—I was merely existing, not living.

"After so many fruitless quests for relief, I had little faith in any medicines or treatments. That is why I did not pay much attention to the many wonderful things that were being said about Konjola. Finally, my friends practically insisted that I give it a trial and, more to please them than anything else, I started the treatment. What a glorious day that was for me. The first bottle opened the road to health and I traveled it fast. The aches and pains grew fainter and fainter and then, just like chaff before the wind, they vanished completely. Sound sleep has been restored to me and new strength and energy are mine. Work is no longer a drudgery; life is not a torture. Ahead of me I see days of happiness with new and glorious health. To Konjola I owe everything."

Konjola contains no harmful drugs—it needs no such hazardous ingredients. Konjola is all medicine, every drop and every drop works. It is said that no sufferer can afford not to give it a trial. Every day of delay simply means another day of needless suffering.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company, formerly McCulloch's, Penn Ave. and Sixth St., this city, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

WAITER CLEAR AS GIRL ENDS BALM SUIT

The $25,000 heart balm suit of Anthee Velenza, 22, attractive Greek girl, against Tony Arvantinos, former head waiter at the Hotel Henry, has been withdrawn in federal court and the plaintiff, it was said, will soon return to her home in Alexandria, Egypt.

Attorney Franklin A. Ammon, representing the girl, advanced no reason for the discontinuance of the case. Since coming to this country in July, 1928, Miss Velenza has resided with an uncle at 513 Wylie avenue.

The girl, in her suit, claimed that she and Arvantinos were childhood friends and that he wrote and asked her hand in marriage. Also, she claimed, she came to the United States with money furnished by Arvantinos.

Since her arrival, she alleged, Arvantinos has manifested coolness toward her and refused to marry her, without assigning any reason.

Convicted as Head Of Greene Rum Ring

WAYNESBURG, Pa., March 7.—E. Younis, Waynesburg fruit merchant, yesterday was found guilty of violating the liquor laws. Younis, alleged Greene County head of a rum ring having its headquarters in Pittsburgh, was arrested several weeks ago in West Waynesburg by County Detective J. A. Hann and other officers. The arrest was said to have been made immediately after Younis had delivered a case of whisky to a West Waynesburg resident. Younis will appear for sentence Saturday.

Firm Asks $176,883 Refund in Taxes

The Big Four Oil and Gas Company, of Pittsburgh, has filed a Federal Court action seeking return of $176,883.85 income taxes alleged by the concern to have been illegally collected by D. B. Heiner, collector of internal revenue in the Pittsburgh district. The company claims that the money was paid under protest and that on April 7, 1928, the collector issued a warrant of restraint and levied on the firm's bank deposit.

PENN AVENUE AT SIXTH STREET

PICKERING'S—TENTH AND PENN

'GLORY' ENDED WHEN SON DIED, COOLIDGE WRITES

NEW YORK, March 8.—In his initial appearance as an author, in the April issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine, Calvin Coolidge shows two sides of his character with which the public has not been familiar.

The first instalment of his account of his years in the White House abounds with epigrammatic statements. One of these which is particularly interesting is as follows:

"I have often said that there was no cause for feeling disturbed at being misrepresented in the press. It would be only when they began to say things detrimental to me which were true that I should feel alarm."

TRIBUTE TO DEAD BOY

Perhaps the most outstanding note in the article, however, is its warm humanness. This spirit runs through the entire story. It is particularly emphasized when he describes the death of his son as one of the costs in heartaches of his terms in the White House.

"My own participation in the campaign of 1924 was delayed by the death of my son, Calvin, which occurred on the seventh of July. He was a boy of much promise, proficient in his studies, with a scholarly mind, who had just turned sixteen.

"He had a remarkable insight into things.

"The day I became President he had just started to work in a tobacco field. When one of his fellow laborers said to him, 'If my father was President I would not work in a tobacco field,' Calvin replied, 'If my father were your father, you would.'

GLORY DIMMED BY DEATH

"After he was gone someone sent us a letter he had written about the same time to a young man who had congratulated him on being the first boy in the land. To this he had replied that he had done nothing, and so did not merit the title, which should go to 'some boy who had distinguished himself through his own actions.'

"We do not know what might have happened to him under other circumstances, but if I had not been President he would not have raised a blister on his toe, which resulted in blood poisoning, playing lawn tennis in the South grounds.

"In his suffering he was asking me to make him well. I could not.

"When he went the power and the glory of the presidency went with him.

"The way of Providence are often beyond our understanding. It seemed to me that the world had need of the work that it was probable he could do.

"I do not know why such a price was exacted for occupying the White House."

Stage Review and Announcements

"JULIUS CAESAR" IS THE BEST FRITZ LEIBER HAS DONE WITH FINE CASSIUS

By GEORGE SEIBEL

WHEN Shakespeare took North's Plutarch to make a tragedy out of Julius Caesar, something happened that has probably never happened to any poet before or since. The central role of Caesar was submerged by four other parts. To play "Julius Caesar" properly, four stars are required—Brutus, Cassius, Mark Antony, and the Mob.

When Edwin Booth appeared in this play, Brutus was the star. When Lawrence Barrett appeared, Cassius was the star. Last night at the Nixon Theater, with Fritz Leiber, Mark Antony was the star. And when the famous Meininger Troupe came over from Germany, the Mob was the star.

With such a dramatic division, it is a marvel that the tragedy holds together so well in every production. Last night this was proved again, for on the whole it is the best-rounded performance the Leiber company has given this week.

To praise the star in any production is easy and obvious. And Fritz Leiber has earned high praise. He looked Antony, and acted Antony, and read the great oration in the Forum Scene with stirring eloquence. But equal honor goes to another actor in the cast. The Cassius of John Burke was a magnificent performance—as good a Cassius as we have had since Barrett. He had the nervous and restless energy, the underlying nobility and love of freedom, and a diction full of significant shadings.

"I know where I will wear this dagger then," was read with profound dignity and truth. And in the Quarrel Scene he acquitted himself with the same distinction.

BRUTUS ALSO GOOD

The Brutus was Hart Jenks, and he also gave the best performance he has given this week. Brutus is the favorite role of most actors and [illegible] much dignity and poise to it against the stormy Cassius. Jenks showed the repose of a Roman Stoic and gave a most [illegible] interpretation. In the orchard scene, in the tent and on the plain of Philippi, he was "the noblest Roman of them all."

Philip Quin as Caesar looked and played the mighty Julius admirably; Redmond Flood made a very convincing Casca; and the women—Virginia Bronson as Portia, Olga Leeds as Calphurnia, and Harriet Russell as Lucius—did the little they have to do with in a manner worthy of all praise.

The lesson so many actors will not learn was enforced by this general fitness and adequacy of the cast; the star shone all the brighter because the others shone so brightly. Leiber has the voice and the bearing for Antony, and chose wisely when he took this part for his own, as they do in European theaters. It is one of his strongest and noblest efforts.

TWO MOBS APPEAR

It only remains to pay tribute to the Mob, fourth of the stellar parts. This was very well managed, the device of shutting off most of the multitude by walls and steps being adopted. But the stage manager should have gone out into the theater and undertaken the training of another mob that was there congregated. Some of the young people in the audience, having perhaps never seen a husband kiss his wife, considered the show of affection by Brutus for Portia quite a humorous episode. Others appeared to think a football game was going on, and that it was quite the thing to root between the acts. The Roman mob was better behaved; perhaps the stage manager should take the gallery in hand next time "Julius Caesar" is played.

Tonight "The Taming of the Shrew" will be repeated—in modern clothes.

FUN, VARIETY LISTED IN THEATERS

"Skidding," a comedy of American life from the pen of Aurania Rouverol, comes to the Pitt for an engagement of one week only opening next Monday night, with matinees Thursday and Saturday. In the cast are Helen Lowell, Carleton Macy, Laura Pierpont, Reginald Fyfe, Rachel Hartzell, Elmer Cornell, Adele Ronson, Thomas V. Morrison and Helen Anderson.

Larry Rich, comedian, and his company, including Cherie, will present a program of orchestral music in the two-a-day vaudeville list at the Davis theater next week. The Dean Twins, steppers, are in the act.

"Dracula," mystery play that has been playing in England four years and was in New York all last season, comes to the Nixon Monday for a week, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. Raymond Huntley and Dorothy Peterson head the cast.

PROUD FATHER

George K. Arthur, movie comedian, finds time to amuse his young daughter. "She'll be a great comedienne some day," says George proudly.

the former in the role of Count Dracula.

Ann Preston Bridgers, in collaboration with George Abbott, wrote "Coquette," which comes to the Alvin for the week beginning Monday, March 11. In it Helen Hayes is starred. There will be the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

CZECH ENVOY TALKS HERE ON BIRTHDAY OF MASARYK

Dr. Ferdinand Veverka, Czecho-Slovakian minister to Washington, and Mme. Veverka were honor guests at a dinner given by leading members of the city's Czecho-Slovak colony at the University Club last night. The colony celebrated the seventy-ninth anniversary of President Masaryk, of Czecho-Slovakia.

In his address Dr. Veverka pointed out that President Masaryk contributed more than any other man to the fostering of friendly relations between America and Czecho-Slovakia. The latter's wife was an American and his son also is married to an American woman.

Dr. Veverka assumed his diplomatic post in Washington four months ago. He has held various high diplomatic posts since Czecho-Slovakia became an independent state. He was at one time undersecretary of foreign affairs, and has represented his country on the Council of the League of Nations. He still is vice chairman of the league's committee on disarmament.

Boy Prisoner Tries Suicide With Gas

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., March 8.—Lawrence Poydock, who escaped recently from the West Penn hospital in Pittsburgh, and was captured in this city Wednesday, attempted suicide by gas in the police station. The boy was sent to Morganza about a year ago as an incorrigible from Adrian, a mining town, near here, and about a month ago broke his collarbone. He was sent to the hospital at Pittsburgh and escaped. He was found in front of the gas stove in a cell section unconscious, the gas on full, but unlighted. He was hurried to the Punxsutawney hospital where it was said he has a chance for recovery.

SEES U.S. MONEY CONTROL LOST

NEW YORK, March 8.—(AP.)—Paul M. Warburg, one of the fathers of the Federal Reserve system, yesterday said the Federal Reserve, through its failure to check speculative credit in the past year, has relinquished leadership in the money market to stock exchange operators.

These operators have for many months, he said, governed the flow of money not only in the United States, but in the principal marts of the world.

"The banking fraternity," he asserted, "would be well advised to anticipate radical congressional proposals by taking the lead in seeking the lines along which reform may be brought about."

Henry Clay says: "I believe in equality--equally remarkable values for men and women! I use only dependable materials, fine trimmings, and skilled workmanship in my shoes.

"Other shoe manufacturers told me it couldn't be done for $3.50. My new Spring models have proved that it can! Big production and small profit does it!

TALK DIRECTOR LOSES WEIGHT, BUT DANCING ALICE GROWS STOUTER

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 8.

BIOLOGICALLY reporting: Prior to departing for New York, Lupe Velez purchased two rabbits. She has had the long-eared critters some three weeks. The point is—where there were two there are now 18, and Lupe's sister is frantically having new pens built.

Alice White

Over to First National. On to "Broadway Babies" set. Where Alice White musikomiks in a 100 per cent outloud. Direction Mervyn Leroy whose debut in the talky field and its embroilish problems has resulted in his losing eight pounds since the celluloider began. As for Alice, she seriously believes she has gained weight. This despite dancing before the camera, Rehearsing at odd moments and at night. Going home eventually to study lines. Taking vocal screams. The White complains so much exercise increased her appetite. Also hardens her muscles and increases their scale weight. Which may be one way of figuring.

Howard Greer, fashion director, says:

In a black Rolls Royce—what could be more stunning than a coat of pomegranite red?—Betty Compson goes to and from the studio enveloped to her ears in a sports coat of camel's hair in this vivid shade. Cut with a slight flare, the coat has a scarf collar and roomy sleeves. It is lined with shiny satin in the same brilliant tone.

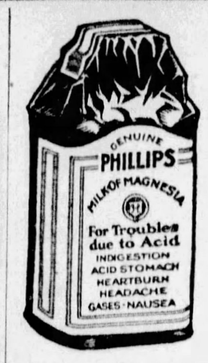
Arturo Toscanini Conducts Two Concerts

The New York Philharmonic Orchestra, with Arturo Toscanini conducting, will give the closing pair of concerts in the Pittsburgh Orchestra Association series tonight and tomorrow afternoon in Syria Mosque. These concerts, it is said, mark the last visit of Toscanini to Pittsburgh, as he will not tour in future seasons.

Tonight the program will feature the Mozart Symphony in D Major; Respighi's "Fiesta Romana;" Debussy's "Iberia," and Wagner's Overture to Tannhauser. The symphony tomorrow afternoon will be Haydn's No. 4 in D. (Clock Symphony). Other numbers will be Gluck's "Iphigenia in Aulis" overture; Pizetti Concerto dell' Estate, and Wagner's Prelude to "Die Meistersinger."

HOLLYWOOD FAMILY AFFAIR

Here is Hollywood's most famous family group: Bebe Daniels, her mother and her maternal grandmother. And we also must include "Snoopy-Horse," wire-haired puppy, for he never is slighted when the family poses for a photo.



Acid Stomach

Excess acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volumes in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer, when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this premier method acts. Please let it show you—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

To Stop Hosiery Fading Even When Ordinary Laundry Soap Is Used

Simple Way To Stop Fade and "Soap Eat" In Even Most Fragile Hosiery

You need no longer fear the fading of delicate colors in even the most fragile chiffon hosiery. You avoid, too, the "soap eat" that hosiery makers warn against. There's a new way of washing that prevents all this . . . even when the ordinary laundry soaps or powders are used.

Under the new method described here, even faintest pastel colors in fine lingerie or delicately tinted hosiery hold fast, according to recent tests, for as many as 50 washings, without noticeable fade or wear.

The method is very simple: To each tubful of water (or washer filled to the water line) you merely add 2 tablespoons of a preparation called CLIMALENE and use just ONE-FOURTH the quantity of soap you ordinarily use. Then proceed with washing as usual. (For light washing in small wash basins, a teaspoonful of CLIMALENE is enough.)

This preparation is used by experts to stop fade and soap eat. It acts by converting hard, or semi-hard water to rain water softness and to dissolve grease and dirt. White clothes, washed this way, never grow yellow—but wash pure white. Delicate colors hold fast. You can easily get it at any grocery store. Two sizes, 10c and 25c. Just ask your grocer for CLIMALENE.

EVERY RIGHT THINKING YOUNG MAN LOOKS FORWARD TO MARRIAGE

Young Austrian Mine Worker Lays Bare His Problems in Confidential Letter—Now Published With His Consent.

"When I met your representative about two years ago," he writes to the World Medicine Co. "I was in the depths of despair. I was in love with a fine young lady and she had promised to marry me. I had worked hard, saved my money and we had almost enough for a home. Everything would have been happy for both of us except that, that winter, I had caught a bad cold, working in the mines. Before I knew it I was hawking and spitting all the time and I knew that Catarrh had taken root in my system. I coughed up black mucus and what was worse, I swallowed part of it. My stomach was poisoned and I grew weak. Gas would form on my stomach after meals and I would swell up and I had to take physics every night to get my bowels to move. I lost fifteen pounds in weight. My breath was foul and I knew I was repulsive to the girl I loved. I could not urge her to marry me when I was in that condition. I tried a lot of ordinary American medicines but none of them seemed to do me any good.

"Your representative explained to me how World's Tonic is made from plants and herbs grown in their natural state, and brought from different parts of the world. That is why it is especially beneficial to Europeans like myself, as well as to Americans. On this account I decided to try it. The first bottle brought me results which were truly surprising. My system was toned up and thoroughly cleansed. Gradually the catarrh sores healed. After about three weeks of using World's Tonic the hawking and spitting left me. My breath became clean and I realized I was free from catarrh. After that I gained weight and strength. Three months after I had that first talk with the World's Medicine representative, we had a happy wedding. Catarrh has never troubled me since. We have a fine house with a big strong baby boy in the cradle. I owe it all to World's Tonic."

World's Tonic is on sale at All Dow Stores (formerly McCulloch), and other modern drug stores. (A-72)

FLAG CONTEST JURY OF AWARD ANNOUNCED

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

IN a recent legal test at Pitt the question was asked whether a young man who had prided himself on never having been kissed was entitled to damages from a young lady who rushed up and before he could restrain her kissed him. What is the proper verdict?

Another case coming out of the Pitt law school was that of certain papers of a student getting into the hands of a teacher who happened also to be a judge. The judge-teacher died and the papers were turned over to another judge. The new judge observed that the young gentleman who had signed them as counsel was going far beyond his powers. He was about to be called to the carpet for this when investigation disclosed that it was only an earnest student who was handling a mythical case.

MY DEAR SIR: Not so long ago I lost a book on a Pittsburgh bus and an anthology of poetry. I reported the loss to the bus company and the company sleuths set to work. After several weeks' investigation the sleuths found my anthology, which eventually, I gave away. To reach the point, Grafton Duvall, the praise agent of the bus company, pointed out to me that the losings and findings on the buses were enormous and should make an interesting piece for your corner. I told him that since I was one of your confidential under-cover men I was not allowed to report anything that smacked of praise-agentry and he said: "Very, well, wait until you lose another anthology." You see my position, chief. Couldn't you use something on this to protect me the next time I leave a book on a bus? I'm always leaving books some place and I ride the buses a great deal. Be sure to mention the bus line, whose name, I believe, is the Grafton Duvall Motor Coach Company. With the usual genuflection, I am,

Yours,
SPY C-342-A184.

One of the best stories coming from President Coolidge's recent retirement from the White House tells of the old Northampton citizen who upon noting the ex-president walking down main street said: "Well, if it isn't Cal—where ye been all the while?" "Out-of-town," replied Mr. Coolidge.

ONE of the legal giants of the country died when Thomas Patterson, dean of the local bar, passed away. A learned man was he. Once or twice I was privileged to sit near while he discoursed on various topics. It was an education.

I always liked the one story I had heard of this towering figure of the bar. He was counsel, as he often was, in a very important case before one of the higher courts. Opposition counsel came in with a large staff of junior lawyers carrying weighty books. There must have been 20 of them laid out on the table. There was much poring and perusing and arranging.

When Mr. Patterson's turn came he extracted an envelope from his pocket, upon which were written a few points of law that won the case.

I liked his humor on the day that a bus boy, as bus boys have a fashion of doing, reached for a dish. "Please?" requested the famous lawyer. "I'll try to hurry and give you this dish in a few moments. May I not have it that long?"

WHAT is said to constitute a record was made by a William Penn bell boy who walked through the lobbies and dining rooms the other day paging "Mr. Smith," and only five men came up to ask the initials.

Count Von Luckner, the commander of a German sea-raider during the war, has written the only sea story, outside of Lord Jim, that I could finish in one sitting. By Joe, it was a good one, too. The count lectures tonight at the University Club.

DR. JOHN G. BOWMAN — MRS. JOHN S. SLOAN — DR. W. M. DAVIDSON — MRS. CARL C. COSLOWSKY — DR. THOMAS S. BAKER

The regional judges selected in the national flag contest: Dr. Bowman, chancellor, University of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Sloan, clubwoman; Dr. Davidson, superintendent, Pittsburgh Public Schools; Mrs. Coslowsky, president, Congress of Clubs, and Dr. Baker, president, Carnegie Institute of Technology.

SELECTION BELIEVED IDEAL

The Sun-Telegraph announces today the appointment of the members of the Regional Jury of Award of the Flag Contest of the United States Flag Association, being sponsored by the Hearst newspapers.

The three men who will judge the boys competing for high honors are Dr. William M. Davidson, superintendent of Pittsburgh schools; Dr. John G. Bowman, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, and Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Mrs. John S. Sloan, prominent in Pittsburgh educational and woman's club circles; Mrs. Mary J. Cowley, member of the Board of Public Education, and Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky, president Congress of Clubs and Club Women of Western Pennsylvania, will be the final regional judges for the girls.

GROUP MOST CAPABLE

The Sun-Telegraph in accepting the services of these individuals for the United States Flag Association to serve on the regional jury of awards, feels that no more competent or desirable group could be organized.

Dr. Bowman in accepting service on the Jury of Awards says:

"I have just read with interest your letter concerning the first annual flag contest of the United States Flag Association. It gives me great pleasure to accept a place on the regional jury of awards for this territory."

Dr. Baker of Carnegie Institute, in accepting service, writes:

"I thank you very much and shall be very glad to serve on the Regional Jury of Awards for the First Flag Contest of the United States Flag Association."

HAPPY TO HELP

Mrs. John S. Sloan, president of the Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club, says:

"If it will in any way promote interest in the flag contest, I shall be most happy to serve as a member of the Regional Jury of Awards. Thank you for the honor."

Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky, on becoming a member of the Regional Jury, expresses her high opinion of the flag contest as developing patriotism and good citizenship among the boys and girls of the country.

Dr. William M. Davidson, whose high schools have practically all entered the flag contest, accepts service on the Regional Jury in hearty sympathy with the flag contest. He says:

"It will tend to deepen and strengthen the patriotic feeling of the youth in our high schools."

Mrs. Mary J. Cowley also expresses her appreciation of having the opportunity to serve on the Regional Jury of Awards.

TOUR IS REWARD

The boy and girl selected by the Regional Jury of Awards will, with Mrs. Eva M. Barrett, appointed chaperon, be sent to Washington, D. C., to compete in the national awards in which two boys and two girls will receive a trip around the world with all expenses paid and spending money and wardrobe furnished.

The regional winners will, in addition, receive $200 to be applied a scholarship such as they may select and will be presented with the Cross of Honor of the United States Flag Association.

March 15 is the closing date for applications to conduct local contest units. Schools, clubs, organizations of any kind may conduct a unit. Each unit must consist of at least 25 boys or girls between the ages of 14 to 18.

Those planning to enter the Flag Contest should do so at once, by writing the Flag Contest Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh. Instructions, materials and questions will be sent at once without charge.

MRS. MARY J. COWLEY

The Rev. Dr. W. I. Wishart, of the Eighth United Presbyterian Church, gave the address to the new pastor. The address to the congregation was by the Rev. Raymond B. Drukker, of the Forest Avenue Church, Bellevue. The Rev. Dr. D. F. McGill, of the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, presided, and preached the installation sermon.

Dr. Scott, son of a veteran missionary of India, was born in that country. He came to America when a boy and was reared at the home of his grandparents, in Butler County. He was graduated from the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary and held several pastorates in this district.

Guests in Auto Hurt When Tire Blows; Sue

Injuries sustained when an automobile in which they were visitors blew a rear tire, caused W. E. Bryar, South Negley avenue, and William Luley, Squirrel Hill, to each file a $10,000 damage suit in Common Pleas Court against L. E. Thomas, of Ford City, their host. The suits were filed today by Attorneys Jacob Shulgold and Benjamin Lencher.

Thomas, making a business trip into Ohio August 15 last, asked Bryar and Luley to accompany him. At his request Luley was driving, when, near Cadiz, O., the shoe gave way. In the suits Thomas is charged with gross negligence in taking out guests on such a casing?

WAGE DOG WAR IN OVERBROOK

All unlicensed dogs in Overbrook borough will be shot and killed outright, and all licensed dogs, running around at large, will be captured, chained, and their owners arrested and fined according to the state law, it was agreed at the regular monthly meeting held by the borough solons in the municipal building last night.

Council has instructed Burgess Ernest E. Mierer to notify his policemen to that effect. President John Herring cited where one family was the owner of nine dogs.

And the cats which will be caught will be killed as a nuisance. Police Chief Harry Seibel, daylight police officer, Patrolman Fred Zeller, night officer, and Street Commissioner Phillip Friday, a sworn special officer, are now in charge of the situation.

Today's Flagism

On March 8, 1916, the little town of Columbus, New Mexico, was raided by the outlaw, Pancho Villa, and a band of his followers, many of the residents of the place being ruthlessly murdered by the invaders. The American Flag was carried into Mexico when this government sent troops south of the border in an effort to apprehend the bandits.

Excellent results are being obtained in the campaign of visitition evangelism by 26 churches of the North Side and North Boroughs, according to minister participating Workers are enthusiastic, he asserted. The final report meeting will be held tonight at 6:15 in the Allegheny branch, Y. M. C. A., West North avenue and Monterey street.

Fifteen churches of the North Boroughs are reaching nearly every unchurched person in that district, according to those directing the visitation. A devotional and praise service will be held today at 3:30 p. m. in the Bellevue Baptist Church to conclude the campaign, in Avalon and Bellevue. A similar meeting will be held in the Ben Avon Presbyterian Church for workers of Ben Avon and Emsworth.

HUNGRY, STEALS BREAD, FREED

A 72-year-old man, stooped and gray, was arraigned in Frankstown Avenue Police Court today, charged with stealing a loaf of bread.

"I couldn't help it, your honor," Ed Morrison, the prisoner, confessed. "I have no money, no home. I was trying to sleep in the Homewood Railroad Station, but I was too hungry. About 5 o'clock this morning I started walking around and in front of this store I saw all the bread and milk. I took a loaf and the manager caught me. It's the first time in my life I ever stole.

20-YEAR JOB LOST

"I can't find work, your honor. I'm a gardener. I worked for one man 20 years and he died. I've been in a hospital the last couple of months and then I went to room in Frankstown avenue, but I had to get out because I couldn't pay my rent. If I could get a job I'd be all right. I'll do anything—I'll dig ditch, your honor."

STORY BELIEVED

Charles Hilles, manager of a chain store at 541 North Homewood avenue, told of finding Morrison stealing the bread from a delivery box left in front of the store. Hilles said somebody has been stealing two loaves of bread and a quart of milk each morning for the last month.

"But I don't believe this man is the thief," Hilles offered. "I'd have been glad to give him a loaf of bread if he had asked for it."

The bread was produced in evidence. Magistrate William J. Soost handed it to Morrison. He also gave him $1 and told him he was discharged. Morrison walked from the police station to a restaurant next door.

Groom, of Findlay Township, was paroled today for the unexpired term of his one-to-two-year jail sentence by Judge James H. Gray.

The pardon was granted because of the good reputation Groom bore prior to his arrest. He and the others were convicted for "shaking down" Anthony Puniak, Charles Poehlman and Martin Slanina, of the Woods Run district.

Ranshaw is serving a one to two-year sentence; Paul Sweeney, two to four years; Frank Hartz, one to two years, and Ray Bengle, two to four years. Groom was the only one to be sentenced to jail, the others having received penitentiary sentences. He has resigned his position as constable.

WIDOW GIVEN $6,000 VERDICT

A value of $6,000 was placed on the death of a truck driver leaving a widow and three young children, in a consent verdict taken before Judge James H. Gray, in Common Pleas Court.

The case was that of Mrs. Pauline Fisher, Carson street, against the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad Company, who had sued for $50,000 damages. Her husband, Joseph Fisher, was killed May 9, 1927, when his truck was struck by a passenger train on the Eichleay crossing, Baldwin Township.

RECOVERS LOST WALLET, PRAISES HONESTY HERE

Hungry, in need of a shave and down to his last 40 cents, M. Nason, of New York City, a traveling man, is loud in his praises of the honesty of Pittsburgh people, since Sergt. William Beggs, in the Mt. Washington Police Station, handed him his wallet containing $113, lost in a downtown theater.

Stopping at a downtown hotel, Nason was in dire straits when he found his purse and money gone—after a visit to the theater. He wired his firm for money, then decided to appeal to the lost and found columns of the Pittsburgh papers. As he was placing his advertisement the clerk recalled one received earlier telling of the finding of a purse and money in a theater. Nason went to the police station and, after presenting his credentials, was handed his purse with the money intact.

Frank Milby, 309 Grace street, Mt. Washington, accompanied by Dolly Lewis, 6326 Forward avenue, had attended the same performance Nason had. As they were leaving the theater Miss Lewis saw the purse in a corner of the foyer. Calling her escort's attention, the latter picked it up and placed the advertisement in the paper and conferred with Sergt. Beggs.

Nason divided a $20 bill between Miss Lewis and Milby, got his shave and then sat down to a hearty breakfast.

SERGT. DAVID COLE

ED MORRISON

Ed Morrison, 72, was hungry and homeless and that's why he stole the loaf of bread he hands to Sergt. Cole in Frankstown Police Station after he was arrested at the insistence of a store manager and much against the arresting officer's will. Magistrate Soost at a hearing discharged Morrison and gave him the loaf of bread and a dollar.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, March 8.

This revolution in Mexico is for no reason whatever. Only those that are out want in. They got no improvements to offer. Now it's known that whoever the United States backs with money and guns will win, so we ask: "What do they do it for?"

Yet the Mexicans look at our democratic uprising every few years, where we know that the side with "big money" will win, where there is no new improvements to offer, and it's all for the same reason: "The side that's out wants in."

So every nation is equally "cuckoo." It all depends on who is looking at us. Their losers get shot, and ours the back page, so it's which would you rather have?

Yours, WILL.

P. S. This rebel leader Escobar was my principal host when there. I am just kinder figuring where we are going to run into each other again.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Girl From the Palace

By Laura Reid Montgomery

VERA listened to Anne's account of the holiday. The which the three friends was generous in giving nd sometimes permitted have one whole day on Saturday once in awhile in return for losing the half day. "That's one reason I stay on there, Vera. It's wonderful to be able to go out in the country all day. I'd be willing to give up three halves for that."

Vera smiled at the phrase: three halves. Then she sighed. She would be willing to give up almost every Saturday half holiday for the leisure had long since failed to thrill her. Since her engagement to King, merrymaking had ceased. He, too, worked in the same office, and he had told her plainly that he could only marry by practicing thrift.

Thrift is a much misused word, and thrift to him meant the tightest kind of penny-pinching.

"I might as well be married," reflected Vera when Anne applied the skin beautifier that, necessarily, meant closing her rosy mouth for a brief time. "King simply spends the evening here at the boarding house or, if it's daytime we walk until I'm tired out. He even rebuked me for making fudge last Sunday, although he ate a lot of it. Said those pennies might have been added to my savings and actually asked me how much sugar I bought for it. I wish I'd never told him just how much my board cost a week for now he goes with me to the savings bank Saturdays to watch me deposit it."

"Why the glooms?" demanded the gay Anne when she had proceeded a bit further with her beauty treatment.

Quite without intention Vera found herself mentioning her boredom with the drab life that had followed her engagement.

Anne regarded her frankly. "Vera, dear, I've been telling you of my good times on purpose to make you contrast our lots. I think saving is wonderful—you know I save something, but I don't save at the expense of worthwhile things. Life is exactly what we make it, hon, and a girl has a right to some amusement. I'll do better work at the office after spending an evening of enchantment at a good play where I had a chance of seeing things that would never, never come my way in everyday life. It's self-improvement to watch an actress who has cultivated her personality in a way that I cannot do. I am apt, unconsciously, to imitate her carriage, her well-bred ways, her very gestures and I love to listen to a good voice. 'The Girl From the Palace' that I saw last month did me a lot of good and I spent a happy evening. Madge and I went Dutch and we took a taxi home."

Vera knew that her chum spoke the truth. King acted and looked bored nowadays. The little dream home had been talked threadbare during the long hours of holidays. Vera had seen very little of Chicago because she had become engaged to King shortly after being employed by the firm. The girls back home often wrote and asked what she'd seen in the Great Lake city—and she'd been once to the Art Institute on a free day. That was about all. Back in Rivertown King had taken her out—now every extra cent went into his bank account.

"King," said Vera next day, "I'm going to take all day Saturday. I want to go to Starved Rock. Some of us are going in together on the trip, and we plan to spend the day there."

"But, Vera, the cost—" he demurred, exactly as she had thought he would, "I've been thinking that if we went without lunches, many doctors think it healthier to do so, we could add that money to our future."

Vera looked at him with eyes that had ceased to be love-blinded. He looked worn and weary—a man without pep, and she could detect no affection as he stared back, only a miser's gleam shone in his face, no sign of the ambition that had once kept him enthusiastic.

"No, no. It would be folly to waste anything on jaunts. You can use your morning doing something useful. I intend to press all my clothes, that costs only 10 cents an hour for the use of the gas iron at my boarding house. Then, afterwards, we'll take a nice, long stroll in the park." King spoke bleakly.

Vera's spirit groaned. She had taken many of these nice strolls and they'd been very, very long ones. But she'd grown accustomed to listening to the master-mind and after more arguments and platitudes, she gave in. One nice thing would be that he'd never suggest spending carfare to go downtown to the bank to deposit. She could at least have her week's salary in her purse instead of the $2 for carfare and luncheons that she retained after paying her board.

The spring day that Saturday was perfect as to sky and air, but very slushy underfoot. After hours of trudging about the park and desultory conversation Vera suggested taking the "L" home, but he mentioned the saving by using the good old foot method.

"I'm going out," she said, her heart thumping. "I'm going to telephone for two tickets for 'The Girl from the Palace' for tonight. I intend to live, King. I'd like you to take me. If you don't I'll invite a girl. Anne has seen it. I'll leave here at 7 o'clock. Do just as you like."

She ran up the oldfashioned steps of the boarding house without waiting for an answer.

Going down the aisle of the theater Vera's heart thrilled to the lights and music and the low hum of voices. She intended to forget entirely the disapproval of King who had been silent during the ride downtown.

The scenery was sumptuous and the music a score by Herbert. Vera listened to the gay lilting strains with an enjoyment that almost hurt, so intense was her reaction to amusement. The atmosphere of beauty lapped her in waves of pleasure and the smiling faces behind the footlights seemed there just for her.

King, helping her into her coat at the end of the evening bent down. "We've wasted a lot of time, Vera. We're young and we need to play about a bit before we get old and tired. After this we're going to celebrate holidays properly instead of working like moles. I didn't realize that we had become misers because we wanted a home for the future. You must be guided by me, dear, and let me spend some of my money on you. You need to be rested by a change of viewpoints. Will you agree to spending $5 a week on joy?" Vera, a trifle bewildered, agreed.

Judge Wants Both Sides in Divorces

"I believe the courts are often imposed upon in uncontested divorce cases. There should be some means of having the respondent always represented when testimony of the libellant is taken."

These statements were made by Judge James H. Gray, while hearing the case of Raymond Small, of Natrona Heights, against Mrs. Flora Small, of Charlerol. The wife had not been present when the case was first called and at Judge Gray's suggestion she was told how to get a lawyer and answer her husband's charges.

Small testified that his wife had thrown a tumbler at him and had hit him with a fork. The wife admitted that the charge was true, but charged that she had found him with another girl.

5 Drown as 2 Autos Go Off Open Bridge

ABERDEEN, Wash., March 8.—(AP.)—Five men drowned and three others were saved when two sedans drove off an open end of the Wishkah bridge near here early today. One of the automatic gates failed to function.

Hoover Has Own Way of Shaking Visitor's Hand

WASHINGTON, March 8.—(AP.)—President Hoover has a method all his own of shaking hands with White House visitors and it differs materially from that which was employed by his predecessor, Calvin Coolidge.

The new Chief Executive extends his hand well forward so that those he greets are held at quite a distance and he has substituted a quick, full grasp for the sort of half-catch of the hand he employed during his campaign.

"I am pleased to meet you," is one phrase he uses as his callers are presented at the public receptions. "I am glad to see you," is another, while a third is "it is nice of you to come to see me."

SELF-RULE PLEA BY PORTO RICO

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 8.—(AP.)—The first message of the island Legislature to President Hoover is a request for a greater degree of self-government. In the form of a concurrent resolution, the Legislature asked the President to recommend to Congress amendments to the organic act which would give a greater measure of self-rule.

It was also asked on the retirement of the present governor, Horace M. Towner, and until an elective governor is provided for, that the President appoint a Porto Rican governor who has the confidence of the people.

The resolution was passed by a strict party division, all Alianza members supporting it while the minority opposed.

The minority also has sent a message to President Hoover, the text of which has not been given out here.

BOY FAILS TO MAKE TEAM BUT DIES REFUSING TO QUIT

PEORIA, Ill., March 8.—(AP.)—A schoolboy who couldn't make the team died a champion yesterday—because he wouldn't quit. Today East Peoria High School was closed in respect to Dwight Carlock, 15, who fell dead after circling the running track at the school trying to make the track team.

Dwight wasn't quite good enough to make the football team. He also failed to win a place on the basketball squad. "Didn't have the stuff," they said.

"Dilation of the heart," said a physician who examined Dwight's body last night.

"Too much courage," corrected John Fritz track coach.

Out of respect for the boy who couldn't make the team, East Peoria High's basketball team has withdrawn from the district tournament in progress here.

Radio, Television To Chase Upper Berth Blues

The Trees residence on the east side of North Highland avenue near Highland Park, one of the show places of the Highland district, has been purchased by Robert J. Dodds, according to reports heard in real estate circles. The lot is 100x331 feet and includes a garage. The house contains 12 rooms.

James F. Keenan has purchased from Frank G. Conley a property fronting 24 feet on North Highland avenue at the southeast corner of Harvard street, East End. The lot is improved with a brick residence. The Commonwealth Real Estate Company and the Nicola Realty Company were brokers in the deal.

A new apartment building to cost $200,000 is being planned in Wisteria avenue, Mt. Lebanon. It will be known as the Wisteria Manor and will include 44 apartments and a 50-car garage in the basement. Charles R. Geisler is the architect.

An eight-room brick residence and garage on 25x100 feet in Kelly boulevard, Thirteenth Ward, has been sold through F. C. Silknitter to Andrews Dickson.

Max W. Steiner of the Guarantee Real Estate Company was a broker in the sale of the residence at 5815 Fifth avenue, East End, for the Clark & McCaren Company, of Detroit, to Frank M. Fleischer, who takes the property for a home.

In East Brookline, the Freehold Real Estate Company sold for the West Liberty Improvement Company to Ellen A. Clifford a lot in Belmont avenue.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Pittsburghers Entertain In Season's Largest Tea in Florida

DON'T you remember in your youthful school days when, with the approach of spring, books and lessons and the studious attitude inspired you with a profound nostalgia, and when with a desire to cheer yourself up, you would sing-song that old bit of versification "Three more weeks and I'll be free from the penitentiary?" With Easter and its blessed release from dreariness of the spirit nearer every day, I find myself humming over and over in my mind "Three weeks more and Lent is o'er."

And when Easter comes, no matter how bad the spring weather may be, we would never think of quoting the now unfashionable Longfellow, who described what, I'm sure must have been a Lenten day, when he wrote that "the day is cold and dark and dreary; it rains, the wind is never weary." You could scarcely call today rainy, perhaps, but you will admit it is cold, at least.

After March 31 will come our spring weddings, and then plans for our "little season" in late May and June, and later departures to summer homes, and still later the gay fall and winter season.

IN the land of orange blossoms it is difficult to suffer the repression of a northern Lenten season. And the many colorful entertainments being given in the winter resorts of Florida are surely sufficient proof.

Down at Miami Beach one of the most outstanding entertainments of the season was given Wednesday afternoon and was given by Pittsburgh folks, too. Of course among the 250 guests from all over the world, were many of our wanderers.

The event, the largest ten of the season there, was given by Mrs. Elliott F. Shephard, of New York, and Mrs. William J. Morris, of our city, in the Shephard home.

The guest of honor was Mrs. David McKee Morris, who used to live here, and now makes her home in Pasadena. The young Mrs. Morris is the daughter-in-law of Mrs. William J. Morris. Those who are acquainted with the relationships in the old families of Pittsburgh know that Mrs. Shephard is related to the Morris family.

Among those aiding the hostesses in receiving their guests were Mrs. Gelston Bailey Morris, of Briarcliff Manor, formerly of Pittsburgh, a sister of Mrs. Shephard; and Mrs. Andre E. Rickmers, also of Pittsburgh.

Masses of orange blossoms from the groves of the Shephard estates decorated the tables over which were canopies, woven of thousands of vivid-hued kumquats and their rich foliage.

An out-of-door dancing floor attracted many of the guests. Others strolled over the estate, lighted by hundreds of Japanese lanterns.

Mrs. Shephard and Mrs. Morris are entertaining house parties at the Shephard Miami Beach home, did you know? Varying the entertainment provided for the guests are dinners and dances and brief sails on the Morris yacht The Wampus.

The men of the house parties will go on a fishing trip early next week to Long Key.

PLANS for spring weddings are in the air! Mrs. Norman S. Wooldridge, of South Linden avenue, has gone to Philadelphia to spend a fortnight with her sister, Mrs. Louis S. Clarke, of Haverford. And while she's there I'm sure there'll be much talk about the approaching wedding of her son, John Phillips Wooldridge, to Caroline Harbaugh Kennedy, daughter of the Frank W. Kennedys, of Trenton, N. J., formerly of Sewickley. The ceremony, the date of which has not yet been definitely set, will be some time the latter part of May, I've heard.

INTERESTING to us all, I know, is the announcement of the marriage of Geraldine Baker West, daughter of the Charles H. Wests, of Forbes street, and William J. Powell, of this city, which took place last night at 6 o'clock in the West home, with the Rev. Dr. Stuart Nye Hutchison, of the East Liberty Presbyterian Church, officiating. It was a very quiet wedding, with just the families and a few close friends there, and there were no attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. Powell sailed today for a trip to Nassau, and will come back home again late in April. They plan to live at the Schenley Apartments, I understand.

MISS BETTY O'HARA and Miss Florence Perry will dance, and Miss Ruth Reich will give readings at the annual benefit bridge party to be given by Kappa Delta tomorrow afternoon in Oppenheim-Collins' auditorium. The proceeds will go to the Crippled Children's Hospital at Richmond, Va.

* * *

MRS. A. W. STEVENSON, of Glenmore avenue, has returned home after spending some time at the Casa Del Mar Club, Santa Monica, Cal.

* * *

DR. AND MRS. NELSON H. CLARK, of the Emerson Apartments, left last night for a trip to Miami, Nassau and Havana. They expect to be away over Easter.

A CARD party for the benefit of Robert Swan Chapter No. 293, O. E. S., is being held this afternoon in Oppenheim-Collins' auditorium.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. J. H. HOLMES are among the Pittsburghers in Montreal, Canada. They are stopping at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. DANIEL ROSEMIER, of Bellevue, entertained at dinner Sunday in honor of their niece, Miss Anna May Daibler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Daibler, of Wilkinsburg, whose marriage to Harry Clay Donaldson, Jr., of Beechwood boulevard, will be solemnized next Thursday. The appointments were in pink and gold.

MR. AND MRS. HUGH C. ANDERSON, of Northumberland avenue, are spending the winter at the Carolina Hotel, Pinehurst, N. C.

MRS. M. M. REDENBAUGH will have "The House of My Dreams" as her subject when she addresses the Dormont Young Women's College Club tomorrow afternoon. The members are to meet in the home of Miss Lillian Kerr, McNeilly avenue, with Miss Eleanor Doeblin and Miss Mildred George as assistant hostesses.

THE Girls' Auxiliary to the Women's Library Club of Knoxville has elected these officers: President (re-elected), Mrs. Dorothy Watt; first and second vice presidents, Miss Edith McKay and Mrs. Hilda Sunshine; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Virginia Scott; recording secretary, Miss Mildred Winters; treasurer, Mrs. Helen Greenhaugh. The club is planning a swimming party at Carrick High School on March 19.

PAST presidents of the Ladies' Syria Social Club will receive with the president, Mrs. Herman J. Apel, at the dinner dance which the club will give in her honor in the William Penn Hotel tonight. Mrs. John J. Mamaux is in charge of the program, Mrs. Arthur C. Meyers is handling reservations, dancing is in charge of Mrs. Charles H. Brautigan and cards of Mrs. Archie Sohn.

* * *

MEMORIAL services will be held by Court Duquesne, No. 659, Catholic Daughters of America, next Tuesday evening in the Cathedral High School auditorium, North Craig street. The services will be in the nature of a sacred concert.

AT the regular monthly meeting of the Montefiore Aid Society to be held Sunday afternoon at the Y. M. & Y. W. H. A., Dr. J. Spellman, superintendent of the hospital, will speak.

OWING to the death of Mrs. R. F. Forsythe, who was to have been hostess for the reciprocity meeting of the Library Woman's Club next Tuesday, the meeting has been indefinitely postponed.

CONGRESSWOMEN, FETED, STRESS AIMS FOR PEACE

NEW YORK, March 8.—(AP.)—The need for women in every council of government that settles questions of war and peace, was emphasized yesterday by Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, congresswoman-elect from Florida and daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan.

She was among the honor guests at a testimonial luncheon given by the League for Political Education to the women members of Congress in anticipation of their entrance into the seventy-first session of the House of Representatives.

Congresswomen Ruth Baker Pratt, Edith Nourse Rogers, Florence P. Kahn, Mary Teresa Norton and Katherine Langley were also among the honor guests who spoke.

"Women's place is in the home, but the walls of home have widened since a few years ago to include the scope of politics," said Mrs. Owen. "And women should be able to help the nation find some way to settle quarrels that do not involve throwing the bodies of men into the balance."

The elimination of sex consciousness and the personal equation from the point of view of congresswomen as urged by Mrs. Kahn, congresswoman from California. "Each of us enters the House of Representatives as a congressman," said Mrs. Kahn. "We stand on our own feet and ask no favors."

Two Schoolhouses Destroyed by Fire

McCloskey recently was acquitted on one of five indictments returned by a Bexar County grand jury and sent to Travis County on change of venue.

GEORGE FRAME BROWN'S IMPERSONATIONS ON AIR

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

QUITE a few notables will be on the air tonight, but we doubt if any two of them will get more radio applause than George Frame Brown, alias Luke Higgins, alias Matt Tomkins.

Brown is the fellow who has created more lifelike characters for the radio than any other continuity writer in the business. He not only creates them, but he enacts them.

He will give some of his impersonations on the Kodak Hour, WJAS, at 10.

The Vodevil program, WJAS, at 8:30, is rich in theatrical features, with George Jessel and Cissie Loftis as the headliners.

Lannie Ross, who tickles microphone granules with a sweet tenor voice, when he isn't on the track, will be heard with the Wrigley Review, KDKA, at 9 o'clock, while Jessica Dragonette and company will revive theater memories at 9:30 p. m. We also like the lineup for the Dixie Circus at 7:30 and Old Man Donaldson's scheduled yarn at 8:10.

Seems odd that WCAE should have scheduled the same night an election brawl at Schradertown, 9:30 p. m., and talks by Senators at 10:30. And who knows but what the 10:30 feature may wax into something hot with a Republican and a Democrat before the microphone?

Something more popular than either of these, we judge, will be Henry Burr's singing with the Cavalier's at 8 o'clock. Those who like late programs will pick up satisfaction in the studio recital at 10 p. m.

SOCIETY COMEDY.

The story concerns an English earl who, to be near the girl he loves, secures a position as butler in her house. She, however, sees through his disguise and puts him through a series of hilariously funny predicaments.

Mortimer and Gwendolyn, as usual, play the leading roles, and their own private altercations make the filming almost impossible, but provide added humor for the radio audience.

WCAE—Cavaliers.

SCOTCH LEGEND.

The romantic legend of Loch Lochmond will be the theme of Henry Burr, tenor. Of Scottish ancestry himself, Mr. Burr will render the romantic number with all the feeling which its historic significance and rare beauty inspires in those who love the heather country.

KDKA—Doris Doe, contralto.

8:10 P. M.

KDKA—Old Man Donaldson.

"Old Man Donaldson," the cantankerous gentleman who lives just around the corner with his daughter Joan, and who is full of romantic yarns centering around precious gems, will broadcast a story of the moonstone's magical properties.

The narrator deserts one of the oldtime clipper ships on the moonlit shore of a certain port in the island of Ceylon, to develop a romantic situation involving missionary's wife and a young man who scoffs at the charm of the moonstone, the mystic gem which induces its wearer to love as the moon waxes and to prophesy as it wanes.

Romance and adventure, interwoven in an oriental atmosphere form the background of the story. Trade winds whisper in the tops of palm trees. The sultry moonlit night is laden with the exotic perfume of tropical flowers, and there is oriental music, with tom-toms beating a stirring rhythm to some wild, barbaric dance.

LOUISIANA IS SCENE.

"The Night We Stepped Out" is the story of the two small town flappers who thought it was smart to step out with older men whom they had met on chance acquaintance.

Mary and Bob hear their experience as they travel from that section of Louisiana made famous in the last scenes of Longfellow's "Evangeline."

Vocal and instrumental music, typical of this quiet Arcadia bordering on the Louisiana bayous will precede the telling of the story.

WCAE—Evening in Paris.

TABLOID OF OPERETTA.

A tabloid version of the Parisian operetta, "Comte Oligado," a success of the past season at the Theatre des Nouveautes in Paris, will be the main feature. This presentation, arranged in theatrical form, but without spoken lines, will give the principal musical numbers of the show, including the opening chorus, and "Ca fait posser un moment," "Le petit tiseau des Iles," "Si maman le veut" and "La Rose Tendre," all of which are extremely popular in Paris at the present time. This will be, as far as is known, the first presentation of the music of "Comte Obligado" in this country.

The locale for this evening's entertainment will be the supper room of the Hotel Claridge on the Champs Elysees in Paris, the famous rendezvous of Americans from the theatrical and motion pictures world.

ELECTION BRAWL.

Gus, the tuba-playing garage man, who last week entered Schradertown politics as candidate for mayor, opposing the local sheriff, is struggling this week to retain the political support of the band.

The election activities of Gus' loquacious partner, Louie, are responsible for much of Gus' difficulty. Louie becomes involved in an election bribe which, while it gets the garage business out of debt, creates a bad situation between Gus and Louie. There are visits from the sheriff. Louie's powers of eloquence soar to new heights. Under the snappy direction of Pop Hall, however, a stirring election program, faultlessly given, is put on the air by the Schradertown Band.

ANCIENT FEUD.

This feud dated back as far as '49 when the gold rush to California was on. A chance meeting of two men, representatives of the families, in France during the war, only renewed the hate between the two families.

Not having seen each other since the war, these two young men meet again in the night club which will be visited tonight. The situation is complicated by the presence of a girl who is known to both. How they work out their destiny—how, in New York, many miles from the scene of the first misunderstanding, they settle old scores, will be the entertainment.

$45,000 VIOLIN TO BE HEARD ON WCAE

Before the radio was known, Stradivarius made this violin. Joseph Joachim, the world's greatest violinist, used it. Mischa Elman gained his reputation on it. SOMEHOW, it doesn't seem as though spring could be very far away. Still, it doesn't do to be too optimistic, especially considering the reputation that March has earned for itself, in this matter of weather!

I've chosen, therefore, a menu that begins as a nice spring menu should, and that finishes as a good, substantial winter dinner ought to finish.

I LIKE chuck steak for my beefsteak pies. Cut the steak into narrow strips, and place it in a kettle with enough boiling water to cover, and let it simmer for half an hour.

Tie in a square of cloth the following seasonings—a bit of garlic, six peppercorns, a half bay leaf, a sprig of parsley and an onion stuffed with two cloves. Add enough salt to the meat, and add the seasonings; then thicken the stock. Place the kettle on an asbestos mat to keep the sauce from sticking. Some mushrooms would improve the flavor vastly.

Let the meat simmer while making the pastry. Then remove the bag of seasoning. Put all in a baking dish with a rolled crust over the top and sides. Brush with milk and bake 40 minutes, covering it with heavy paper as soon as it is brown.

FOR the Spinach Timbales, season finely chopped spinach (and you will be sure there is no sand or grit left in the spinach, for the happiness of the household, won't you?) using salt, paprika and butter.

Pack lightly into buttered custard cups and let stand in a pan of hot water until ready to serve. Turn out on a hot platter, and serve with white or egg sauce.

NOW comes the salad. Place a slice of pineapple on a bed of lettuce leaves, allowing one slice for each individual. Cover the round portion with alternate whole segments of grapefruit and orange.

Fill the cavity in the center with a date stuffed with cream cheese rolled in paprika, and serve with cream mayonnaise or French dressing.

CREAM ROLLS—Four eggs, beaten light without separating, one cup granulated sugar, two tablespoons cocoa, one cupful prepared cake flower, pinch of salt, one teaspoonful baking powder, one teaspoonful vanilla, two tablespoonfuls milk.

Gradually beat the sugar into the eggs, add the milk, then fold in the flour, sifted with the baking powder, salt and cocoa. Turn into a baking pan 13¼x8½ inches, lined with greased paper. Bake about 15 minutes in moderate oven, at 350 degrees F. Turn onto a cloth or paper, trim off the crisp edges on the four sides and, when cooled somewhat, spread with white icing for filling and roll like a jelly roll; roll in the cloth and let stand half an hour or longer. Spread chocolate icing over the outside of the roll.

CHEESE SALAD—Here's how you can make a delicious Roquefort cheese salad dressing: Rub a quarter pound of Roquefort cheese through a fine sieve, mix it gradually with a quarter teaspoon of paprika, three tablespoons of lemon juice, and four tablespoons of either cream of olive oil, until the mixture is well and smoothly blended. And there you have a most delicious dressing.

SEARCH FLORIDA FOR SLAYER

CORAL GABLES, Fla., March 8.—(INS.)—Detectives today pushed a state-wide search for Ed Wilson, alleged gambler, of Chicago, New York and this city, who is charged with having slain Thomas "Fatty" Walsh, former bodyguard of Arnold Rothstein, during a card game in Wilson's rooms, on the fourteenth floor of the Miami Biltmore Hotel, here yesterday.

A score of witnesses are being held. Belief that Walsh was a partner of Wilson in the latter's alleged gambling layout here, was advanced today by Assistant State's Attorney Richard H. Hunt.

The fact that Walsh and Wilson quarreled Wednesday and that the pair argued shortly before the shooting over a financial matter, has caused Hunt to check their business relations.

Detectives were running down a score of new leads opened by the disclosure that Walsh had been a bodyguard of Rothstein, New York gambler slain last November. It is thought that the capture of the man who killed Walsh may lead to the apprehension of the slayers of the New York gambler.

Investigators agreed that apparently Walsh "knew too much" and was talking too much about the Rothstein case.

Arthur L. Clark, shot in the affray in which Walsh was slain, was transferred from the hospital to jail. Inspector William Connelly, of the New Yorw police, has requested that Clark be held for his department.

Inez Norton, show girl, friend of Rothstein, who figured in a contest over his will, was in Miami an hour before the killing, but had checked out, telling the clerk at another hotel that she was going to Jacksonville.

Felicia Drinks to Excess at Roadhouse Party With Gay College Crowd

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Dick Stuyvesant and Felicia Brett, both in Reno for divorce, meet and fall in love with each other. With Dick at the hotel is a bachelor friend, John Berkeley, usually called J. B. Felicia, with her 6-year-old son, is visiting the Hodges, old friends from the East, now permanent residents of Reno. Her husband, Alexander Brett, comes to Reno and on her refusal to return to him, threatens to take little Alex away from her. He hires detectives to watch Felicia and has two gunmen kidnap the boy. The boy is rescued by an odd character known as the Desert Rat and restored to Dick and J. B., who are out looking for him with a member of the state police. From the report of his private detective, Brett learns that the Rat was once a prosperous broker, Stephen Pierce. Brett recognizes the name and laughs exultantly. With the failure of the kidnaping attempt and no more visits from Brett, Felicia believes that her husband has abandoned his opposition. Dick notices a change in her, an interest in Reno festivities, that makes him anxious. He has to go away on a business trip, but wishes that he did not have to leave her. Restless in Dick's absence, Felicia accepts an invitation from young Peg Hodge to drive with her and two college boys. Her escort, Billy Blair, is openly admiring. When he offers her his flask, she hesitates, then takes it and drinks.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVII.

A FAINT, rather surprised smile hovered about Felicia's mouth. She had done it! She'd drunk as deeply from Billy Blair's silver flask as though she had liked its contents!

She leaned back against the boy's shoulder, pleasantly conscious of the admiration in his eyes, wondering what would happen next.

"Where have you been all my life, anyway?" Billy was demanding.

She laughed. He wasn't more than three years her junior, a lanky, restless boy with hazel eyes and wiry red hair.

"I've been under a spell," she told him, demurely. "In a castle with a guard and an enormous dragon!"

"Hmm!" He eyed her thoughtfully. "Something tells me I'm not the one and original knight-in-armor!"

"I think I'd rather have a regiment," said Felicia. "One knight might get to be a bore."

He snorted. "Well—give me a commission in your army?"

"Maybe." She didn't know what they were talking about, and she doubted that he did, but in any case, it sounded rather naughty.

In the front seat, oblivious to the bright afternoon sunlight, Peg and Joe Clark were occupying about a quarter of the allotted space.

"'Nother nip?" Billy offered her the flask.

It didn't, reflected Felicia, taste so badly if one drank it quickly, and once consumed, there was a pleasant inner glow that made her regret the abstemious years when she had limited her drinking to the light wines of conventional dinner tables. The sun was hot and she felt languid and, for no particular reason, very carefree and happy.

"Gosh, it's warm!" With a jerk, she pulled off the violet hat and the wind caught in her fair hair, blowing it in disorder about her flushed face.

Joe was drawing the car to the side of the road.

"Well, can you tie that?" Peg demanded, turning her head toward the two in the rumble seat and pointing to a parked machine ahead. "There's Charley Bradley's car! Wonder who's with him?"

They got out and wandered off the road, toward the creek, arms linked. Felicia stumbled.

"Funny," she said, vaguely, "I feel sort of dizzy!"

"Funny!" Billy Blair echoed. "Baby! I think you're doing noble to be able to walk at all! You certainly didn't care what you did to that flask!"

"Why — F'licia!" Peg's eyes danced as she looked at her guest. "F'licia Brett, are you tight?"

"Of course I'm not! I just—" Her arm, linked through Billy's, was heavy.

"And after the line you pulled on me last night!"

Felicia made one last attempt to appear dignified and gave it up. She grabbed Peg's arm.

"Honest, Peggy, I think I'd better sit down somewhere. I feel all right—I'm not—you know, right—but my head's going around and my legs are sort of—"

Peg shouted with laughter. "She's not right, but her head's spinning and her legs won't obey orders!" She looked at the older girl with an amused, experienced smile. "Listen, you boys run ahead and find Charley—F'licia and I want to talk or powder our noses or what-have-you. We'll turn up."

Felicia sat down on the ground and looked up with bewildered eyes.

"Really, Peg, I'm not in the least affected by that stuff. My mind's perfectly clear. But—"

Peg stood above her, shaking with laughter. "F'licia, I've offered a standing prize of a bunch of wrought iron orchids to any girl who'll admit that liquor really affects her! It's just their feet or their tongue or their right ear! Me, I know when I'm drunk!"

Felicia shook her head. Was her mind, in the least bit, whirling round with her head?

"It's funny," she said, dreamily.

"What's funny?"

"Oh, I don't know. I used to think it was awful for people to—you know, drink and everything. But somehow I've changed. I don't know why."

"Well, don't lose any sleep over that! So long as you have snapped out of it—" Peg shrugged. "Take a good deep breath of this mountain air, lamb—you'll feel better before you feel worse."

Felicia breathed deeply, her head went back.

"I'm for everything that makes life gayer!" Peg stated. "Gosh, there's enough beefing and tearing of hair in this world. You've had your share of it with that old buzzard you married—come on and act your age, now, like a regular fellow!"

Felicia nodded. It sounded reasonable. It soun'ed darn' reas'nable.

"No girl ever gets anywhere by being a stick," said Peg. "And here in Reno, where there are about eight times as many women as men, you darn well have to have something! You should worry! Billy says you've got more appeal than Greta Garbo!"

Felicia blushed. That boy said that. How did he dare? Yet when they rejoined the boys, she watched him with a new interest.

Two other couples were with them, more students from the university, moving, like the animals in the Ark, in pairs.

"My girl friend here," Peg introduced Felicia, "has just emerged from the dark ages! She was married from the cradle to an old mummy who's kept her under lock and key. Why not have a drink to, F'licia? It's as good an excuse as any!"

They sat on the ground, chattering and laughing and passing flasks from hand to hand.

"O—whisky is the life of man—" began Billy Blair, in a deep baritone.

"Oh—whisky! Johnny!" sang the others.

"I" drink whisky when I can—"

"O—whisky for my Johnny!"

Felicia leaned dreamily back against Billy's arm, listening to their song. For a long time they sang, young voices rising lustily — The Oregon Trail, The Cowboy's Lament, The Ozark Trail, innumerable verses of the old favorite, Frankie and Johnny.

Charley Bradley bent over the little dark-eyed girl beside him and kissed her lingeringly; scrambled to his feet, dragging her with him.

"Too many people around here, Dolly," he told her. "C'mon with Poppa!"

Felicia watched them disappear around a clump of firs and her heart thumped excitedly. This younger generation was certainly frank and casual about its love-making. Joe was too lazy to move; his head on Peg's shoulder, he would turn his face from time to time, straining upward until his lips met hers. Peg kissed him mechanically, with no particular enthusiasm.

"We've got to get back," Peg said, abruptly, absently stroking Joe's rumpled hair. "F'licia, can you face the family?"

Felicia nodded. Face them! She was grown up, wasn't she? She could do what she liked! She felt strangely immature before these wise young people.

The red roadster devoured the road, spraying a cloud of dust back into the faces of Charley Bradley's party, trying unsuccessfully to pass them.

"Well, baby?" Billy Blair demanded. He had taken Felicia's chin between his thumb and forefinger and tilted her face up inquiringly.

"Well?" said Felicia. Confused though she had been, she had skillfully avoided this boy's kiss. After all, one didn't go about indiscriminately making love—at least, she didn't!

His eyes held laughter; close to hers they were gay, daring.

"Well?" he repeated.

Felicia's lashes fluttered, then descended swiftly over her own eyes. . . . Old-fashioned, was she. . . . Well. He eliminated the two inches that separated their faces.

Polly Saves Mother From Being Trapped by Mrs. Keith

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Polly Carter, sophisticated modern girl, returns home from college commencement convinced that people and life are dull and prosaic. Her first great shock comes when she discovers her own "old-fashioned" mother in the arms of Walter Keith, her father's law partner. Filled with contempt, she is about to expose her mother's duplicity, when she finds that her father has neglected his home for his business and civic affairs. Keith's wife, a stupid bore, becomes suspicious of her husband's attentions to Mrs. Carter. She plans a trap for them. Polly accidentally discovers it.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER V.

AFTER a moment of paralyzed terror, Polly ran as fast as she could to the back stairs, swooped down them almost without touching the steps, stamped on the kitchen floor, coughed for a warning, and then stepped into the pantry, snatched at the basket of tomatoes and murmured softly:

"Let me help. I'm hungry, too."

The exaggerated indifference of her mother and Keith convinced Polly that they had just broken from each other's arms, but she gave no sign of any suspicion. Her mother set to stirring mayonnaise and Walter Keith began to saw a loaf of bread with violence. The pantry was a scene of energy by the time Mrs. Keith pushed open the door. Polly caught her glare of triumphant hate just before it changed to one of baffled confusion at the sight of Polly, who sang out:

"Come on in, Mrs. Keith! The more the merrier."

She stole a look at her mother and at Walter Keith. They had their backs turned to the dining room door or Mrs. Keith would have seen the guilt and terror on their faces. Polly, through the screen of her eyelashes, saw them exchange a glance that said—or at least Polly thought it said:

"Does Polly suspect anything? She saved us accidently, but does she suspect us?"

Mrs. Keith stuttered:

They forced bright casual smiles of welcome and turned to say, "Hello! What woke you up?"

"I was just w-wondering wh-what kept you s'long."

Polly explained for them with a bright laugh:

"It was my expert help. I've been very busy getting in the way."

Crushed with disappointment at finding nothing wrong, Mrs. Keith gulped an "Oh!" and went back to the dining room.

Keith and Mrs. Carter congratulated themselves that Polly had not caught them and for her sake they overacted so crossly that Polly wondered if they were really deceiving Mrs. Keith, who also strove to be merry and sat snorting like a wind-broken, heart-broken hippopotamus.

The whole affair filled Polly with so bitter a contempt for all old people that she wondered how they dared to criticize the young generation as they were always doing. But she hung about until the animals were fed and Walter Keith had taken his huge pet home. Then Polly's father went back to his desk; but her mother was so plainly bursting with questions that Polly kissed her a hasty good-night and ran to her room. She was afraid that she might let slip words that she could never recall.

After a night of bad dreams with her eyes open and worse ones breaking up her sleep, she woke early with a decision. She would go to Walter Keith and do what her father ought to have been done long ago; order him never to come near the house again.

Learning that her father was to be in court the next day and that Keith would be in the office, she lied virtuously to her mother about some shopping she had to do and went straight to her task.

Her father's old homely secretary greeted her and when she asked for Mr. Keith motioned her to his office. She tapped lightly on his door and walked in. He was so deeply engrossed in a stack of lawbooks that he did not hear her. She studied the back of his great silvered head with awe.

He was still the unmeasurably older giant, on whose gigantic foot, big as a saddle, she had sat while he jogged her to Banbury Cross when she was a 2-year-old tot.

She felt suddenly how impertinent it was of a foolish little girl like her to begin rearranging the lives of such ancient persons.

She was about to slip out and go back to her toys, but Keith turned and saw her, rose and greeted her with open arms. She went forward and shook hands with him gravely. He complained:

"Where's the sweet kiss I always used to get when you came home from school?"

She simply smiled and sat down.

He tried again:

"You've got to pay the fee in advance if you've come to me for advice."

It was her timidity that made her unintentionally insolent. She meant to murmur, but she rasped:

"I didn't come to ask advice, but to give it."

"Whew! Well, what do you advise?"

"I advise you to—to let my mother alone and quit mistreating her."

"Me! mistreat your mother? Why, I have the greatest affection for her."

"I know you h[illegible], and I want you to stop it."

"Good Lord, aren't you in the wrong office?"

She fumbled at her handbag and muttered:

"The other night I came home from the theater unexpectedly and I found you on the back porch with my mother. I—I saw you hold her in your arms and—and kiss her."

Keith's jaw sagged and his whole body with it, but he put up the best defense he could.

"Why, my dear child, I've kissed your mother hundreds of times, in the presence of your father and my wife, and you. I knew her before you were born."

Polly shrugged her shoulders and skewered him with her stare:

"I know those kisses, but these were different. You're a great lawyer, Mr. Keith, and I can't argue with you; I'm just a young girl you used to love and I'm pleading with you not to ruin my mother's life, not to wreck my father's home."

He stared at her a long while and she was afraid of him. He was famous for his intellectual skill in fencing with the keenest jurists. He was a handsome man. He had a way with women, and now he took the best method of disarming a woman: he threw himself on her mercy and attacked her from an unforeseen direction:

"Polly, I'll ask you one question. When you came home didn't you notice how much younger your mother looks, how much happier, how much more eagerness she has for life than she has had for years?"

Polly was silent. She had been struck by those very changes the moment she saw her mother at the station. But she dared not admit this, since it might prove that it was her new love and her new interest in life that had brought back youth and beauty.

Keith waited while she thought it out; then he poured all his heart into his famous golden voice:

"You love your mother. So do I. We both are concerned about your mother's happiness. If I have contributed to it, I have no apologies to make. She has earned happiness and no sacrifice is too great to preserve it. If sacrificing me would make her happier, I would be the first to advise it, no matter how much it would cost me in the happiness I find with her. I'm a man, a busy man. I have my work to do whether I like it or not. And if it were for your mother's best interests for me to keep away from her, I could get along somehow—"

Before he could go on, she broke in frantically:

"Then please do! Please get along somehow without my mother!"

He pursued his argument relentlessly:

"But, conceited as it may sound, I don't think it would make for your mother's happiness. What has she to live for? Her children have all grown up and gone away to other homes, all except you—and you'll not linger long. When you've gone, what has she left?"

"She has my father! Her husband!"

Polly gave this the more emphasis because of its weakness, but Keith made his eyes and his voice very gentle:

"Now, Polly, are you quite honest? You love your father, yet you don't love him half as much as I do, really, for I spend half my life with him, hours and days and weeks in the closest companionship and co-operation. You would scream if you had to do that. And, with all due respect to you, he would scream if he had to spend much time with you—or with his wife. What takes him to all these clubs and boards and committees? He doesn't earn a cent there. They cost him time and money. Why does he prefer them to his home? Because he loves them better. Isn't that the only real answer?

"Your father is one of the finest men in the world, a great lawyer, a great patriot, a great civic worker. But his heart is no longer in his home, now is it, Polly? He loves your mother very dearly—almost as dearly as he loves his old slippers and his old smoking jacket. But as for what you and I would consider love of man for woman, love of lover for beloved—why, that all died out years and years ago."

She bowed her head in shame at what her father had disabled her to deny. Keith went on.

"My wife—if I may descend to discussing her—is involved in this very delicate case, deeply involved. Try to understand me, Polly. There is no woman I have more profound respect or more undying affection for than my wife, but she loves me in her way just as your father loves your mother in his. It is almost a pity that your father and my wife did not marry each other. They are very fond of each other, but neither would miss the other except as a piece of old furniture that was not in its usual place.

"You may have noticed that many wives cling to husbands who are drunkards or gamblers or rascals, while the wives of very prominent and respectable men are often mysteriously unhappy. Do you know why? It's because the bad men come home and are helpless and need their wives, while the good men don't need anybody but their noble missions.

"I'm a lawyer and I know whereof I speak. There are more homes wrecked by the ambition and righteousness of men who are a little too virtuous than by ruin or vice.

"For years, while your father has been doing noble work for the community, your mother has been eating her heart out with loneliness. She has been a part-time widow, an old maid so far as your father is concerned; and she was fading into one really.

"Then one forlorn evening my excellent but drowsy wife fell asleep at the card table and your father instead of sending me home with her, said 'You entertain Mary while I send out some delinquency notices to the members of the country club.' Your mother and I, mere castaways, discards, drifted out to look at the moon, and—perhaps you may have looked at the moon. Your mother looks uncommonly well by moonlight and—well—she was horrified to find that her heart could still beat and she was human—if she weren't she wouldn't have suffered as your father has made her suffer.

"Now you come along and propose to finish the work your father began. You are going to sentence her to jail for life. Are you sure you're right?

"By and by, Polly, you will marry and before long you will discover as you get acquainted with more and more married people—as only other married people know other married people—that tens of thousands of our most respectable homes are in exactly the condition of yours. You can't imagine now how many people who have outlived their first romances have made these—well, readjustments. It has always been the case, for thousands of years.

"Of late years an increasing number of impatient and greedy souls have rushed to the divorce courts on one pretext or other, but they usually have to go again. Some of us older people prefer the good old-fashioned way. It avoids scandal, keeps the peace, and makes for general contentment and respectability.

"It's a dangerous thing to meddle with other people's hearts, my dear. Even doctors rarely operate on that organ. Hadn't you better leave us poor old souls alone. If I give your mother a little happiness that she would not otherwise have; if I brighten a few hours that she would otherwise spend alone, who is the wiser, or the worse for it? You don't really want to drive me out of her life and condemn her to years and years of solitude, do you? Do you?"

Polly was crying softly, less from what he said than from the hunger in his voice, and from her own visions of her mother's dreary existence without the tenderness of this devoted lover. She looked up through raining eyes and found his old eyes dewy, and she sighed.

"You're right. I can see it now. I had no business to meddle with what I didn't understand. But your wife—"

"My wife? She hasn't a suspicion of my interest in your mother!"

"Oh, but she has! she has! You wondered why I came bursting into the pantry last night."

"It was rather abrupt."

"Well, I happened to look down at Mrs. Keith from upstairs and I saw that she was only pretending to sleep. She opened her eyes and looked about, then she started for the pantry with the most fiendish look I ever saw on a human face.

"My God!"

"I just managed to beat her there. That's why I pretended to have been with you all the while. You should have seen the look on her face when she saw me. It was poisonous. I tell you she's going to go through this town like a mad elephant any day now."

Keith was white and shivering, as badly terrified as only a brave man can be of a frenzied, reckless woman.

IF RHEUMATIC BEGIN ON SALTS

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat no sweets of any kind for a while, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of Jad Salts occasionally to help keep down uric and toxic acids.

Rheumatism is caused by poison toxins, called acids, which are generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this poison, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove body waste, also to stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

WHAT a wonderful sight! To walk down the street and see in the distance the lights of your very own home! Each gleaming window seems to call a welcome, but the best of all is when you're actually there and look and see—the dearest faces in the world! The One who has given her heart to your keeping, and the baby face which has come to you both to gladden and crown your love.

These are the true lights of home. The lights which make for peace and joy and happiness. The lights that will guide you and be your lode-star all through life. There's nothing brighter in all the world than these two faces. So here's to the Lights of Home! May they never fade!

Dreadful Pain Felt in Angina Pectoris

NO MATTER where the severe pain is located in the body, it seems to the sufferer that he is worse off than anybody else ever was. It is the present pain that seems hardest.

DR. COPELAND

I have seen many a person in terrible agony. Headache, earache, the eye pain in glaucoma, the suffering of shingles, inflammation of the stomach—any one of these may be terrible. But to my mind the attack known as "angina pectoris," angina of the heart, is the most dreadful of all pains.

When the agony of this ailment comes on, the bravest and calmest of strong men will roll on the floor in his distress. Every line in the pallid face shows the terrible mental fear and physical suffering. There is nothing else that can approach its agonizing effects.

One writer describes it in these words: "A heavy laden weight lies upon the patient's chest and he dare not try to breathe because of excruciating pain, and without breath he must die." Indeed, it is a state of misery without equal.

Some unfortunate persons have a tendency to this disease. They suffer recurring attacks. Every few weeks, or perhaps only once a year, they appear.

Usually the angina comes on after severe physical strain or emotional disturbance. Anger, sorrow, disaster, or some similar exciting cause may bring on the attack.

All at once there is a pain in the heart. It feels as if that vital organ had been seized and was being squeezed in a werful vise. The pain does not stop here. It fills the chest, runs into the shoulder and down the arm.

The face is the color of ashes. Sweat pours from the forehead. The victim is sure he will die at once. He looks and acts and feels like a dying man.

The spasm may last but a few minutes. It may continue for a quarter of an hour or even longer. But usually the pain passes off after a few seconds. Indeed, it is so unbearable that death would come without speedy relief.

Of course, I have been describing the violent, the worst forms of angina pectoris. There are other forms in which the agony is less pronounced and the symptoms disappear quickly.

Not every pain, by any means, that is felt under the chest bone, is angina pectoris. There may be severe pain in some attacks of indigestion with gas formation. But then the agony is less severe and usually more prolonged.

Sometimes in high blood pressure, associated with kidney disease, there may be attacks of pain in this region. It is important to have your doctor make a thorough physical examination to determine exactly what is wrong.

There are remedies which control the pain of angina. Your doctor will prescribe them.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Marion's Delight in Driving New Car Lessens Lillian's Worry.

"I WON'T go up with you," I told Katherine when Lillian's tea and toast were ready. "I'm too fresh from my interview with Harry to be wholly at my ease with her. I don't want her to have the slightest suspicion that I've talked to him."

"Neither do I," Katherine returned, "but you'd better conquer your fluttering nerves as soon as possible, for I'm going to have her come down stairs to the veranda. It's too wonderful a day to spend indoors."

"That won't be like seeing her alone," I said. "Mother Graham is down there."

"And Dicky and Junior," Katherine added. "Also in a few minutes you can add my name. So if there's 'safety in numbers, Rory O'Moore,' you ought to be able to hide your sense of guilt or what have you."

"Get along with you," I told her laughing, but after she left, I wondered if there had not been reproof in her jest. Katherine is so absolutely poised herself that she finds it hard to forgive anyone who indulges in qualms or flutters.

But later when we were all gathered on the veranda I was sure that Lillian had no suspicion that Katherine and I were leagued in friendly plotting for her ease of mind. She was pale but more serene than I had seen her for many days. Plainly Katherine's account of Marion's high spirits in starting on the drive had lessened her worry over the tense situation between her husband and her daughter. But her eyes were always watchful of the road and I knew that she was eager for the return of the travelers that she might see for herself what Marion's reaction was.

At last the mellow note of the expensive horn of the new car sounded beyond the lilacs which hedge the entry and Junior started up excitedly.

"I bet your boots there they are now," he cried. "That's the horn! I know it. Uncle Harry let me toot it. And, oh, lookye!" as the car came through the gates a trifle unsteadily but with no disastrous scraping. "Marion's driving it!"

We checked the truth of his words in another second. Lillian's winsome young daughter was indeed at the wheel, and as she brought the car to a stop, she tore open the car door and rushed over to the veranda.

"Mummy! Everybody!" she called exultantly, "I drove it all the way from Riverhead, right through the towns and everything. Mary gave up her place to me on the way over where there was a lonely stretch of road, so I got on to the way of running it, and I didn't have to stop once coming back except to practice turning in a gate. I thought I'd better do that before I turned in this one."

"That was a wise precaution, Marion," Dicky teased. "I confess my heart was in my mouth when you rounded that lilac bush on the end. I thought you meant to drag it in with you, sort of Summer Yule log effect, you know."

"Don't pay any attention to him, Marion," Mr. Underwood said easily, coming up to the steps with Mary. "He's simply jealous because he always carries along some section of a gate or fence or bush whenever he enters or leaves a driveway. You done noble, I'm here to tell the world. A little more practice and you'll have 'em all skinned. I'd rather trust my neck to you than to the Dicky this minute."

"Just for that you'll walk from Quogue to New York, as far as I'm concerned," threatened Dicky, but Mr. Underwood paid no attention to him, for he was speaking to his wife.

"How are you feeling, Lillian?" he asked. "Much better, I hope."

His tone could not have been much more formal if he had been inquiring concerning the health of the First Lady of the Land!

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Dollars and Love

SOMEBODY ought to write a book on "How to Hold a Woman's Love."

In a world overflowing with advice on how to capture and hold the elusive male, it would be SO refreshing. And if Gertrude Atherton is right, there is a crying need for such a work.

HELEN ROWLAND

Yet her statement is backed up by the fact that in Washington, a group of debutantes have formed a "Bachelor Girls' Club," with the avowed purpose of discouraging marriage, and promoting single blessedness.

Of course, to the conquering male, all this looks like "just a new gesture." Just "an alibi," in case they fail to make the grade in matrimony.

Well, let's be perfectly frank and honest about it. Economic independence and modern freedom have made women a lot more fastidious and "choicy" in the matter of male companionship. To a girl with a perfectly good job and plenty of spending money, marriage looks more like a beautiful luxury than like a dire necessity.

Yet, glorious and thrilling as economic independence may be, it will never take the place of romance, love and marriage in any normal girl's existence. A career is dazzling and exciting; but you can't tie ribbons on your brain-children, nor sing them lullabies.

Fame and money and success are wonderful. But the average woman is just that "weak," that she would rather be pinning laurels on "her man" than winning them for herself. And there is a thrill about having the man you love buy things for you that exceeds any thrill you ever got out of a weekly pay envelope.

No, dear heart! If women are looking a little dubiously at marriage and a little speculatively at men, there is more to it than a mere gesture.

Men have lost their glamorous charm in the eyes of women because they have almost forgotten how to talk to women or how to be companionable.

After concentrating his whole mind on the pursuit of the almighty dollar for eight or ten hours a day, about all that a man can think of to entertain a woman in the evening is to offer her a kiss, a dinner or a diamond bracelet.

By the time night comes, the American business man's imagination has "gone dead," his mind is a total blank and even his heart has slowed down to low gear. There isn't a sparkle left anywhere in his tired brain, and his conversation sounds like one long yawn.

* * *

He can dance, pet and play bridge in a mechanical sort of fashion, but you sort of get the impression that he "keeps going" just in order to prove that he's still conscious.

* * *

Some day, man will get tired of being a dollar-slave and a robot, and will learn again to read books, to enjoy poetry and music and beauty. And then, perhaps, he will learn how to charm a woman.

* * *

Because, after all, chasing dollars dulls the imagination and deadens the senses, and is very tame sport beside chasing rainbows and romance.

Horoscope

Saturday, March 9

A DAY of excellent opportunity and advantage is forecast by the interesting chain of sidereal operations. The energies and faculties generally will receive high stimuli to initiative and enterprise, and all should flourish if a certain aspect of subtlety, menacing negotiations with large and secret bodies, be heeded. Personal affiliations also present happy phases despite an inherent tendency to indulge in sarcasm and pointed speech.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a very lively and enterprising year, with a high spirit of initiative making for constructive effort, hard work and even subtle manipulation; but be on guard in dealing with large and close corporations or "rings." Personal matters are likewise prosperous.

A child born on this day may be versatile, enterprising and practical in many directions. It may lean toward literature or some unusual pursuits, having many-sided talents and tendencies.

Nothing is denied to well directed labor, and nothing is ever attained without it.—Sir Joshua Reynolds.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

On Being Introduced

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: Four of us were playing bridge one evening when my hostess' brother and his wife arrived with another couple. The two men, of course, rose immediately upon the arrival of the two couples, and my hostess, who is about my age, also rose to make the introductions. I acknowledged the introductions from my chair, which left me the only one seated in the room. Should I have risen also? I did not think so as the arrivals were not elderly but near my own age.

2. Also, in making introductions, should one always rise, if seated, and the two to be introduced are standing? MARIAN.

YES, it would have been more polite for to have risen too, since your hostess rose.

2. Yes.

Ice Cream and Cake

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: How should one eat ice cream and cake when served together? ANOTHER READER.

THE ice cream is eaten with the ice cream fork and ice cream spoon (the ideal service for ice cream) or with the ice cream fork or ice cream spoon, and the cake is eaten in the fingers, a small piece being broken off at a time.

Party Unnecessary

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: I am about to become engaged. We both have a great many friends and I would like to know how to announce my engagement. Everyone expects it, but we have set no definite date for our marriage. It will perhaps be a year or more before we marry. What is the proper thing to do? Shall I just wear the ring and let that be the only indication that I am engaged, or shall I have a party? The trouble is we have so many friends that it would be impossible to have all of them and I don't want to slight any. O.

TELL the happy news to the friends who live near, and write those whom it is impossible to "tell." Then if you wish, your mother and father may insert a formal announcement of the engagement in the local newspapers. With all this, and the wearing of the ring, the news will spread quickly enough. A party, while it is an enjoyable and jolly way of celebrating the news, is not at all necessary.

Mr. Coolidge's Own Story

In April Cosmopolitan he Breaks his Silence and tells

THE PRICE in HEARTACHES of BEING PRESIDENT

Now and then a President of the United States has written something which became historical as a human document rather than as a state paper. Washington's farewell address, Lincoln's letter to a mother; these were the thoughts of great men written in a manner so human that none could fail to feel the heart behind them.

In April Cosmopolitan Calvin Coolidge begins his account to the American people of his years in the White House. We believe he has written a human document as fine as those by Washington and Lincoln.

WITH such an outstanding feature as keystone of a superb issue, Cosmopolitan could well have postponed starting a new serial by an author as distinguished as Fannie Hurst. However, here it is—the finest novel ever written by the author of "Humoresque."

We put especial emphasis on that word "human." You, of course, have heard that Calvin Coolidge was a sphinx. That he had ice-water in his veins. That he never smiled.

Bosh! Calvin Coolidge enjoys a joke as much as you do. He can tell as entertaining an anecdote as you can. He's no hail-fellow-well-met—thank heaven—but he's a very human being.

Those who thought they were smart in calling him a sphinx seemed to resent the reserve of their President. That never worried him. He believed the words of the President were important; that they should be chosen carefully and used sparingly. But Calvin Coolidge, the man—that's a different matter. And it's the man who talks to you in his own story.

In Part One, in April Cosmopolitan, he tells you the human reasons why he did not choose to run in 1928. They are reasons which will touch the heart of every American; reasons which will make you understand when he says, "It costs a lot to be President."

We may exceed our province as prophets when we say that we believe these words by Mr. Coolidge will become historical, but we are within our province as editors when we say that his is the most warmly human document it ever has been our good fortune to publish.

BUCCANEERS UNIMPRESSIVE IN WIN

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Both Sides Like Trade.
Petty-Wright Praised.
Lary Pleases Huggins.
Waner's Belated Terms.
Ray Backs Up Barbuti.
McLarnin's Old Form.

STAR IS PAID FOR "AMATEUR" RACES

IF ever a baseball trade was made that left both sides satisfied to the point of actual enthusiasm, the swapping of Glenn Wright for Jess Petty and Harry Riconda by the Pittsburgh and Brooklyn clubs appears to be the one entitled to that rare classification. Out on the coast, Donie Bush is in high spirits over the form that early signs indicate Petty is going to show on the mound this year. The Pirate leader believes that the lefthander may safely be counted upon for 20 or more victories, and, regardless of what Riconda may amount to, Bush is of the opinion that the acquisition of the star southpaw alone is certain to mean a big gain for the Bucs.

Glenn Wright

And down in Clearwater, Fla., Wilbert Robinson is equally enthusiastic about Wright. His recent action in appointing Wright captain of the Dodgers was one indication of Robbie's strong fancy for the former Pittsburgh shortstop, as he had always picked out hoary veterans for that role—Jake Daubert, Buck Wheat, Jacques Fournier and Max Carey—whereas Glenn's birthday anniversary last Tuesday brought him up to only his twenty-seventh milestone.

AND that isn't the only way in which the Brooklyn manager has shown how welf he likes his new shortstop. Camp reports say that he is absolutely sold on Wright, both as a hitter and a fielder, that he predicts Glenn will have the best season of his life, and that he has departed from his custom and declared that the spring field looks mighty good, even with D'Arcy Flowers missing—all because of the addition of the ex-Buccaneer.

Another boost for Wright, by the way, comes from Al Munro Elias, the baseball figure filbert. Elias says that in going over the records he finds that Glenn has a better life-time average for runs knocked in than any other player in the National League. In other words the shortstop tops the entire league in timely hitting. Wright appears to be set for another big season in that department, too. He is said to be hitting. Wright appears to be set for another big season in that department, too. He is said to be hitting in sensational style in spring practice despite the handicap of a lame shoulder which has forced him to work out at second base instead of short during the last few days.

MILLER HUGGINS declares that these Coast League judges who said Lyn Lary would not make the grade in the major leagues were sadly off in their guesses. Even at this early stage of the spring proceedings, the Yankee manager goes so far as to forecast Lary as his probable regular shortstop.

Lyn Lary

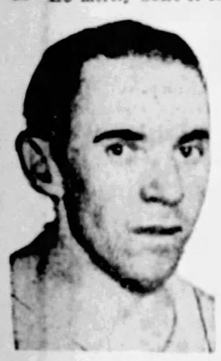
So unless later developments force Huggins to change his plans, this recruit who only four years ago was a senior in a small-town high school, will this season rise to the prominence of being a regular part of baseball's most powerful team.

THE Yankee skipper is outspoken in his admiration of Lary's 'hands,' the smooth manner in which he grabs grounders and the quickness with which he gets the ball away. "Lary looks like a real ball player," said Huggins. "I am figuring on him for shortstop because that is where he has always played. Possibly I may look at him at third base, too, but I think shortstop is where he belongs, and that is where I expect to play him." Lary's real name, it develops, is O'Leary. Charley O'Leary, the Yankee coach, made that assertion when he first met the former Coast Leaguer this spring, and the recruit finally admitted it. He said that the family name was gradually shortened while several generations were "growing up" in California.

THOUGH both sides declare that they intend to stand pat in the deadlocked contract debate between the Pittsburgh baseball club and the Waner brothers, Paul has at least furnished a starting point from which the parties may be able to get somewhere eventually in finally announcing that $18,000 is the salary he wants for 1929.

Despite statements to the contrary that have been made in some quarters, it is known that this is the first time the elder Waner has informed the Pittsburgh club either directly or indirectly as to what size of salary he wanted or expected. Lloyd named $12,000 as his figure right off the bat, it is said, but his brother never mentioned any sum.

THE same contract was sent to Paul three times, but in each instance he merely sent it back unsigned without saying what amount of pay would be necessary to satisfy him.



Joie Ray

His belated announcement of his terms has at least made things clearer than they have been since the double holdout began, and the parties to the disagreement may be considered one step nearer to the settlement at which they will eventually arrive beyond a doubt.

COMES no less an athletic personage than Joie Ray to back up the charges made by Ray Barbuti, Olympic 400-meter running champion, who has been suspended by the A. A. U. for alleging that "certain athletes received more than their expenses and this is known to a certain A. A. U. official." "Sure, I got money for running amateur races, and I can name one A. A. U. official who gave me good dough for running," Ray asserted to George Currie. "It makes me sick, this jumping on Barbuti for telling what is only common gossip about amateur athletic stars. I'm willing to go before their committee and tell what I know. They can't suspend me or threaten to declare me a pro. I'm that already.

"THEY gave Charley Hoff the ax because he wouldn't hop half way across the country to appear in a meet. He didn't have any money, and even an amateur athlete isn't required by the rules to ride on the brake rods. Stars are moved around like checker men. The boys run their heads off, build up the gate receipts and all that sort of thing.

"But when you've finished pulling customers through the gate your name is mud. You're a has-been. You're not wanted. I know. I've been through it. Barbuti is absolutely right. Open hands and open pocketbooks when you're running them into the ground. The stony mitt and cold shoulder when you're through.

"WHY, I've seen a lineup of athletes waiting to get their envelopes —what they call 'expenses.' I would walk out and they would yell at me, 'Come on, Joie, line up and get your money.' I would

FIRST NINE NOT SO HOT MINUS WANER BOYS

BY CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 8.—With a good ball game and victory under their belts today, the Pirate regulars may be said to be ready for all comers, yet without the Waner brothers, the first team doesn't appear so hot.

Well, anyhow, the combination that trimmed the Yanigans, 3 to 2, in the first camp battle, played heads-up ball, although the favorites had to have the break of a fumble in the kids' infield to put them in a position to wrest a triumph that was swinging toward the Yans as late as the sixth inning.

The loose play opened the way for a three-run rally that overpowered the Colts, who also scored their only runs in the sixth. A ripping double by Steve Swetonic was the pivotal punch of the two tallies. Steve drove over Bob Linton and he tallied himself on Coburn Jones' single.

GRANTHAM GETS DOUBLE

Boots Grantham busted open the home half with a double. Jonesey fumbled Traynor's grounder and there were runners on second and first with none out. Brickell beat out a tap on a bit of loose fielding and the bases were filled for Sheely, who smeared a long one to Carl Frey, Grantham scored and Traynor moved to third.

Swetonic made Harry Riconda pop a foul to Bartell in the clinch, but with Hemsley at bat, Traynor and Brickell worked a double steal to tie up the fight and Hemsley promptly drove over the winning counter with a hot smash to left.

Manager Bush this morning was pleased over the performance of his two squads in the opening fight. The play in the initial fracas was fast and the batting was better than the box score would indicate. Clever fielding in the pasture held down the run-making. The infield play was both good and bad, so far as the second team was concerned.

SPENCER INVINCIBLE

The six pitchers announced for the opener went through their paces in an excellent manner. Leon Chagnon gave a fine impression as he blanked the Yans on two hits in the first three rounds. Wallie Tauscher completely stopped the Colts in the two succeeding frames, but Swetonic's fine double broke the spell in the sixth. Glenn Spencer held the Yans runless in the last three rounds.

Larry French, toiling against the Regulars, looked the part of a star southpaw as he checked the first team on one scratch hit in three frames. Swetonic followed him to the mound, Fred Fussell pitching runless ball in the last three periods.

TWO SESSIONS TODAY

With Bartell on third, Jones at short, O'Connell at second and Windle on first, the youngsters enlivened the battle by their peppery behavior. Verona John O'Connell played bang-up ball at second in the absence of infielders. Jim Stroner was not permitted to enter the game, so Harry Riconda played the whole contest at third for the Regulars.

Two sessions are on the docket for today with a camp game listed for tomorrow. On Sunday the Regulars will take on the San Francisco Seals and the Yans will journey to Monterey to meet the Seals' second team.

BARBUTI ST ILL UNDER BAN

NEW YORK, March 8.—(AP.)—After a four-hour discussion of the case, the registration committee of the Metropolitan Association, Amateur Athletic Union, failed to lift the suspension of Ray Barbuti, Olympic 400-meter champion.

Barbuti was indefinitely suspended some days ago for expressing, through newspaper articles, considerable criticism of the A. A. U. and its policies.

After examining Barbuti and several newspapermen who had heard the former Syracuse sprint star criticize the A. A. U., the registration committee took no action.

Barbuti's chief charge had been that a "certain A. A. U. official knew that amateur athletic stars were receiving more money than their expenses called for." Repeatedly asked to reveal this official's name, Barbuti declined to answer. The committee chairman, J. J. Diegnan, announced after the meeting that unless Barbuti definitely named the official his suspension would stand.

The committee announced also that Joie Ray, former miler, now turned professional marathoner, would be asked to appear before the committee to present any proof, if possible, that A. A. U. athletes had been receiving more money than their expenses called for.

Charleroi has provided Pittsburgh with some of its best ring talent, starting back in the days of Young Carmen and Eddie Pinchot, some 15 years ago. Later came Willie Davies, Young Saylor, Cuddy DeMarco, the three Fay brothers, and many others.

Howard Mayberry

Now things are rather quiet fistically in the town, and Donora is eclipsing it with its development of corking fist-flingers, including Tommy and Harold Hileman, the Sala brothers, Lee, Bruno and Manilla; Andy Radd, Joe Ribnickey, Howard Mayberry and a few others, under the management of A. L. (Butch) Kastner. Battling Giz..., managed by Banty Reihner, of Washington, Pa., is another ace of the town.

MAYBERRY IS IMPETUS

Donora's splurge to the front dates back to the return there of Howard Mayberry, the veteran bantamweight, who started out there a dozen or so years ago and came to Pittsburgh and then went to Canada and on to the coast and then settled in Duluth and finally returned home and still is a fine little ringster. He has been one of the busiest main-bouters in this section this winter. Donora's boxing colony has been built around Mayberry and has received its impetus from his presence there and his interest in and encouragement of its young hopefuls.

More power to the Donoraites They are setting a mark for Charleroi and the other towns to shoot at. It is a far cry from the days when it was a one-fighter town with Young Roscoe, a knockout-hitting lightweight, as its pride and joy, a half-dozen or so years ago.

RANDALL TO BOX PROFIO

Tiger Joe Randall, Negro welterweight of Elizabeth, and Dominick Profio, of Cecil, have been matched to box the main bout at the Moose Club next Friday night, it was announced today. Randall now is under the management of Jim Buchanan, of Charleroi. He has fought Profio a four-round bout at Motor Square Garden, putting up a great stand, and has shown marked improvement in his battles since then. Ray Newton, of Mansfield, O., knockerout of Terry Lingo and Battling Gizzy, originally was booked for the main event next Friday, but he has taken a runout on Promoter Flynn.

Barney Himself To See Bucs Play Today

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 8.—Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pirates, expects to see his favorites in a practice session today.

Dreyfuss, accompanied by Mrs. Dreyfuss and some San Francisco relatives, will motor here from Del Monte, located 100 odd miles from the Pirate training site.

The elder Dreyfuss expects to return to Del Monte immediately after a few hours' stay in Paso Robles.

WANERS PLAY GOLF; HOLD TO STAND

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 8.—(AP.)—The Waners act was staged on an Oklahoma City golf course yesterday afternoon and when the curtain was rolled down on the 18 holes of play, Paul jestingly declared that his brother Lloyd would be forced to sign a Pittsburgh Pirate contract due to financial difficulties.

The truth was that Paul, shooting one of the best games of his life simply took Little Poison to a cleaning despite the fact that he spotted him a stroke on each hole.

"BUCS HARD LUCK"—PAUL

Paul said that he had made his last concession to the Pirate management and that the next scene of his holdout act would be a move on the part of Barney Dreyfuse, president of the Pittsburgh Club.

He was emphatic in declaring that he would report to the Pirates only when he received a wire from Dreyfuss to the effect that his 1929 salary demands had been met "and not before."

Paul said that if he was forced to pass up spring training and in the event that he had a poor year it would be the fault of the Pirate management for not meeting his salary figures and added "I consider that it will be their hard luck and not mine."

Big Poison explained his attitude by saying that if he was a veteran of the big show he knew that he'd be getting even more than the figure he is asking now.

BUCS OFFERED $20,500

Paul is quoted in a telephone interview as saying that no figure announced as offered the Waner Act by the Pirates has been true. The elder Waner said the star pair had been offered $20,500 by the Bucs, which is $9,500 less than they are asking. He wants $18,000 and Lloyd $12,000.

Paul reiterated that the Waners have issued their ultimatum.

FIGHT RESULTS

At McKeesport—Cuddy DeMarco defeated Larry Brignolia, 10 rounds; T. N. T. Gibbons defeated Mickey Solmen, 6 rounds; Chuck Zelnack defeated Tarzan (Joe) Poole, 6 rounds; Jess Hoak defeated Bob Collura, 6 rounds.

At Philadelphia—Lew Massey defeated Davy Adelman, 8 rounds; Joe Parker defeated Tommy Gleason, 8 rounds.

At Jersey City, N. J.—Irish Bobby Brady knocked out Teddy Seidemann, 1 round.

CUDDY DEMARCO VICTOR OVER BRIGNOLIA

Cuddy DeMarco, of McKeesport, was awarded the decision over Larry Brignolia, of Boston, last night in the main 10-round bout at the Palisades, McKeesport, taking the verdict of both judges, although Referee Red Robinson called the match a draw.

Opening up with his bag of tricks in the fifth round, after being content with allowing Brignolia to lead the fighting during the previous sessions, DeMarco showed flashes of his old-time form as he ripped in some beautiful left jabs and hooks and found Brignolia's jaw with hard rights. He also excelled in the infighting during the later rounds.

LARRY STARTS WELL

Brignolia started off like a house afire and took the first two rounds by fairly comfortable margins. He ripped in hard left jabs that made Cuddy back pedal repeatedly and DeMarco was kept busy trying to avoid the hard, short swings that the Boston veteran kept sending in. Brignolia's over-anxiousness to bring the fight to a quick end brought repeated warnings from Referee Robinson as he kept hitting DeMarco while coming out of the clinches, which annoying incidents caused the McKeesport Italian no little amount of worry. After an even third round, DeMarco started fighting in the fourth round and took this session by his cleaner and harder hitting. His left jab stopped Brignolia time after time as the Bostonian attempted to land his hard right.

DeMarco also took the fifth, and by this time he was fighting in the fine form that has characterized some of his best bouts. He was doing more leading and landed repeatedly with his left jab and right cross.

CUDDY INFLICTS WOUND

The sixth was even, while the balance of the rounds went to DeMarco, the seventh, ninth and tenth by fair-sized margins. In the eighth round, one of Cuddy's hard left jabs caught Brignolia over the right eye and the wound bled freely during the remainder of the bout. Both fighters weighed in at 145½ pounds.

T. N. T. Gibbons, of Cleveland, got the decision of Referee Robinson over Mickey Solmen, of New Castle, in the semi-final of six rounds after the judges had disagreed. Gibbons weighed 155½, while Solmen came in at 149½.

Chuck Zelnack, Glassport football player, won the decision over Tarzan Joe Poole, of Pittsburgh, in a second six-round bout that brought out some real slugging. Jess Hoak, of McKeesport, beat Bob Collura, of Pittsburgh, in the six-round opener.

Cummings, Local Boy With Giants, Injured

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 8.—Minor injuries hampered the work of the New York Giants today. Jack Cummings, of Pittsburgh, received a fractured thumb when struck by a foul tip and Andy Reese and Jimmy Welsh developed charley horses. Carl Mays, his thumb in splints, warmed up for the first time today since the digit was broken last week.

COACH HAWLEY QUITS

HANOVER, N. H., March 8.—(AP.)—Announcement that Jesse B. Hawley had quit as head coach of the Dartmouth football team and that Jackson L. Cannell, backfield coach, had been appointed his successor, has been made here by Harry H. Heneage, supervisor of athletics.

Portland President In Buc Camp to Acquire Hurler

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 8.—Tom Turner, president of the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League, has arrived at the Pirate camp for some conferences with the Pittsburgh directors relative to the acquisition of a pitcher.

The Pirates purchased Larry French from Portland for a sum of money and one player to be delivered at some later date. Turner wishes to watch the Buccaneer recruits in action with a view of annexing a promising boy.

HOMESTEAD FIVES TO MEET TOMORROW

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Two of Homestead's outstanding basketball teams will battle for the championship of that section tomorrow night when the Conleys, winners of the Pittsburgh and Ohio League title, clash with the crack Ackerman team in the Homestead Elks' Temple.

Both teams were members of the Homestead District League this season and the rivalry between them has reached fever heat. The Conleys are without doubt one of the best first-class teams operating in this vicinity, their showing in the P. and O. and Homestead District leagues winning them a large following of supporters.

The Ackermans likewise have a powerful quintet and they are expected to extend the favorites to the limit. The game has stirred up considerable interest in Homestead and indications are that the Elks Temple will be packed to capacity.

The Goldenson Vanities will meet the Munhall High girls in the preliminary game starting at 8 o'clock. The South Side girls are claiming the girls' title of the district, having scored 17 straight victories without the loss of a decision.

The Duquesne Lafayettes, champions of the Allegheny County League for three successive years, have next Monday night open for a game at home. Call Manager Head at Duquesne 2433.

The freshman and varsity quintets of Muskingum College will be the attraction of the North Side Community House Institutional League team tomorrow night. The freshies meet the Allegheny Scholastics in the game.

Overtaken in the second quarter after leading by one point at the conclusion of the first, Sacred Heart High, of Pittsburgh, was eliminated from the State Catholic High School tournament in a second-round game on the Duquesne University floor this morning, losing to St. Joseph's High, of Williamsport, 22 to 14.

ALTOONA ADVANCES

Catholic High of Altoona pulled a second round victory right out of the fire in the second contest of the morning, defeating Bethlehem 15 to 14. Bethlehem's weakness at the foul line cost it the game.

Altoona held a one-point lead at the half, went scoreless in the third period and won out when Conlon and Grimme sunk long goals from the floor in the closing minutes of the game. Gorman, Bethlehem guard, had three chances to tie the score from the free throw line in the second half, but missed all his chances, Grimme, Altoona forward, with four baskets and two foul points led in the scoring with 10 points. The lineup:

CHILDREN SEE PIRATES IN ACTION

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 8.—Something ought to be done about this. The grade school boys and girls of Paso Robles were in school for something like 30 minutes after the start of yesterday's game. And what a panic there was when the rooms finally were dismissed! Unfortunately for the youngsters their classrooms are a big distance from the ball orchard, nearly every youngster reaching the park after the fourth inning was almost exhausted.

There may be worse punishment than keeping a healthy boy in a school room while 20 major leaguers are cavorting on a beautiful ball park. That's about the limit, however. But Saturday will soon be here and Manager Bush has another game slated for tomorrow. The park will be hosts to hundreds of youngsters while this game is on—and hours before it starts.

ENS HOT AS UMPIRE

Jewel Ens, wearing as much armor as a dueler, handled the first scrap with as much skill as a Bill Klem, minus the dignity. Whatever dignity Jewel had was knocked higher than a kite in the ninth inning when a foul tip bit the upper strand of his mask. The head ump staggered around and it was feared he would go down for a long count, but after doing a "Leon Errol" for several seconds, he finally found the use of his legs. Of course, nobody laughed.

John O'Connell made the most thrilling play of the game when he slipped between First baseman Wintle and Right fielder Breme for a difficult capture of a foul fly. John has been nominated to play the middle bag for the Yans Sunday when they meet the Seals seconds at Monterey.

ADAMS' OUTLOOK BRIGHT

Sparky Adams appears to be ready to jump off to a good season. The little second-sacker offers quite a physical contrast as he fiddles around between Earl Sheely and Pie Traynor.

Despite his ailing hip Traynor played the entire game at short. Jim Stroner warmed up in the last few rounds, but he is still too weak to take chances. The club medicos have prevailed upon Manager Bush to keep the Chicago youth away from any strenuous doings.

Bartell looked like a star at third and he smacked the ball hard. That three-cornered fight for the hot-corner assignment, featuring Dick Bicondo and Stroner, should be a dandy if Cicero Jim rounds into his regular form.

Stroner may be a bit too quiet for his own baseball welfare, yet there is a certain something about his physique and stance at the plate that impresses one. He has shoulders like Joe Harris and apparently he can sock the ball somewhat after the manner of Coulter Joe.

AMATEUR ICE SERIES OPENS TONIGHT

By CARL W. SHATTO.

Play in the first amateur hockey championship to be decided at Duquesne Garden since Pittsburgh obtained a franchise in the National Professional League, several years ago, will get under way tonight when the Hornets and Blawnox meet in the semi-finals of the West Penn Amateur League's titular series. The same clubs will meet in a second clash at the Garden Monday evening, and the team scoring the most goals in the two engagements will qualify to meet the Philadelphia Company skaters in a three-game series for the league championship.

FINALS START TUESDAY

The championship will be decided on a best-two-out-of-three basis, the jousts to be played on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday of next week.

The transferring of the Pirates' remaining games to the East has left the amateurs in undisputed possession of the local hockey spotlight, and big crowds are expected to witness the titular battles. The Hornets, Blawnox and Philadelphia Company captured the interest of thousands of local ice fans by giving free Sunday exhibitions at the Craig street arena throughout the season, and this interest probably will grow as the championship fights advance toward a climax.

STARS IN LINEUP

Stars who made hockey history here several seasons ago will vie with more youthful luminaries in the titular fights. Among the "old school" luminaries are Paddy Sullivan, Dinny Manners, Terry McGovern and Silver McCrimmon, and J. and T. Coulter. Ren Manners and Wallie Kilrea, the latter a brother of Hec Kilrea, of the Ottawa Senators, are among those who only recently have achieved stardom.

Although the Hornets are favored to down Blawnox and advance into the finals, they are certain to encounter stiff opposition. McSorley, Kelly, Summers, Bowser and other Blawnox stalwarts are primed for a real fight, and Sullivan, Coulter and company have to travel at a fast pace to keep in the running.

MASSEY BEATS ADELMAN

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—Lew Massey, featherweight contender, of this city, defeated Davey Adelman, former state flyweight champion, without much trouble, in the eight-round windup at the new Broad A. C. here last night.

WESTMINSTER TRIMS THIEL

NEW WILMINGTON, March 8.—Westminster closed the 1928-29 basketball season in a blaze of glory here last night by swamping Thiel, 53 to 17. The losers never had a chance and at the half way mark they were trailing, 25 to 7.

Lewis and O'Donovan were the high point scorers, each gathering 16, while Morris was best for Thiel, tallying four field goals.

The victory was Westminster's fifteenth in 17 starts, having lost only to Geneva and Bethany, who were beaten in return engagements.

The lineup:

Westminster—53.		Thiel—17.
O'Donovan	F	Morris
Delehanty	F	Schillings
Crowell	C	Frantion
T. Lewis	G	Myers
Rice	G	McCoy

Substitutions — Westminster: Siesynski, Kocheran, Haase. Field goals—O'Donovan 4, Delehanty 3, Crowell 3, T. Lewis 4, Rice 3, Siesynski, Kocheran 3, Haase, Morris 4, Schillings 2. Fouls—Westminster, 9 out of 13; Thiel, 5 out of 12. Referee—Al Tveck.

SECOND ROUND GAMES TODAY

by Georges Township in the W. P. I. A. L. were the features of the day.

Tonight Bill Campbell's Homestead team will engage in its second-round contest, meeting Ford City, Section VI champions, at 8 o'clock. Profiting by the way in which Uniontown was forced to travel to defeat the little-regarded Georges Township passers last night, 22-21, Homestead is looking forward to the struggle tonight with very serious mien. After last night's game there will be no more fooling by any of these W. P. I. A. L. entries.

Sacred Heart High won the right to meet Williamsport by defeating St. Joseph's, of Oil City, yesterday, 36-24. The lineup:

SACRED HEART—36.		ST. JOSEPH—24

Brindle	F	Edwards
White	C	Harkins

ALTOONA-BETHLEHEM MEET

In the second contest this morning, Central Catholic High, of Altoona, battles Bethlehem Catholic. Altoona scored a decisive triumph over Cathedral Prep, of Erie, yesterday afternoon, 26 to 15. Altoona showed a good passing team, led by Tom Irwin and Conlon. Erie was a disappointment, with an offense that could not penetrate the defense of the Easterners. The lineup:

ERIE PREP—15.		ALTOONA—26.
Davis	F	Conlon
Schrenk	F	Grimma
Young	C	Snyder
Early	G	T. Irwin
Perry	G	Bradley

Score by periods:

Substitutions — Erie Prep, Hissel for Davis, Fiquis for Early, Flannigan for Schrenk, Davis for Hissel, Early for Flannigan; Altoona, Stroeher for Snyder, Snyder for Stroehr.

Field goals—Davis 4, Schrenk 2, Conlon 4, Grimma, T. Irwin 2, Bradley 2.

Foul goals—Erie Prep 5 out of 10, Altoona 8 out of 10.

ST. FRANCIS BEATEN

Bethlehem reached the second round by virtue of a 20-to-14 victory over St. Francis Preps. The Preps led, 10 to 9, at the half, 13 to 12 at the end of the third period, and then went stale, while Bethlehem, with Forward O'Connell leading the attack, scored eight points. Gebera, St. Francis' diminutive forward, tossed four baskets in the first period to give his team a substantial lead, which it could not hold. He failed to count after that. The lineup:

ST. FRANCIS—14.		BETHLEHEM—20.
O'Bermler	F	Lucas
Debara	F	O'Connell
Clark	G	Preletz
Shaw	G	Mack
Brewer	G

Score by periods:

Bethlehem	2	7	3	8—20

Substitutions—St. Francis, Rafferty for Clark, Clark for Brewer; Bethlehem, Daugherty for Mack, Mack for Daugherty.

Field goals—Debara, Clark, Shaw, Lucas 2, O'Connell 4, Preletz 3.

CENTRAL PLAYS HAZELTON

Central High of Pittsburgh, coached by Dick Shrading, former Duquesne University ace, will begin the afternoon competition by clashing with St. Gabriel of Hazelton. St. Gabriel stopped St. Titus of Titusville in a first-round contest last night, 23 to 13. Some excellent floor work and shooting by Tom Gugorin was mainly responsible for the St. Gabriel victory. A last-half rally was too much for St. Titus. Central High drew a bye in the first round. The lineup:

St. Gabriel—23.		St. Titus—13.
Gregoria	F	Prenatt
Tormay	F	Hattrich
Gallagher	C	Burns
J. O'Donnell	G	Lynch
J. Heaney	G	Brady

Substitutions—Boyle for Gallagher, Gallagher for Boyle. Field goals—Gregoria 5, Tormay 2, O'Donnell, Gallagher, Heaney, Prenatt, Burns 2, Brady 2. Fouls—St. Titus, 3 out of 10; St. Gabriel, 3 out of 8.

The Duke Preps might be meeting the tourney favorite, North, of Philadelphia, were it not for a fine bit of work on the part of Don Baker, St. Michaels' of Greensburg star guard. The teams battled on even terms last night in the feature game of the first round until the final 15 seconds of play. At that time, due to the excellent play of Sam Sansone, of the Preps, the locals held a 22 to 21 lead. A foul, technical, was called, and Baker stepped to the foul line and tossed it through.

BAKER SAVES GAME

In the extra period, with a bare minute left to play, and with the Preps again out in front through the medium of a foul goal by Sansone, this same Baker flipped one through the net from almost mid-floor. That ended the Preps' hopes of playing North East tonight.

Sansone scored 18 of his team's 23 points, with six field goals and as many fouls. He shot one goal from the middle of the floor to put the Preps ahead just before Baker made the foul that tied the game up. The lineup:

St. Michael—24.		Duq. Prep—23.
Conners	F	Sansone
Loutenhiser	F	Walsh
Kane	C	Hackett
Baker	G	Behringer
Holland	G	Hough

Substitutions—Lesniak for Hackett, Bresnan for Loutenhiser. Field goals—Sansone 6, Walsh, Hackett, Hough, Baker 3, Holland, Kane 2, Loutenhiser. Foul goals—Duke Preps, 5 out of 13; St. Michael's, 9 out of 16.

UNIONTOWN PRESSED

Uniontown had to put on one of those Garrison finishes to outlast Georges in a W. P. I. A. L. game at the stadium. Corey, paired with Gary Zacovic at a forward for the Everhardt team, stole the show and was the Uniontown star of the game. Five out of seven fouls aided Uniontown to salt the game away. The lineup:

Uniontown—22.		Georges—21.
Zacovic	F	Abraham
Corey	F	Katusak
Woods	C	Conn
Rankin	G	Hague
Ford	G	Kula

Substitutions—Darr for Abraham, Moore for Darr, Fike for Woods, Woods for Ford, Stagel for Rankin. Field goals—Corey 4, Zacovic, Woods 2, Katulak 4, Conn 2, Kula. Referee—Buck Snyder. Umpire—Dan Dougherty.

LOS ANGELES, March 8.—(AP.)—Ace Hudkins, through his brother, Art, has agreed to meet Armand Emanuel, San Francisco barrister-pugilist, in a light-heavyweight bout at Wrigley Field here next month. The bout was tentatively arranged when Emanuel announced that he had failed to arrange a return fight with Mickey Walker.

CHICAGO, March 8.—(AP.)—Jerry (Tuffy) Griffith, Sioux City, Ia., light-heavyweight has signed for a returng engagement with Leo Lomski, the Aberdeen (Wash.) assassin, who was awarded a disputed decision over him in their battle at Detroit three weeks ago.

They will fight 10 rounds as an added attraction to the Tommy Loughran-Mickey Walker match for the world light-heavyweight championship here March 28.

The Griffith-Lomski match was substituted for a proposed bout between Tony Canzoneri and Honeyboy Finnegan, Boston featherweight.

Goldenson Vanities Win 17th Straight

The Goldenson Vanities, claimants of the girls' championship of Western Pennsylvania, last night scored their seventeenth straight victory when they defeated the Turtle Creek All-Stars in the preliminary to Morry-Rosenblum game at the South Side Market House, 32 to 2. The Vanities still are undefeated.

The work of Miss Lawry on the offense and the strong guarding of the Misses Dunn and Shander were the outstanding features. Tomorrow night the Goldenson Vanities meet the Munhall girls in the prelim to the Coniey-Ackerman game at the Homestead Elks Temple. The lineup:

Vanities—32.		Turtle Ck. A. S.—2.

Fans Protest W. & J. Plan to Shift Game

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 8.—A wave of protest swept through the ranks of Washington and Jefferson football fans here when it became known that Manager William G. Theurer contemplated taking the football game with Lafayette here next November to a foreign gridiron. Lack of suitable stands here, unless a new stadium is completed by next fall, which possibility is so remote as to be negligible, is the reason advanced for the proposed transfer of the game to another site.

Lafayette has had the contest for two successive seasons and is not willing to undertake the staging of a third game, since the Easton institution lost a big wad of coin on the clash last season. This means that the game, if transferred, would be taken to a neutral city, several of which are said to be anxious to entertain the two teams.

TECH MEETS W. & J.

Carnegie Tech and W. & J. swimmers met in a dual meet in the Tartan pool this afternoon. The Tech splashers defeated the Presidents in a meet earlier in the season. The Tartans will close their season here tomorrow with a meet against Case School.

ROSIES TRIP MORRYS, 36 TO 30

The Cleveland Rosenblums, champions of the American League, defeated the Original Morry Big Five at the South Side Market House last night before a large crowd, 36 to 30. The Morrys, the majority of whom were not in condition owing to their two years of absence from active competition, gave the Rosies a tough argument, although the American Leaguers managed to obtain a comfortable lead in the first half.

The Morrys struck their best stride in the last half of the game when they cut the Rosies' lead down to six points. The exhibition pleased the large crowd.

Standing out in the Cleveland victory was the showing of Carl Husta and Johnny Beckman, the latter a veteran of 22 years of professional basketball. Chick Davies, Ken Loeffler and George Ramsay starred for the losers. The lineup:

Rosenblum—36.		Morry—30.
Beckman	F	M. Kilraine

Lapchick	C	Ramsay
Dehnert	G	Wallace
Husta	G	Loeffler

Substitutions—Davies for Littell, Skurnick for Beckman. Field goals—Beckman 2, Barry 3, Husta 5, Dehnert 2, Davies 2, Ramsay 3, Loeffler 2, Wallace, Kilraine, Foulk—Rosenblums, 12 out of 18; Morrys, 12 out of 20. Referee—Mervis.

DIXIE PUZZLES SHOE INDUSTRY!

MANUFACTURING MYSTERY BAFFLES SHOE SNOOPERS!

BOLDNESS OF DIXIE SHOE STORES HAS OTHER SHOE MANUFACTURERS PUZZLED

SPECIAL DISPATCH—Reliable reports stated today that men high up in the shoe industry were completely at a loss to explain how DIXIE SHOE STORES could sell their new men's Spring shoes for as little as $3.

Manufacturers have sent their "shoe snoopers" to DIXIE stores to buy shoes, and have found that all DIXIE shoes are of the same remarkably high quality. In fact, a newspaper man overheard a conversation in which a prominent factory head said that the new DIXIE models for $3 were the equal of any $4 shoe he had ever seen.

What puzzles the shoe industry so completely is how DIXIE can sell shoes of such high grade materials — with details of workmanship usually found only in high-priced shoes—for only $3.

When reporters interviewed the head of the nation-wide DIXIE chain, he said:

"There's really no mystery about our values at all. The reason the rest of them can't touch

NOW $3 ---this is the price for Dixie Men's Shoes that has puzzled the shoe industry

DIXIE shoes at the DIXIE price is that DIXIE has two advantages—size and determination!

"We're the biggest shoe people in the field. We operate on such a tremendous scale that we can cut down our profit to the thinnest margin, and still get along.

"And we've made up our mind to stay on top—by giving America such a world-beating value for $3 that the men just can't stay away!"

DUNDEE-MELLO GO OFF

BOSTON, March 8.—(AP.)—A welterweight bout between Joe Dundee, champion of that class, and Al Mello, scheduled to take place at the Boston Garden tonight, was postponed after Dundee had submitted to an operation for an infected arm. The infection resulted from irritation of a skin eruption.

DUKE VICTORY TONIGHT WILL AID BISONS

By JESS CARVER.

Chick Davies' Dukes have a swell chance to make themselves popular with those rousing young gentlemen from Bethany College who have been playing on the Bison basketball team. The Dukes, by spilling Geneva at Beaver Falls tonight, automatically will hand the 1929 Tri-State Conference championship to the Bisons, relegate Geneva to third place and put Westminster in second.

Bethany won eight of its 10 games in the league during the now waning campaign. Geneva has taken seven out of nine and winds up the program with the Dukes tonight. Geneva needs the win to tie, and the Dukes need it to give 'em a 50-50 standing.

The Covenanters downed the locals in the first game played between the two clubs, 21 to 19, here on the Bluff early in the season.

This Duquesne-Geneva game is the only college encounter on the card for the tri-state sector tonight. Pitt is putting the finishing touches on its game for the closing battle of the season with Penn State at State College and Wash-Jeff is making ready to meet West Virginia at Morgantown. Both these contests will be played tomorrow night.

A victory for the Panthers will mean the district championship for the Pittsburghers, while a defeat will move Westminster into the lead and Pitt into third place.

Charley Hyatt, who dipped 17 points against Wash-Jeff Wednesday evening to equal his fine 1928 scoring mark of 292, needs to count only once against State, either from the foul line or the floor, to break his record and set a new one at which the boys may shoot. This he is more than likely to do.

Pirate Home Schedule Is Changed

A change in the schedule of baseball games for this season at Forbes Field was announced today by Secretary S. E. Watters, of the Pittsburgh club. With the consent of the other clubs and the approval of the National League, the contest between the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati teams, originally slated for Friday, July 5, has been moved forward and will be played instead on Thursday, May 23, an open date for both the Pirates and Reds.

The Cincinnati club had been booked to play here on May 22, 24 and 25, and on July 5 and 6. Under the new arrangement the Reds will appear in four games instead of three during the May series at Forbes Field, and will play only one game instead of two during their July visit. The object of the shift was to make use of an open date in May on which the Cincinnati team would have been idle in this city, and to deduct one day from the time that that club will be required to spend on the road in July.

been matched for the eight-round main bout of a show at Wellsville, O., next Monday night. Harry Morris, of Weirton, W. Va., and Nick Caruso, of Midland, Pa., are in the six-round semi-final, and there will be three other bouts.

Two big events scheduled for the Pittsburgh fans tonight have gone out via the cancellation route. One was the weekly boxing show in the Moose Temple, downtown, and the other Jack Zivic's bout with Sam Bruce at Buffalo.

MIKE O'DOWD BUSY

Midget Mike O'Dowd boxes Mickey Dugan, of Cleveland, at Wheeling next Monday night and Al Dundee at Fort Wayne, Ind., four nights later. On April 1, he meets Andy Martin, of Boston, in the reopening show in Motor Square Garden.

King Tut boxes Augie Pisano at Milwaukee and Rene DeVos meets Jock Malone in San Francisco tonight.

An amateur boxing show will be staged by the Westinghouse Factory Clerks' Association in the East Pittsburgh Cafeteria March 19. Eight or nine bouts will be scheduled.

Quigley, Local Star, With Tampa Club

Ernie Quigley, the young Oakland pitcher, probably will be missing from the ranks of the Jimmy Smith Club this season. Quigley, who formerly starred with the Cathedral Chapel nine, now is in Florida, trying out with the Tampa Club of the Florida State League.

Quigley, who has pitched several no-hit games in sandlot baseball around Pittsburgh, left for Tampa accompanied by Caleb (Socko) McCarey, the Pirate's bat boy. McCarey will be back for the opener, but Oaklanders expect Quigley to make the grade in the Florida circuit.

McWeeny Signs Dodger Contract

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 8.—(INS.)—Having induced Pitcher Buzz McWeeny to sign for $12,000 per annum, Manager Robinson of the Brooklyn Robins today trained his guns on the other holdout, Dazzy Vance. The strike-out king has retreated to his camp in Homosassa, declaring he will not sign for less than $25,000. The club owners say $22,500 is their limit.

tell them I didn't have any coming. Then they'd razz me. But I was telling the truth. Because I already had it in my pocket.

"They offer money to athletes because they want them in their meets, so that they can advertise stars and draw the crowds. Big track meets are not run only for love of the game. I can name one man who has paid athletes, and he is one of the highest officials in the Eastern part of the country. If they want to know who he is they have only to ask me to come over and talk to them. Some day somebody's going to blow the lid loose. I want to be there when he does it."

Jimmy McLarnin

IN view of the fact that Jimmy McLarnin recently stopped Joe Glick in quick time after having barely edged out a decision over him in a previous bout that went the limit, the natural conclusion would be that the winner had picked up considerable speed during the period that elapsed between the engagements. But some smart ring men who know their stuff hold that just the opposite is true. They say that McLarnin has slowed up. So good a judge as Benny Leonard, who saw both fights, declares: "McLarnin was much slower last Friday night than before. He's got the punch all right, but Sammy Mandell would have murdered him if he had fought Mandell last Friday the way he fought Glick." Possibly it is the taking on of more weight that has substracted something from McLarnin's speed. It is said he will have to give up fighting as a lightweight, and go after junior lightweights and welters. At that he has always depended more upon his punch than upon his speed, and Glick will attest that he hasn't lost any of the old kick. Don't be surprised if Jimmy turns the tables on Ray Miller in their return match in New York on March 22.

FRUIT GROWERS REPORTS BIG NET PROFITS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE greatest orchard owners in the world have their headquarters, not in California or Florida, but in Pittsburgh. The American Fruit Growers, Inc., in addition to operating 15,000 acres of orchard and farm land throughout the United States, markets in the neighborhood of $40,000,000 worth of fruits and vegetables a year.

Extensive as are the company's own farming operations, the produce of its lands constitutes only a small proportion of the perishable foods sold under the well-known "Blue Goose" trade mark.

In this age of science and mass production, farming seemed to be the only one of the fundamental industries unable to adopt modern methods of standardization and marketing. But American Fruit Growers has successfully solved this problem for itself and for hundreds of independent farmers.

IN 1919 the distributing firm of Crutchfield & Woolfolk, then doing a business of $15,000,000 a year, was used as the nucleus for the present company, of which J. S. Crutchfield is president and R. B. Woolfolk is vice president and chairman.

They attacked the difficult task of educating independent owners of orchards to using methods which would produce fruits complying with definite standards of quality. To show that they were not mere theorists they invested heavily in the development of their own orchard properties.

They perfected a machine which would brand oranges and grape fruit with their trade name so that these perishable products were as readily identifiable to the ultimate consumer as breakfast foods or soap. Then they advertised their product and they have had impressive results. "Blue Goose" grape fruit and other products now sell at a substantial premium over unbranded and unadvertised fruit in most of the important produce centers. This increase is passed directly on to the growers, less the cost of the advertising and the company's commission.

MR. CRUTCHFIELD points out that the company's success has been based on the fact that it has followed the principles underlying every well-managed industry. It has developed products to suit the requirements of customers. It has not tried to force the sale of produce of a type which happened to conform to growers' ideas.

Unfortunately, the new enterprise started in business just before the widespread post-war depression. Although most manufacturers recovered within a short time, it took farming a much longer period to get back on its feet. In addition to this, the company has been put to abnormal expenses for experimentation, for the perfection of machinery for washing and preparing its selected fruits for market and other unusual charges. In several orchards the quality of the fruit was unsatisfactory. As a remedy, half of the trees were pulled out and the remainder were more closely pruned than was the usual practice. It took courage but it got results.

Last year the company began to show its real earning power. Net profit was $1,168,003. This was equivalent to $21.72 a share on the $5,376,600 of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value. This compared with a profit of $679,106 or 12.48 a share in 1927 and a deficit of $13,121 in 1926.

AS A result of the peculiar problems faced following the depression, the preferred dividends have been in arrears since January 2, 1921, making a total of $56 a share accumulated and unpaid. The results of the last two years indicate that some payments against this may be expected in the not distant future.

The balance sheet of December 31, 1928, showed an earned surplus of $1,827,387 or about $34 a share on the preferred stock. Current assets amounted to $6,027,242 compared with current liabilities of $3,491,225. Physical properties were carried at $5,979,005 after depreciation. No provision was made for good will. Total assets amounted to $12,781,983.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, March 8.—Cotton opened firm today at an advance of 7 to 12 points. Active months sold about 10 to 12 points net higher right after the opening on renewal of the recent Liverpool cables and reports of small fertilizer sales for February. The advance into new high ground attracted profit taking. There seemed to be a little more southern selling, however, and prices eased off 5 or 6 points from the best at the end of the first half hour.

Private cables reported covering, trade calling and some rebuying in Liverpool. They also said there were encouraging sales of cotton cloths to China, with home trade improving.

The selling encountered on the opening advance was absorbed on reactions to about yesterday's closing quotations. The market firmed up again later in the morning on renewal of the demand from Wall street and commission houses. Some trade buying was reported in near months.

May sold up to 21.32c and the new October contract to 20.44c, making net advances of 12 to 16 points. The market was within a point or two of these figures at midday.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stock Prices Rally — Local Stock Quotations

STOCKS RALLY FROM EARLY DECLINE

NEW YORK, March 8.—(AP.)—Speculation for the advance was resumed on a broad scale in today's stock market after an early period of weakness. Early losses of 1 to 8½ points were quickly wiped out, and the general market turned upward under the leadership of Radio (old stock), which rallied from a low of 388½, off 8¾ points, to a new high record at 435. Radio (new) also changed hands in enormous volume at rising prices.

The initial outbreak of selling undoubtedly was inspired by the unexpectedly large increase of $140,000,000 in brokers' loans and the statement of Paul Warburg, international banker, that control of the money market had passed from the Federal Reserve Board to stock exchange operators. Strong buying support was provided on the break, and a general recovery was in full swing before midday.

MONEY PLENTIFUL

Call money renewed at 10 per cent with the supply so plentiful that the rate was expected to work lower. Time money, commercial paper and bankers' acceptance rates held firm around the year's high levels.

Concurrent strength of Radio and Western Union, which also advanced 6 points to a new high, revived rumors of a merger of these two companies, but President Harbord, of the Radio Corporation, stated that the merger was definitely off.

Except for the publication of a series of favorable earnings statements, the easier undertone for call money and reports that good progress was being made on the crude oil curtailment program, there was little in the day's business news to influence the price movements. Most of the conservative commission houses continued to urge extreme caution in the making of new commitments, but this failed to deter pool activity. The rapid advance in some of the high priced specialties suggested the running in of an over-crowded short interest.

ROSSIA SOARS

Rossia Insurance soared 9½ points, Victor Talking Machine 6 to a new high at 167, and Radio-Keith-Orpheum, Miami Copper, Advance Rumely common and preferred, Stromberg Carburetor, Peoples Gas and Mexican Seaboard Oil all sold 3 to nearly 5 points higher.

As in most recent sessions, activity in today's market showed a tendency to increase on the rallies and decrease on the declines. Pool operators construed this as an indication that speculative accounts were well margined and that there was still a large backlog of buying power just below current levels.

Wide price swings continued in the Radio group in the final hour, Radio (old) reaching 446, while the new stock crossed 88. Western Union lost nearly all of its 6-point advance. Reduction in the call money rate to 9 per cent influenced more general buying, with food issues, particularly Postum and National Biscuit, moving up fast. The closing was strong. Sales approximated 2,900,000 shares.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, March 7.—Raw sugar was quiet early today. As no sales were reported yesterday, the nominal asking price of 3.74c for spots, duty paid, although offerings were more liberal at this quotation. Buyers held off.

Raw futures opened unchanged to 1 point lower and continued easy throughout the forenoon, with the list at midday 1 to 4 points net lower. Twenty-three March notices were issued. Circulation of these caused considerable March liquidation. That position showed the most weakness, while later deliveries declined in sympathy and under increased liquidation and hedge selling, promoted by more liberal offerings of spots.

Refined was unchanged. As the trade entered for some time to come, business consisted wholly of withdrawals on old contracts. Prices were quoted at 4.90c for fine granulated.

Secrecy by Reserve Heads Dangerous; Courts Trouble

By B. C. FORBES

THE American people's distrust of secrecy threatens to c[illegible]e trouble for certain highly-placed functionaries guilty of practicing it to an extraordinary degree. The consequences may have disturbing influences upon business throughout the country.

WHEN Benjamin Strong was governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York he took a leading part in bringing about co-operation among the heads of the government banks in England, France, Germany, etc. It was the late Governor Strong who started the practice of frequent exchanges of visits between the banking heads of Europe and here.

THE idea was eminently sensible. These frequent and i[illegible]timate confabs in New York, London, Paris and Berlin contributed invaluably to paving the way for the restoration of currency stability and the gold standard in European countries following the havoc of war. Gov. Strong became recognized as the outstanding figure in governmental international banking. He developed a remarkable faculty for co-operating harmoniously with the principal foreign banks to effect desirable ends.

BUT from his intercourse with these European financial dignitaries he contracted one unfortunate habit, the habit of surrounding everything he did with secrecy and mystery.

Time and time again this writer engaged in verbal tilts with Gov. Strong over his adamant policy of secrecy. But he would emphasize how inaccessible the foremost bankers in Europe always were to reporters. Besides, he declared, matters often were discussed privately and confidentially which could not possibly be made public without causing misunderstanding and perhaps friction.

Not only so, but Gov. Strong could not be made to realize that in this democracy the public and the press were distinctly less accustomed to being kept in the dark about the activities of high officials and that any official who hedged himself about with a Chinese wall was liable to lose favor and lose his place and power.

WHAT has been the outcome? This same [illegible]cy of extreme secrecy has been continued at Washington and New York since Gov. Strong's death, with the consequences that Congress has manifested a disposition to insist upon finding out what happened during the latest visit to this country of Sir Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England.

IT WAS during the London banker's visit here that the Bank of England took the rather drastic action of raising its discount rate a full 1 per cent, from 4½ per cent to 5½ per cent. And at the same time the Federal Reserve Board issued its now historic warning against the employment of so much money for stock market purposes.

That warning, it will be recalled, shook stock quotations and caused losses to many speculators on margin. For a time it appeared as if the unsettlement in Wall Street might have an effect upon general business.

The charge was made in Congress that the head of the Bank of England was largely responsible for the action taken by the Reserve authorities here. And lawmakers clamored for the uncovering of the whole facts concerning what happened at the conferences between Sir Montagu Norman and the Federal Reserve chiefs in Washington and New York.

THAT information has not been supplied. It may never be supplied. But the serious aspect of the whole matter is that the intense secrecy persisted in may lead to demands that our Federal Reserve banking law be changed.

Any powerful attack upon our banking system which aroused genuine fears that radical changes might be made would almost certainly upset financial sentiment and have a disturbing influence upon enterprise.

INSTEAD of changing the law, it would be infinitely better were those at the head of the Federal Reserve System to change their attitude in such a way as to avoid incurring the ill-will and the distrust of the people and of Congress.

Admittedly there are matters about which information cannot possibly be given out until final decisions have been made. Nor is it necessary that stenographic reports be published of every word exchanged by European and Reserve banking leaders.

But the Americans at the head of America's banking system should have a sufficient understanding of the American temperament and psychology to know that the public will not always be content to be ignored or flouted when matters of grave public concern are involved. More pains should be taken to practice diplomacy and less pains taken to practice cast-iron secrecy.

Fight at Juarez Halted by Villa For Baseball

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—(AP.)—The news of a rebel army battling federal troops in an effort to capture Juarez today recalled the story of how Francisco (Pancho) Villa, Mexican revolutionary leader and bandit chieftain, postponed an advance upon the border town because of the 1913 baseball world series.

An American newspaperman, Norman Walker, knew Villa intimately and made his way to the chieftain's camp. Villa told him he expected to attack Juarez on a certain day in October.

"Pancho," said Walker, "you are foolish to do that. Don't you know that the American newspapers will be filled with world series baseball and nobody will pay any attention to your battle?"

Villa saw the point and laughed. Ten days or so later Villa advanced upon Juarez and captured it.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 8.—(AP.)—Curb market stocks today fluctuated over a wide price range. Active issues were hammered down several points at the opening by selling orders brought in by the large increase in brokers' loans and Paul Warburg's statement asserting the money market was out of the Federal Reserve's control.

Support later came into the market in the form of buying orders for oils, which rose 2 to 3 points on heavy trading. The advance was based on optimistic reports of the conferences being held to curb overproduction. Special interest was attached to Standard of Indiana because of the change in management brought about by John D. Rockefeller, Jr. This stock ranged from 86¼ to 89. Continental changed hands in large blocks at advancing prices.

Stocks of Aviation Corporation, new $35,000,000 holding company, were traded in for the first time, in large blocks at 20⅞ to 20⅜, fractionally above the public offering price. Aviation Corporation of the Americas, holding company for Pan-American Airways, slumped 4 points to 65⅛, rallied and then fell to 64.

Anaconda rights were heavily traded in around 31. Deere & Co. had a drop of 20, and Ford of Canada yielded 6 points. Checker Cab rallied from a 4-point drop at the opening.

The utilities recovered their 3 to 4 point losses at midday.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

COUNTY TO PAY BLVD. DAMAGES

Allegheny County will maintain the proposed Ohio River boulevard and also pay property damages growing out of the improvement, but the boroughs of Bellevue, Avalon, Ben Avon and Emsworth must pay for the installation of lights and lighting, it was decided at a conference with the borough representatives and County Commissioners today.

Park H. Martin, president of the Pittsburgh and Ohio River Boulevard Association, as spokesman for the borough representatives, explained that the damage would be too high for the boroughs to pay, and that the maintenance would grow as the boulevard became a more important highway. County engineers estimated that the damage would be approximately $400,000, or about $100,000 for each borough.

James L. Stuart, secretary of the state highway department, was present, but did not speak.

The only specification the county asked on the lighting system was that it be uniform and that the borough officials select the type of lights.

Differences of county engineers and officials of Ben Avon borough as to where the proposed boulevard should pass through the borough were voiced at a meeting of representatives of that borough and the County Commissioners following the general meeting. Robert L. Forsythe, president of borough council, acted as spokesman.

The Commissioners took the suggestions of President Forsythe under advisement and will discuss them later with their engineers.

Income Tax Office Open Extra Hours

D. B. Heiner, internal revenue collector, announced that his office in the federal building would be kept open until 5 o'clock Saturday to receive income tax payments. The office will be open until midnight next Friday, the last day for filing returns.

"Woodbine Willie" Victim of Influenza

LIVERPOOL, March 8.—(AP.)—The Rev. G. A. Studdert Kennedy, chaplain to the king, died today of influenza. During the war he was popularly known as "Woodbine Willie" to thousands of Tommies to whom he endeared himself by frank talks, helpful advice, sympathy and an unfailing supply of cigarets.

Hoover Cabinet Shows Leaning To Sports

WASHINGTON, March 8.—(AP.)—President Hoover's new cabinet might well be called the cabinet of sportsmen, for almost ever one of the eight new members is a devotee of some sport in his spare time.

The chief executive, himself an ardent fisherman, should find much in common with two of the new members, Ray Lyman Wilbur and Arthur Hyde, heads of the Interior and Agriculture Departments, respectively, for both are disciples of Izaak Walton.

Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy, is one of the foremost yachtsmen of the country.

Riding and tennis are the favorites of Henry L. Stimson, head of the State Department.

Another boating enthusiast is Postmaster General Brown, who, however, confines himself to motorboats.

Attorney General Mitchell likes golf.

NEW TIPSTAFF BILL READY

Legislation designed to permit increased salaries to tipstaves of the Allegheny county courts, in a form amended to meet the view of Gov. John S. Fisher, will be presented in the Legislature Monday, Representative Joseph C. Marcus revealed today.

This statement followed advice from Harrisburg that Gov. Fisher today vetoed the Marcus bill increasing salaries of tipstaves to $2,600. Under the provisions of this bill, intended to raise the existing maximum of $2,200 to $2,600, the effect was construed as a salary raiser, fixing all salaries at the higher figure.

Three Have Smallpox On U. S. Boat Here

Maj. Jarvis Bain, in charge of the United States engineers in this district, announced today that the mild smallpox "epidemic" among the crew of the U. S. tugboat Iroquois, which is engaged in dredging work on the Allegheny River, has been confined to three cases. All three have been removed from the tug and are under quarantine.

PITTSBURGH MARKET FIRM IN EARLY TRANSACTIONS

Trading was in small volume at the opening on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange. Interest was shown in only a few stocks, but the recorded transactions indicated the general tone of the market to be firm.

Arkansas Natural Gas common opened at 5¼, unchanged from its high of yesterday, while on the New York Curb this issue, which has been exceptionally active, was pushed on to a new high of 5½ in the early trading. A block of 5,000 shares changed hands at this price.

In the afternoon Arkansas also reached 5½ on the local exchange.

Trading in Armstrong Cork rights continued in large volume at 1⅝. Western Public Service temporary certificates were off ½ point in the first sale of the day at 27.

In answer to requests for information as to the reason for the spread which usually exists between Western Public Service warrants, certificates and temporary certificates an official of the exchange states that a difference in the transfer tax on warrants and certificates is the only cause for any variation. Eventually the warrants will become certificates and the discrepancy will be eliminated.

Most of the stocks sold during the latter part of the morning changed hands at prices only fractions of a point from yesterday's close. Westinghouse Air Brake appeared at 50⅞, up ⅞. Arkansas Natural Gas common made a further gain to 5⅜. D. L. Clark was off ⅛ to 18½ and Witherow Steel, when issued, sold at 70½, off ½. Western Public Service Warrants broke a point to 27.

Mr. Joe Brandt, President of the Corporation, has summarized his letter to the Bankers as follows:

BUSINESS: "Columbia Pictures Corporation produces and distributes motion pictures. In addition to the production of the standard silent pictures, the Corporation is licensed under patents controlled by Western Electric Co. (through its subsidiary Electrical Research Products, Inc.) covering the production of so-called sound and talking pictures and to this extent has the same technical advantages in the production of pictures of this type as those enjoyed by the Paramount, Fox, Warner, First National, and Metro Goldwyn studios.

The Corporation has recently entered into a contract with the Victor Talking Machine Co. under the terms of which the two companies will co-operate in the production of short vocal, instrumental, and novelty pictures and it will have available the superb Victor recording studios at Camden, N. J., the technical staff and the artists of that Company. Profits and costs of such productions will be shared and borne by the Victor Talking Machine Co. and Columbia Pictures Corporation.

The Corporation owns and operates a fully equipped studio in Hollywood, California, and has executive and general distribution offices in New York City, together with twenty-three branch offices and six agencies in the United States and Canada. Its pictures are also distributed throughout practically the entire world.

Columbia Pictures Corporation has consistently produced high-grade pictures of a type proved by experience to be readily saleable and the cost of individual pictures has been kept at a low figure. Scenarios have generally been based on stage plays and on stories, by well known writers.

EARNINGS: The Corporation enjoys the enviable record of never having taken a loss on its pictures and the business has shown a profit in each year since its inception.

Net profits for the fiscal years ended June 30, 1926, 1927, and 1928, available for dividends, after all charges and Federal income taxes, at current rates, as certified by Messrs. Touche, Niven & Co., and estimated by the Corporation for the year ending June 30, 1929, are as follows:

	Year Ending June 30, 1926	Year ending June 30, 1927	Year ending June 30, 1928	Year ending June 30, 1929
Net Profits	$59,907	$155,638	$249,931	*$400,000
Earned per share on Preferred Stock	2.40	6.22	10.00	16.00
Earned per share on Common Stock	......	.81	1.75	3.25

* The Corporation estimates that its net profits for the complete fiscal year ending June 30, 1929, after all charges including provision for Federal income taxes will exceed $400,000. The statement is predicated (a) on the audited results of operations for the six months ended December 29, 1928, (b) on contracts which have been made for film rentals with franchise holders and exhibitors and on conservative calculations based upon past experience of additional film rentals and other probable income and (c) on adequate provision, based upon percentage established by past operations, for cost of production and operating expenses. This estimate has been submitted to Messrs. Touche, Niven & Co., who state that, in their opinion, it is justified.

LISTING: The Corporation has agreed to make application to list its no par value common shares on the New York Curb Market."

We offer the above shares of Convertible Preference Stock and Common Stock, when, as and if issued and accepted by us for subscription subject to allotment and subject to approval by counsel, Messrs. Radio Up On Merger Rumors.

Radio Corporation issues stood out prominently on the up-side of the stock market. The old shares reached a new record high at 435½. In addition to prospects of a working arrangement with Western Union, other expansion plans gave impetus to the advance. Denials have been made that Radio Corporation and Paramount are considering an agreement or affiliation, which may even take the form of an ultimate merger, but these disclaimers are considered largely technical. If Radio is serious in its entry into the amusement field through Radio-Keith-Orpheum it must of necessity form some new theatrical connections. The Fox-Loew combination has set up a new leader in the industry, in point of size, with Paramount second, Warner third and Radio-Keith a poor fourth.

Auto Production Sets Record.

Automobile production for February of 501,445 cars sets an all-time record for any month, and exceeds by 8,000 cars the previous record of 492,542 cars set in August, 1928, Alvin Macauley, president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, stated at the annual spring meeting of the chamber held yesterday. The output by members of the chamber totaled 342,344 motor vehicles, compared to 268,261 units in the preceding month and 320,822 cars for the corresponding period in 1928. The Ford Motor Company, which is not a member, produced 159,101 units in February, bringing the total to 501,445 cars. Many of the members of the chamber reached their highest daily production during February. Hudson Essex made 1,950 cars a day, Chevrolet had 7,000 cars daily, and Willys Overland produced 2,000 cars daily. However, the new monthly record is due entirely to the increase in Ford production, according to the National Chamber figures.

Air Brake Earnings Slump.

The Westinghouse Air Brake Company reported net earnings after taxes, depreciation and all charges for the year ended December 31, 1928, of $6,490,557, which was equivalent to $2.04 a share on the 3,172,111 shares of no par capital stock. In 1927 the company earned $8,520,009, or $2.68 a share.

H. H. Westinghouse, chairman, and A. L. Humphrey, president, in their remarks to stockholders, say:

"It will be noted that the net earnings are considerably lower than in recent years. This result is accounted for solely by the fact that railroad purchases of new rolling stock and railway signals were much lower in 1928 than in any other recent year. In 1927, while the volume of air brake business was low, the sales of your subsidiary, the Union Switch and Signal Company, were exceedingly good, but in 1928 the installation of signal apparatus and train control equipment was also curtailed by the railroads to such an extent that the sales of your company were substantially less than in 1927. Under the circumstances, it is gratifying to report that the earnings were sufficient to meet the dividend requirements.

"The plants and property of your company were never in better condition than at the present time, and we are pleased to report that orders received so far in 1929 for air brakes, signal apparatus and train control equipment are very satisfactory and, from inquiries now being made by the railroads for new equipment, we are encouraged to believe that the volume of orders in 1929 will far exceed that of 1928.

"All of the foreign companies in which your company is interested are enjoying a very good volume of business at present, with every indication that this condition will continue."

BUGS BAER Says

ALL we have to say about the Jones law is that we didn't think a man named Jones would do a thing like that.

"Bugs" Baer

Just to make it unanimous we should have some more laws for the Browns and the Smiths.

Five years in the jail coop for a drink and $10,000 for a chaser.

Why, the penalty is enough to make you swallow.

There is only one consolation. It's the same redress that the Alabama farmer has when he is chasing a boll weevil to get back his cotton.

If the cops go around smelling people's breaths, they had better wear nose guards.

There's going to be a lot of enforcement agents bitten.

And there is always chances of a hung jury bringing in a favorable verdict of halitosis.

Anybody who takes a drink now is as foolish as a turtle, who not only supplies tortoise soup, but carries his own stewing pan around on his back.

Jones is tough. You can bend the merry elbow, but you can't bend a steel bar.

It's great to be behind the grating for five years, wondering where the keys to the city are.

You are in danger when your hip pocket gargles in the moonlight.

The possession of a pint flask in your hip pocket is a violation. It means that your trousers are classed as a public vehicle.

And you cannot convince the judge that you stopped drinking in 1920 and that you are only staggering through habit.

Before passing that bill, Mr. Jones should have stopped to think. He will get the names of Jones so hated that people will even refuse to open a telephone book.

And we do not even care to hear John McCormack sing, "If I Had the Wings of a Swallow."

If you haven't got the price of a swallow, what good are the wings?

How the Joking Clergyman Wowed the Distiller

THE Rev. Dr. Byles, of whom W. W. Hall, in his Guide-Board to Health, Peace and Competence, (1869), says: "With a good heart, and a decent reverence for his holy office, he was constantly running over with puns and witty conceits; in common with many another jovial man, had rather a shrewish wife.

"One day," says W. W. Hall, "he called at the old distillery that used to stand on Lincoln street, in Boston, and accosted the proprietor thus:

"'Do you still?'

"'That's my business,' replied the proprietor.

"'Well, then,' said the doctor, 'I should like to have you go and still my wife.'

"When the story got abroad," adds Mr. Hall, "it furnished food for town gossip and merriment for several days."

The knaue gasying about lyke a foole at euery toy, and then seeketh in euery house lyke a Maisterless dog, and when his Maister nedeth him, he is to seeke."

Now Is Right Time to Investigate Dope Evil

Before this country sends any more delegates to international opium conferences at Geneva let us first clean our own houses. Before we look down our noses with any holier-than-thou expression let us first be sure that we are doing all that any nation can possibly do to suppress the narcotic traffic within its own boundaries.

Other governments foster the raising of opium poppies, stimulate the manufacture of narcotics, wink at its illicit exportation throughout the world. The United States does none of these things. Officially our government deplores these ghastly activities and leads the world in anti-narcotic conferences. But actually our federal government is terribly lax in its efforts to abolish the narcotic evil in the United States. And here is something for President Hoover to use all the power of his office and of his personal prestige to clear up and clean up.

He is appointing a "fact-finding" commission to investigate the breakdown of law enforcement incident to prohibition and other causes. He announces that he will extend the activities of that commission to the state of anti-narcotic enforcement in the United States. It need not go far to discover conditions that will make our prohibition trouble seem like a cold in the head compared with leprosy.

In the recent Congress a resolution was introduced calling for thorough research of the dope evil. It received no hearing, although its supporters pleaded for only 20 minutes on the floor of the House. It died in the rules committee of which Representative Snell, of New York, was chairman, and the Honorable Mr. Snell let it die explaining that his committee—which he controls—was "virtually unanimous" in its opinion that now is the wrong time to investigate dope.

But if now is the wrong time, when will the right time come?

When Congress appropriates millions for prohibition enforcement, and only thousands for anti-narcotic enforcement—when it seriously debates appropriations of $24,000,000 for prohibition enforcement and triumphantly increases narcotic enforcement funds by a bare $200,000—

When it spends 10 times as much to prevent the sale of beer and wine as it does to stop the sale of soul-killing dope—

When it has a small army of prohibition agents in every large city, and only one narcotic agent to each 600,000 of population—

When federal judges let off dope peddlers with small fines which practically amount to license fees for the privilege of selling dope and contaminating the community, and hide behind technicalities when they do so. When violators of the Volstead act may be fined $10,000 and sentenced to five years in jail, and violators of the anti-dope laws can "compromise" their cases with the government for a few hundred of dollars.

When federal customs agents free responsible dope dealers and arrest or hold only the minor agents.

When a San Francisco customs collector levies fines of $608,050 and sees those fines reduced by the Washington bureau chief to a mere $15,183.

When such facts as these are so easily discovered then now is the time to act—

Swiftly and drastically.

For there is either cowardice or corruption in the federal departments, though it is impossible to conceive a stupidity dense enough or a callousness crass enough to account for the complete failure of these departments to arrest and convict the responsible instigators in drug importation and drug sale. We hold the dope peddler in horror—but how much more terrible the situation if those upon whom the public depend for protection against the dreadful creation of dope addicts in the community are actually participants in the crime, beneficiaries of the hideous traffic, accomplices after the fact and before the fact.

Here is a real need for investigation.

Here is something for the good people of the country to get legitimately excited about, for there is just as much reason for stopping the narcotic traffic as there is for enforcing the prohibition regulations—just as there is more danger to the health and happiness of the community in cocaine and morphine than there is in a comparatively innocent glass of beer. We hunt down the small bootlegger and stick him in prison. We pat the big dope peddler on the back and warn him not to do it again.

Isn't that something to investigate?

Pittsburgh Progresses In Air Transportation

Aerial transportation progresses locally both in accomplishment and in projects of which the future holds fulfillment. This is indicated in the announcement that the Mayer Aircraft Corporation, Bridgeville, on March 15, will establish a new air service between Pittsburgh (Bridgeville), Columbus and St. Louis. The company plans to use in this service a new tri-motored Ford plane as well as other ships in its fleet, which will total nine aircraft with the arrival of the new one.

The Mayer organization, a pioneer here, also is to enlarge its field. Meanwhile the county is going ahead with regard to the municipal airport in Lebanan Church road, near Bettis field, local terminal of the air mail service. A map of this project has been prepared and submitted to the County Commissioners, who have announced they will hold a meeting with Council soon to give approval to the plans. Condemnation proceedings are under way for part of the 788 acres selected, and similar action, it is announced, will be taken to acquire other acreage if it cannot be obtained under agreement.

Pittsburgh is rapidly moving toward a prominent spot on the air map.

STAINED

(Copyright, 1929.)

The darkest blot smearing the robes of Modern Civilization is the shockingly great increase in the number of men, women and children addicted to the use of narcotics.

The dope situation is terribly serious and the more it is looked into the more serious it becomes.

The situation is bad because there is no intelligent effort to prevent the selling of dope to adults; there is no sufficient penalty for dope peddling; there is a lack of enforcement of penalties that exist; there is no appreciation of the contamination of drug addiction.

America must be awakened to the menace of the narcotic drug evil.

Tales That Are Told

The Silent House

SHE glanced at the clock anxiously. Very soon now her husband would be in from the first night of his new show.

There was a sound from the hall, and the little man came in. His wife could see that everything was not as it should have been, but she did her best to cheer him up.

"Were you well applauded, Lance?" she asked, as though this were the natural thing to expect.

"Applauded?" echoed the little comedian bitterly. "I should say so. They made about as much noise as a caterpillar with rubber heels crawling across a Turkey carpet."

No Poaching

HE had opened a quick-lunch bar opposite a bank, and was doing excellent business when an old friend came along.

"Doing good business?" asked the friend. "You've a splendid site here, just in front of the bank."

"You're right," was the happy answer. "On the average, I suppose I turn over about $60 a day.

His friend regarded him enviously for a second.

"Then perhaps you could lend me a dollar or two?" he asked.

"Sorry," was the brisk retort, "but I can't do that. I've got an arrangement with the bank across the way. They won't sell any lunches and I lend no money."

His Pound of Flesh

IT WAS Thursday and Wilkins was "broke" and hungry. Halting outside a butcher's shop, he gazed wistfully at the display of chops and sirloins in the window. Plucking up his courage, he entered.

"If I leave a security equal to what I take away, will you trust me till tomorrow?" he asked.

"Certainly," replied the butcher.

"Well, give me a couple of those joints and keep one of them till I come back."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

IT'S hard to teach a kid manners especially if you got too high an idea about what kind of manners a kid ought to have.

This Willie was going to a birthday party, and his mother was telling him all kinds of things he must and mustn't do. Just before he slammed the door to be off, she says, "Now, Willie, I hope you know when to say no at the table?"

"Sure I do. Every time the hostess asks me if I've got enough!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

SIMPLE questions come in my mail, but they open up the whole field of human relationship.

"What would you do with a bad boy of fourteen?" asks one irate father. "What form of punishment would you suggest for such a boy? He is too big to whip any more, but I can't seem to control him by any other method."

If that boy were my boy I would try to stop thinking of him as my property, as an offender against my authority. I would make myself realize that he is another self—an individual with an individual's rights to experiment and rebel and make a mind of his own.

I would stop belittling him and start respecting him.

I would respect him because I believe that every human being is entitled to respect, regardless of what he has done.

I also believe that the respect of others and pride in oneself is as essential to every human being's physical, mental and moral health, as food or water or air.

I would respect that boy. Then I would try to think intelligently about his badness.

I would read some good books about human behavior.

Dorsey's "Hows and Whys of Human Behavior" is a good book.

Watson's small book, "Psychological Care of the Infant and Child," should be used as a handbook by every father and mother of small children.

David Seabury's "Growing Into Life" is splendid.

I would read these books and as I read them I would scrap my old ideas that people are "born bad." I would open my mind to the new knowledge that, while some of us may be born sick or weak, no one is born bad.

Was he, perhaps, a sick boy, suffering from some hidden physical handicap which I, in my ignorance, did not recognize? I would consult a good doctor and if possible, a psychiatrist.

Or was I, myself, thrusting badness on my boy by my own unfairness? Was I insisting on living his life for him? Was I trying to force him into my pet pattern? Was his "badness" simply the struggle of a free spirit to escape the trap of my dominance?

Was he bad because his home was an unhappy place for a boy to live in?

If I was a father I would ask myself what sort of a companion the mother was to the boy. She might have appealed to me as a sweetheart 15 years ago, but was she appealing to the boy as a friend now?

Did the home itself have enough sunshine and laughter? Was it open to boy friends? Did someone raise Cain if they spotted the carpet or scratched the piano, or could the boy feel that it was really HIS home? Did it have a yard where a fellow could play, a place where a fellow could tinker?

Did he have enough outlet for his growing energy? Would he perhaps change from a bad boy to a good boy if I let him build an automobile or a radio or set up a gymnasium in the basement?

I would talk to him in a new way. I would not talk to him any longer as a criminal; I would talk to him as a person with rights of his own. I would speak with respect as to an equal and appeal to his pride.

THERE NEVER YET WAS A HEALTHY 14-YEAR-OLD BOY WHO WOULDN'T MAKE GOOD IF GIVEN AN EVEN BREAK.

MODERN ROMANS

By Garrett P. Serviss

IN the land that the Caesarr once ruled, and that through them ruled the world, the genius of modern practical science has just completed a work that would have delighted the soul of the great Julius, who, if living today, might be the chief magnate of the industrial world.

Italian engineers have driven a shaft three-and-a-half miles in length through the solid rock of Monte Oro, lining it throughout with steel and concrete, and ending it with a chute that falls nearly two thousand feet in perpendicular height at a slope of 45 degrees.

Water is drawn from Lake Ledro, lying at an altitude of 2,135 feet in the Alps, and thence is passed through the shaft piercing the heart of the mountain which separates it from the lowland where Lake Garda lies, four miles away and more than a third of a mile nearer sea level.

To guard against the mad rush of the water down the one to-one grade of the chute, which would look absolutely vertical if seen from a short distance in front, it has been necessary to depart from the usual manner of receiving falling water with vertically placed hydro-electric generators, and to partially tame its fury before it strikes by first turning it upward against gravity and then causing it to revolve around water wheels connected with horizontal generators.

Lake Garda is surrounded by cities and industrial plants, a part of that great modern development which is turning the ancient battle plain of Lombardy into one of the busiest scenes of human labor on the earth. It is to advance the activities of this region, where the successors of the Romans are learning to adapt the conquering methods of Rome's great imperator to the necessities of a new age, that the little lake on the overlooking Alps has been constrained to contribute the potential energy of its high-placed waters. Verona, the city of Juliet and Romeo, will be one of the long-famed places to have its storied streets and squares, including the "Tomb of Juliet" itself, illuminated with electricity born on a purple mountain top. Only Shakespeare could paint that with words!

Things like this gather strange interest from the colors of a great past, setting them out like towering structures against the sunset. Here are the beginnings of realization for Signor Mussolini's dream of a rearisen Rome. To the imagination these things grow mightier than themselves by the memory of the world-empire which floats about them. It is Rome rising from her vast grave to contemplate this twentieth century civilization which has aroused her like a thunder shock, and seeing her new children, who still bear the features of the old, grappling with its novel problems of life, and following its new roads to glory and power with the old Roman courage.

Bible Passages

"They That Trust"

(Psalm 125)

THEY that trust in the Lord shall be as mount Zion, which cannot be removed, but abideth for ever.

As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord is round about his people from henceforth even for ever.

For the rod of the wicked shall not rest upon the lot of the righteous; lest the righteous put forth their hands unto iniquity.

Do good, O Lord, unto those that be good, and to them that are upright in their hearts.

As for such as turn aside until their crooked ways, the Lord shall lead them forth with the workers of iniquity: but peace shall be upon Israel.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

My Own

WITHOUT regret I count the hours flown,
Though they were swift as sweet.
No chance can ever rob me of my own
Or bring my hopes defeat.

My own, the tasks and triumphs meant for me,
With steady step they come
To seek me out, wherever I may be,
As wanderers seek home.

I do not fear to suffer any loss,
Though it be great or small;
Whatever is my own, of gold dross,
The years will bring me all!

In the Year 1929

By Herbert Kaufman

OLD SLEUTH MICHELSON, who specializes in penetrating the mysteries of matter, has probed the electron and discovered an error in the calculation of light speed—which Prof. Milliken claims will revolutionize physics.

Dr. Michelson's correction is expected to benefit civilization to the tune of billions.

It revises previously accepted formulas by four one thousandths of a point. Most of us won't understand what it amounts to—any more than we've the slightest conception of Einstein's relativity—whatever that is.

But we do appreciate that other detectives aren't doing quite as well as the laboratory and the telescope.

The Rothstein killers and Chicago's gang murderers still manage to elude the police.

Suspicion hasn't yet located the lair of Dion O'Banion's slayers. And a fortnight after the Clark street massacre, the executioners of seven men—slaughtered in open daylight—remain invisible—or inviolate.

All the Vidocq talents of the country seem engaged in microscopy. No trail is too obscure for the bloodhounds of research. But crime's vivid spoor strangely baffles the sharpest headquarters' eyes.

Sin is not only paying record wages, but apparently handing out juicy bits on the side. The grey wolves of politics are taking their vulpine share, and ugly whispers of connivance with outlaw interests even pollute the courtroom.

Assassination, kidnaping and extortion are now more prevalent in these United States than in the Dark Ages. They have become organized sources of livelihood, just as the trade of "bravo" was a recognized profession throughout Renaissance Italy.

Violence is roving streets and highways, pouncing upon payrolls and bank collections, as brazenly as Rhine barons once raided goods-trains and pilfered the packs of traveling merchants.

Pint-selling bootleggers begin to fill the "life" cells of state penitentiaries—but the snares of justice and the traplines of Prohibition continue empty of big game.

A new generation is maturing in utter contempt of the community's punitive power.

An outfit of knee-pants burglars has just been caught in Illinois. A 12-year lad is the oldest in the lot. Each of them was a gun-toter and confessedly prepared to shoot his way to freedom.

The unchecked spread of homicide and banditry suggests that society can well afford to abate its pursuit of criminal germs and untamed energies, to devote more of its investigative genius to the underworld.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 8.—Thoughts while strolling: A drum and banjo "hospital." Who remembers when neck was a noun? Rarely see a white wing on New York streets anymore. Unknown civic poo-bahs with motorcycle escorts. Fannie Brice and her new husband. The long and short of it.

Candy "initialed to order"—$5 a pound. The famous western gambler with a drooping eyelid. A wailing prayer from a synagogue. E. N. Hurley, who held a big job—I forget what—during the war. What's become of Lillian Lorraine? Chop suey cafes with all star revues. Moe Ducore, the Broadway druggist.

Mary Hay is thinner. Hair parlor sign: "Hollywood white rinse." One of those privately tutored boys with buck teeth and flaring translucent ears. Visiting movie stars in rented Rolls. C. A. Hughes—ask anyone in Detroit. Russel Crouse, a Cincinnati, O., boy, who made good in the city.

Dorman stealing a puff in doorways. A honey store. Sneeze, a singing favorite in the cabarets. Those hard-boiled top kick army boys with a perpetual scowl. Doesn't George Jean Nathan ever like a show? Sign in a cheap chinaware store: "Combination finger bowls and soap dishes."

Dark skinned Sicilians with poisonous green and pink ties. And striped silk vests. A taxi crash—and enough swearing for another act for "The Front Page." Julius Tannen's bearskin coat. Always sales of trunks and leather goods. The former Fifi Widener. Lindy, the cafe man.

Greek coffee shop proprietors with handle-bar mustaches. The flood of Chaplin cigaret-endorsing billboards atop skyscrapers. Cheap publicity. Meticulous diners who scour utensils with napkins before eating. Sinclair Lewis and his wife leaving the Brevoort.

A sale of bean pot lampshades. I don't know either. The brass tablet on Mark Twain's home. The beauty of the Arch at sunset. Basement dining rooms and ancient, silent butlers. Ben Hecht. Prowling cats. Babe Ruth will soon be knocking the apple over the garden wall. Who'll have a Horton?

A cafe in Mulberry street, famed for Italian dishes, has many patrons among opera stars who come for food, a game of chess and perhaps a goblet of chianti. Love in a cottage was widely exploited several years ago with the marriage of an extremely rich man's daughter to a penniless youth. With commendable independence they went to live in a $40 a month suburban home. He worked for $25 a week in a factory and for two years their union was idyllic. The girl's father was convinced the boy had the right stuff and gave him a $20,000 a year post in one of his enterprises. Two months later, the marriage went on the rocks, the girl returned to her family and the husband became a Broadway play boy. Every night he is seen there hitting the high spots.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

AT TIMES you feel spiritless and discouraged.

If you were asked why, you could not explain it.

Affairs running same as usual.

No more to worry you than in the past.

Prospects bright, business increasing.

You wonder what has come over you.

But isn't it the monotony of life that is getting you?

You have allowed yourself to get in a rut and made no effort to get out.

You are not reading; you are not talking with persons who can give you refreshing thoughts.

Your family might help in that line, but you are so morose that they avoid you for fear of open combat.

You don't feel mean, however, but just depressed.

Naturally the outlook is drab.

Modernize yourself.

Don't live in the past, but get thoughts from the present-inventions; new ideas along many lines, good and wholesome and interesting facts of science.
